Thursday, May 18

Last Thursday evening, as Miss Emma Maxwell was returning home from visiting her sister, she encountered a bear in a swamp. As it attacked her, she ran back a short distance and not knowing what it was she again attempted to proceed, but the animal refused to allow her to pass so she ran back to a neighbouring house and got a lantern and started on again. When she came to where she first met the bear he was quietly seated on a log. She flashed the light in his face when he leaped down and away in the woods. The young lady certainly deserves praise for bravery; not many men would have been so bold.—Monitor.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION AT MARKDALE.

The first holiday in the year coming, as it does, upon the heels of a long winter, had the effect of bringing together a great number of people to enjoy the sports and pastime provided at Markdale. For many days previous great preparations had been on the Guelph Agricultural Society's show grounds for the sports. A substantial seven foot close board fence had been built around the grounds by many willing hands. Courses for racing, jumping, &c., had been ploughed and roped in, and altogether the space provided for the exhibition was all that could be desired. Many of the stores and hotels were decorated with evergreens and flags, and Markdale was alive. From the arrival of the morning train up to noon visitors flocked into to village in bodies from two to twenty strong. Vehicles of new patterns and superior finish looked as if they had just been turned out of either McKenna's or else out of Shanahan's workshops, camp rolling in filled with youth and age bearing bright faces, following in their wake might be seen a motley collection of vehicles, some at the tails of oxen and others drawn by poor, miserable, half-starved horses. Some on foot and some in vehicles the crowd arrived, and by the time the Calithumians filed past in procession the streets were pretty well filled. The noble order of Calithumians were not a numerous body, but what they lacked in numbers they made up in originality and color. In full costume they thrice paraded the streets. "Twas not Captain Zuercher's drilling that saved disaster and confusion among the ranks. Soon after noon the people made for the sports ground and after the usual delay in making a fair start, an excellent programme of sports was gone through as may be judged from the following list of results:

100 yard race, 1 Jas. McDougall, 2 Neil McGregor.
100 yd. race, men over 50 years, 1 John Reid, 2 A. Dransby.
100 yd. race, boys under 16 years, 1 Albert Richardson, 2 R. T. Sproule.
100 yd. race, boys under 12 years, 1 J. Wilson, 2 J. Fleming.
200 yd. hurdle race, 1 T. Mullaney, 2 McDougall.
2 mile race, 1 J. McKinn, 2 J. McDougall, 3 J. McMillan.
Egg race, 1 J. Elliot, 2 McDougall, 3 McGregor.
Sack race, 1 McGregor, 2 McMillan, 3 McDougall.

Run hop step and jump, 1 McGregor, 2 McDougall.
Running jump, 1 McGregor, 2 McDougall.
Running high jump, 1 McDougall, 2 McGregor.
Running high jump, boys under 14, 1 R. Sproule, 2 R. Benson.
Boys' consolation race, 1 R. Douglas, 2 F. Richardson.
Vaulting, 1 McGregor, 2 McDougall.
Putting 14 lb. shot, 1 J. Campbell, 2 J. Kelly, H. Van Halbe.
Putting 21 lb. shot, 1 J. Campbell, 2 J. Davis.
Coddling, 1 W. Galbraith, 2 J. Benson.
The dancing platform did not get a moment's rest. The famous violin player, Mr. Allan Park took up his position as master of ceremonies and produced music to which very many tripped the light fantastic to their heart's content.

Altogether, in spite of the cold which prevailed, everybody was happy, if not certainly was not the fault of the indefatigable secretary, Mr. A. Turner, and the committee, who, busy as they were, doing their best to keep mirth and enjoyment uppermost.
There were about nine hundred entered the gates to the grounds. Mr. James McDougall, of Markdale, and Neil McGregor, of Chatsworth, carried off the greatest number of prizes.

CONCERT AT DUFFERIN HALL, MARKDALE.

The Queen's birthday holiday was taken full advantage of by the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church, who on that day arranged in a highly satisfactory manner their annual bazaar and entertainment.
In the morning the British colours were hoisted (wrong way up) on the top of Dufferin Hall, and busy hands were within the building giving the final touch to the many useful and ornamental articles which loaded the stalls and the wall of the building. Goods realised fair prices, and although a considerable quantity of articles were left over, forming the nucleus of a future bazaar, still a good round sum was the result.
In the evening the concert was held in the same building, and a well-arranged programme of instrumental and vocal music, readings, recitations, &c., was given through in the presence of a crowded house. The chair was taken by Mr. McFarland, who briefly alluded to the fitness of thus honoring the birthday of our beloved Queen, and wh severities and actions were admitted

FROM MARKDALE TO WINNIPEG.

We left Toronto at 11:30 p.m., May 2nd, by Credit Valley railway. There was no excursion on account of the floods; however, we were not to be balked any longer, and after getting our tickets we found ourselves passing rapidly towards the Prairie Province, passing through a section of splendid country to St. Thomas, and found vegetation far in advance of any north of Toronto, splendid crops of fall wheat. One good feature in our journey was a single change and the only detention was at St. Vincent. We reached the steamer Selkirk and the ladies got a cabin passage, while the men walked about a mile through the mud and to a point opposite the red elevator, the water had run up to the level of many of the houses and a lot of their kitchen utensils floated away.

and, to a great extent, copied the wide world over. Twenty-one years did her majestic glory married life, and now 21 years had she spent in lonely widowhood. The choir commenced the musical portion of the programme by singing the 'Gloria', and 'Ave Maria', they also sang another 'Gloria' and a quartette later in the evening, Mr. Theo. Hall and W. Davis gave readings. Instrumental music was given by Prof. Thurston and also by Miss Davis. Mr. McDougall was to the fore, as usual, with comic recitations, his Yorkshireman was however, scarcely 'to the manner born.' Mr Clark recited a 'solid' piece entitled 'The Philosopher's Scales.' Vocal music comprised the rest of the programme. The solo of the song and chorus 'Sir Joseph Pinter, K.C.B.' from the opera H.M.S. Pinafore, was sung by Mr. T. Henry, accompanied on the organ by Miss Ford. Miss Christo sang 'Waiting for the side.' Mrs Palmer 'At the Gate.' The gem of the evening was 'Strangers Yet,' sweetly rendered by Miss Philp, accompanied by Miss Richardson. Markdale vocalists must look to their laurels, or else for real good music Flesherton will be taking the palm. Miss Boddy sang, but owing to lack of unity between the singer and the player, a beautiful song was marred. A trio from H.M.S. Pinafore between Josephine, Cap. Corcoran and Sir Joseph, was well handled by Miss Ford, Messrs. Caesar and Henry. Owing to a severe attack of cold, Mr. Caesar was unable to take his solo, which was taken by Mr. Henry, thus rendering somewhat complicated to an audience the beautiful trio. In a duet with Miss Hollingshead, Mr. Caesar was compelled to take a piece in which his part was comparatively light, and occasionally his voice failed him altogether. He sang with considerable pride to himself. The programme concluded with a song by Mrs. Brown, 'The Filigree Wife,' which brought down the house.
In the interval a monster story cake was cut and distributed among the audience. It was announced that the cake contained a gold ring, a 5 cent piece, and a penny, but a button, 10 cent piece were readily exchanged for a slice of the cake, and a winner of a gold ring. A gentleman present, who had for three or four days been fruitless trying to cure a cold, who had taken enough lozenges, lemon cream, and a lot of concoctions from Turner's drug store, enough, in fact, to make half-a-dozen ordinary robust men sick for weeks—just bought a slice 'for the fun of the thing,' and handed it to a friend sitting next him. The friend noticed that just as he lifted the slice had fallen off, remaining on the plate. Said the friend, 'Take it all, the ring is in that bit.' The purchaser took the bit, and lo! it hidden within its sweet, doughy shell, lay the kernel of gold. The fact was not 'passed abroad,' but the tickets should fall en route to the treasury, but when at length the chairman called the lucky finder to his feet Mr. Caesar, our respected station agent across, as I dutifully make a speech after the style of the Greek philosopher, 'Eureka! I have it!' He was called to the platform, where he exhibited the 16 carat gold ring.
The total receipts for this day amounted to $109.00, besides nearly $10 given. This added to the Social fund of about $60, and after deducting some $25 expenses, gives some $150 towards the Ladies' fund.

WHAT WE WOULD LIKE TO SEE.

Better roads in and out of the town. Fewer dogs. More subscribers. Premises, back and front, made clean and smart. More boys' clerks off the sidewalks. The man-trap close portals of sidewalk fastened down. A good 6 ft. sidewalk down the depot. A good walk from the road to the depot. Some of the empty shops lot to good tenants.

THE RECENT REVIVAL.
Sir—I am surprised to find that you now declines to carry on the discussion on infant sprinkling to which I challenged you. Certainly the affair should, according to all precedent, open the discussion. His excuse of not having time to write an essay on infant sprinkling is rather thin since on our first time-transverse objections, which were, I think, likely to take much time as his essay. But I can suggest a plan by which the matter can be settled very quickly, and that is for him to supply for me a chapter and verse in the Scriptures where the subject is mentioned; this he can do upon half a sheet of note paper. Why does he want to know what position I take upon the several matters he has introduced, matters having nothing to do with the single proposition he has endeavored to introduce, and which I am sure he is as competent to answer. Now, if he wishes me to discuss infant sprinkling in a public hall, let him make the attempt to prove it as a valid method, and I promise that I will furnish him with plenty of objections to exercise his mind upon for a few minutes to come. But if he will not affirm his own proposition, there need be no further correspondence between us, as I have nothing of affirming any negative proposition. He appears to want to discuss the matter on questions very badly. We'll see how well he will prove that sprinkling is both valid and scriptural. There will be no trouble with me on the matter of believers, as I think I shall be able to state that that must be given up.

THE 21st AT S. S. No. 6.

It is the holiday was taken the afternoon of not only by the neighbors, but also by many of the residents to 8 and 10 miles around. Altogether some 150 congregated at the section, intent upon having a day's sport. A picnic had been arranged, and a picnic more successful, or more satisfactory affair ever responded in our was at. It is intended to continue this to celebrate the Queen's birthday annually. Great praise is due to the ladies for the manner in which the tea was prepared, the little bit of check in provided 'excellent picnic'; the abundance of tea and lemonade was thoroughly appreciated, swings had been erected and were utilized to a great extent, many thanks to the boys for their thoughtfulfulness. Croquet and baseball occupied the attentions of many of the party. There was also a programme of music, singing, recitations, dialogues, &c., all of which was gone through very creditably, in fact, quite equal to that given in many places of far greater pretensions than S. S. No. 6. The chair was ably taken by Mr. James Welsh. Singing by the Misses Walker; Reading by Miss Bailey, Mr. J. W. Whitty, Mr. R. McBen; Music by Miss J. Walker, J. W. Whitty; Recitation by Miss E. Gallagher; Dialogue by Messrs. A. Smith and J. Walker, also by Miss E. J. Bailey and Mr. J. W. Whitty; Instrumental music by Mr. J. and Miss J. Walker.

That it pays to take a local paper is proved by the following fact—one instance, doubtless, of many similar which never reach our ears. A farmer living some 10 miles hence, and taking five papers, read only in the local paper that special tickets at the G. G. & B. would be issued on the T. G. & B. on the 24th May. He had previously decided to go to Toronto, and the 'revelation' of this information, on the obtainable in the local paper, enabled him to save the equivalent to two years' subscription to the paper. He utilized the knowledge gleaned from these columns, and then came round to the office, and renewed his subscription. It pays, in many cases 10 and 20 fold to take a local paper.

Our little party enjoyed it all immensely. After the moon got aboard we had a sail of twelve to get across about two miles. After we reached the Joe river bridge the train met us, and after some little delay and road repairing, took us to Winnipeg, which we reached at 10 on Friday. There was a report current on the train that a family was starving in the hills. I investigated and found there were two trains of cattle and horses lying over that could not be forwarded on account of the floods, also about 300 head of horses and cattle at St. Vincent, and there is a boat at every dock in the flats. The water has not been so high for twenty years; lots of houses submerged in Winnipeg, but no danger there. We passed the wreck of a train where a broken rail had thrown off the engine which was backing, the engine was thrown across the track and rolled over on the engine driver, crushing him to pieces; the fireman was not so lucky. I am very favorably deceived about the quality of the land between Emerson and Winnipeg. I thought the Americans had all the good land in the west but if the land improves as the pioneer goes west, it will be an Eden, and if I do not make money here I can honestly say that it is a fine country and Winnipeg is a great city. Half of the reports that you get are great fabrications. Of course everything is light, and on account of the vast extent there is no material to start building operations. But that will not be long; there are lots of men on the job, and they will get all they can do very soon. I do not think that the labor market will be overtaxed here. There are too many dandies here, when their pocket becomes light they will come to the mark and throw off their coat.
