A Story for the Marines.

There was a Russian fellow that had a nd-pit all of his own, right in front of our enches. I never saw anybody so persering as that man was. Early in the mornhe'd be popping away, and there he'd w until nightfall, taking his food with m into the pit. He seemed to take a real easure in it, and as he was a very fine shot d never let us get much of a chance at m, he was not a popular character in the vanced trenches. Many a good fellow he nt to glory. It got such a nuisance that e dropped shells at him now and again. at he minded them no mere than if they ad been so many oranges. One day I was own in the trenches, when Col. Mancor, of e Forty-eighth, -a splendid shot and a eat man for sport-came along. A party ith a Sergeant were at work, and just as e Colonel came up, one of them dropped ith a ball through his head. "Deuced good ot! Who fired that?" says the Colonel, tting up his eye-glass. " Man in the rifle t to the left, Sir," answers the Sergeant. Never saw a neater shot," says the olonel. "He only showed for a moment. nd wouldn't have shown then only that e edge of the trench is a bit worn away. oes he often shoot like that?" "Terribly angerous man," replies the Sergeant; kills more than all the guns in the Redan. Now, Major," says the Colonel, turning another officer who was with him, What's the odds against my picking him "In how long?" "Within ten min-" "Two to one, in ponies, I'll give ou," says the Major. "Say three, and it's

The Czar and Czarina Dancing.

Recently in the English Palace at Peter off, there was a ball in favor of the asylum or aged and crippled soldiers, established in memory of the Emperor Nicholas I. Their imperial Majesties, the Emperor and Empress were pleased to be present. There were also the Queen of Greece, the Grand Dukes Serge and Paul, the Grand Duchess Alexandria Josephovna with her two sons, the Duke of Leicetenberg and the Prince of Oldenburg. The tickets were sold to everybody without any restriction. Such balls are held in the English Palace annually, but this ball surpassed those of former years by its brilliant decorations and genuine merriment. Ail the rooms of the palace were profusely ornamented with tropical plants from the imperial hot-houses. In the dancing room a portrait of Nicholas, in full size, intil the vessel was out of reach of the and the effect was that the late Emperor appeared gazing at the dancing parties. At 10 o'clock the Queen of Greece arrived and opened the ball. At half past 10 their Majestics, the Emperor and the Empress, appeared. The Emperor wore the uniform of the Finn Guards, and the Empress wore a dress of bright rose satim embroidered with rich lace and white pearls. On her head she had a diadem ornamented with eight large diamonds. Their Majesties were met by the Princess of Oldenburg, and all the managers of the ball. Gen. Arapoff had the happiness to present the Empress with a beautiful bouquet. Then their Majesties went into the dancing room and graciously took part in the dancing. Both the Emperor and Empress favored many of those present with their gracious conversation. At half past 12 they left the ball, which continued till 4 a. m. Pecuniarily considered this ball was also a great success .- From the St. Petersburg Pravitelstvenny Vestnik.

Population of the Globe.

The population of the earth has long been a fascinating study for statisticians Behmand Wagner, who have just published an emended edition of a former work in Germany. They give the total as 1,433,887,500-which is about 23,000,000 less than their estimates of two years ago. They have concluded that China has 50,000,000 less than they formerly supposed. There has thus been an actual increase of about 38,000,000 in the population of the globe-an increase, however, which must be spread over ten years, as many of the recent censuses are decennial. For Europe the present population 18 327,743,400, showing an increase of about 12,000,000 over the previous figures by the operation of the censuses. In Asia, making allowance for the readjustment of the population of China, there has been an increase of 20,000,000, the present population being set down at 795,591,000. Of conrse the estimates must sometimes be a little better than guesses, for example, for such places as Africa. For this continent Dr. Rohlfs maintains that the estimate of 100,000,000 is quite enough, while Behm and Wagner retain the old figure of 200,000,000 with considerable hesitation.

TORMENT, INDEED.

Life's vexations do not generally come on one like a storm descending the mountain or like a whirlwind; they come as the rain does in some sections of the world—gently, but every day. One of life's discomforts is presented herewith:

According to popular impression, hot weather, mosquitoes and mad dogs all flourish at the same time and are chargeable to the malefic influence of the Dog Star. Speaking of dogs and the Dog Star reminds us of a boy's story of a dog and the comet, and which we here give and which we here give in a short extract from the boy's letter: "Golly, Bob, you ought to ha' been there last night to a-seen the fun. Tom Winkins' dorg Toddles was a-settin' at the gate a-gazin' at the Comit, when along comes old Sykes durned rat tar-

Sykes durned rat tarrier and the 2 waltzed over the fence and the 2 fought. The tarrier proved too much for Toddles, and afore they could haul him off the battle ground he had made a good square meal off his hide. Tom was in despair. A kind looking gentleman in a broad brim hat told him to get a bottle of Sr. Jacobs Oil and rub him with it, and it would cure him in no time. What does Tom do but steal into the chapel at Vesper time and slide into Father Jacobs confessional box and beg of him a bottle of his oil with which to rub his dorg. The Father felt of Tom's head; it was hot an' afore Tom could utter a prayer, two men were luggin' him home followed by a great crowd, who kept at a safe distance, thinking he had been bit by a mad dorg. The more he kicked and screamed to be let free, the tighter they held on to him." In reference to another torment, the Chicago Western Catholic recently wrote: "Mr. Joel D. Harvey, U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue, of this city, has spent over two thousand dollars on medicine for his wife, who was suffering dreadfully from rheumatism, and without dollars on medicine for his wife, who was suffering dreadfully from rheumatism, and without deriving any benefit whatever; yet two bottles of Sr. Jacobs Oil accomplished what the most skillful medical men failed in doing. We could give the names of hundreds who have been cured by this wonderful remedy did space permit us. The latest man who has been made happy through the use of this valuable liniment is Mr. James A. Conlan, librarian of the Union Catholic Library of this city. The following is Mr. Conlan indersement:
