Some carpets will not make, and a decently good carpet will not be finished in less than three months; thus, although there are several factories in and about Karman, the return of carpets is in no way as prompt as Persians themselves prefer. PERSONAL NOTES.

An English explorer named Wood was interested in an assemblage of Britons in London by telling them how he discovered the famous temple at Ephesus. No wonder, it is to afford him the slightest clue to whereabouts. But he hit upon an inscription from the wall of that theatre to which Paul would have entered, but "the disciples suffered him not." This described a certain procession in which certain images were carried from the temple through the city gates. After much search he found the statues, and then at length hit upon the way, worn into groves by the wheels of chariots. Little by little he made progress in the city of Ephesus, until he reached the temple of the great goddess Diana. The fragments of friezes and column drums gave a glimmering idea of what the whole must have been. They are now in the British Museum.

Queen Victoria was exceedingly annoyed at the beginning of her reign by the attentions of gentlemen cranks who attended themselves in love with her, and in some cases pretended that she gave them encouraging glances. One used to assist the Queen at Kensington in order to see the Queen and his phacton was kept in readiness to follow her when she went out. On one occasion when the Queen alighted to take a walk she sprang out and came forward. The Duke of Kent sent a page to request that she would drive off and not annoy the Queen. He refused. They had to re-enter the carriage, and he followed in his.

Sir John A. Macdonald is the sole representative in the present House of Commons of the Parliament of Canada of 1844. Messrs. Bourassa, Daoust, and D. Saulniers were members of the Parliament in 1854; of the Parliament of 1857, the representatives of Sir Hector Langevin, and Hon. John C. Poirer and S. H. Pope. The other members of the House of Commons who sat in Parliament previous to Confederation are Messrs. Mackenzie, 1860; Hon. Blanchet and Mackenzie, 1861; Alozo Wright, 1862; Hon. Neffrin, Pinsonneault, and Thompson, 1863.

Jeanne Bernhardt, a sister of Sarah Bernhardt, too. She appeared at Bordeaux in Sarlou's "Dora," and during the first act pleased the audience fairly, though it is no great actress. When the curtain was to be raised for the second act she was missing. An attack of nervousness had caused her to quit the theatre. She rode about the city three hours in a cab, and then joined her alarmed friends at the hotel. Meaning the audience had received its money back and a bill was posted at the door, "Close on account of a freak of Mlle Bernhardt."

The Prince of Wales has taken the weeks of mineral water and rest at Homburg, drinking from the nauseous spring with scrupulous regularity, keeping each hour, and eating plain food, in order to overcome the effects of London high living. He is now in Scotland for a month of Highland air, and it is hoped that he will be satisfied with the condition for the hunting season. As that will come such arduous public duties, president on ceremonial occasions and dinners.

The widow Callahan may, if she so chooses, put her arms akimbo and say, "I am the largest individual sheep-owner in Texas, with more than fifty thousand in number, wandering over the ranges of Uvalde and Banderas counties, in the southwest part of the State." These peaceful animals are divided into flocks of two thousand each, with a "boss" and two "watchers" in charge of each flock. Happily Widow Callahan!

His Excellency the Governor-General of the Princess Louise opened the Agricultural Show at Victoria, B. C., on Wednesday. In reply to an address the Governor-General advised the people to accept any labor which offered in order to secure the early completion of the railway. He also announced to the President of the Company had informed him of the adoption of the Kicking Horse Pass and the intention to complete the line by Jan. 1, 1887.

England does substantial pecuniary reward to those who render her distinguished service in battle. After the Ashantee war Sir G. Wolsey had a Parliamentary grant of $125,000, and if he comes well out of the Egyptian basin, he will receive another grant, a pension, and a pension, for Queen is averse to creating a poor man peer. After Waterloo the grants to Wellington amounted to $3,500,000; Nelson, near $1,000,000.

The last member of the British royal family regularly embalmed was the Princess Charlotte. The operation took place at the direction of Sergeant Surgeon Sir Edward Home. The process disgusted George IV., and hence was not repeated in the case of other members of the family. In accordance with George III's express wishes, and Queen Charlotte were simply wrapped in one cloth.

In the German military manoeuvres of the year, the Crown Princess rode at the head of the regiment of Hussars of which she is an honorary Colonel. She wore the regular uniform, except that a skirt took the place of trousers, and instead of a sword she carried a riding whip sword.

The Rev. J. C. Sullivan was the elder and respected pastor of the Methodist Church at Salem, O., but he had to resign when he came out that he wrote to young Mrs. B. W. pie, one of his converts: "I hunger for your pointing, pretty, and perfect non-lips to mine."

AN ADINGARPH
BY JOHN D. WHITTIER
I write my name as one
Of winter's frosted o'erturn
Of winter's frosted o'erturn
Traces a record vain.

Oblivion's blankness claims
Wiser and better names.
And with my own may pass
As from the strand or glass
The silence that shall last!

When I and all who know
And love me vanish so,
What harm to them or me
Will the lost memory be?

If any words of mine,
Through light of life divine,
Remain, what matters it?
Whose hand the message writ?

Why should the "crown's quest,"
Sit on my words or best?
Why should the showman claim
The poor ghost of my name?

Yet, as when dies a sound
The lips of lingers round,
Happily my spirit life
Leave some faint echo still.

A whisper giving breath
Of praise or blame to death,
Soothing or saddening such
As loved the living much.

Therefore with yearnings vain
And fond I still would fain
A kindly judgment see
A tender thought bespeak.

And while my words are read,
Let this at least be said:
His life was not his own,
He loved his fellow-creatures.

If, of the Law's stone table,
The hold the scarce was able
The first great precept fast,
He kept for man the last.

Through mortal lapse and dullness
Which lacks the Eternal Fullness,
If still our weakness can
Love Him in loving man!

Age brought him no despairing
Of the world's future faring:
In human nature still
He found more good than ill.

To all who dumbly suffered,
His tongue and pen he offered:
His life was not his own,
Nor lived for self alone.

He loathed the scholar's quiet,
Yet sought the scholar's quiet,
Or poet's dream of beauty,
He strove to do his duty.

He meant no wrong to any,
He sought the good of many,
Yet knew both sin and folly,
May God forgive him wholly!

DAVID AND GOLIATH.
How the Little Fellow Slew the Giant
Champion of the Philistines.

Some one bolted into the hut of Saul and announced that a champion had come forth, and Saul said: "Bring him in." He expected some man fourteen feet high, and lifted his eyes at an angle of 45 degrees. "Where is he?" (surprise). "He is in." "Why, my son, what are you talking about? Go home to your mamma. You must be joking." "Will you just listen to me?" asked little David. "Yes, you're a nice boy; go on." Then said David: "My shepherd kept his father's sheep, and there was a lion and a bear came and took a lamb out of the flock. Thy servant that slew the lion and the bear will take the brains out of this uncircumcised Philistine." Saul began to see the point. "My son, it's a fact. Why didn't I think of it before? Go out and win. But come, let's have a little common sense in this matter. Bring in my armor." And they loaded the little fellow down with 200 or 300 pounds of brass. "I can't wear this, ain't you'd see to sort of thing," said David and he put it off.

Brother, don't you try any of that devil's tricks on you. Trust in the Lord sine cera, money, without a particle of wax, our word is empty. Victory comes not by trusting in the Lord and common sense, not by trusting in the Lord and keeping your powder dry. Trust in the Lord sine cera, just as you are. So David goes out without knowing how to go to fight. He doubtless expected to use his shepherd's staff, as with the lion and the bear, but the Lord showed him a better way. He was compared to a shepherd of the sheep, and that's all the Lord wants to kill Goliath. David gave the giant all the advantage of position. The battle was fought on the ascending slope of the Philistines' hill, Goliath was so full of wrath at the sight of his pigmy antagonist that he lifted his visor to curse him more freely, and that proved his ruin. Our little David slipped a stone in his sling and made it run at him. He didn't stop for a pot shot, but as he ran he just let fly and let God take the stone to its mark. It gave direction to it; it sank into the Philistine's forehead, and down he went. God always directs a smooth stone from the brook when released, and right upon Hm. Goliath dead, all the rest of the Philistines fled. And that is the way to kill Goliath now. From a Sermon by Evangelist Barnes.

A Saint at the Zoo.

Capt. Harry Piper, Alderman and Superintendent of the Zoological Gardens, lately communicated the following facts to a reporter of one of Toronto's most influential papers: "Some time ago we purchased from the collection of animals at Central Park, New York, a monstrous Eussian bear, which we have named 'Peter the Great,' on account of his tremendous size. Not long after 'Peter' arrived we found that he was suffering from the rheumatism, and in a pretty bad state. Pete was not the only one in the 'Zoo' which had a touch of that delicious torture, the lion-like howl had it, and in fact I was just being cured of a bad case of the rheumatism, myself, by the use of St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy. I found St. Jacobs Oil an excellent remedy, for it cured me in a short while, and my case was a very aggravated one. I argued that if it cured men it must be good for animals as well."

Is the calm you have gained a proof of acquired force or of growing weakness? Biliousness, Indigestion, Constipation—all forms of Dyspepsia, yield at once to a few drops of Zepes, the new compound from Brazil. A 10 cent sample proves it.

Vegetine
J. BENTLY, M.D., says:
It has done more good than all medical treatment.

Mr. H. R. STEVENS, Boston, Mass.:
Sir—I have sold during the past year a considerable quantity of your Vegetine, and I believe all cases it has cured. In one case, a delicate young lady of about 17 years was much benefited by its use. Her parents informed me that it had done her more good than all the medical treatment to which she had previously been subjected.

A Fair Exchange.
Will you exchange a chronic state of Dyspepsia, or agree to break up a Bilious Temperament—to give your torpid Liver activity and thus strengthen your Digestion, regain energy, comfort, health and spirits, all for 75c? A single bottle of ZEPESA will do this. A few doses surprise those who try Zepesa. For Biliousness and Dyspepsia in their many forms Zepesa is a Panacea, and is warranted to cure them. It acts speedily and pleasantly. Try a 10 cent sample.

A Word of Caution.
Beware of Opium and Powerful astringent drugs in the treatment of Bowel Complaints, they may lull the pain and check Diarrhoea, etc., but are liable to produce inflammation. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is guaranteed safe and reliable, even for Infants, and is a specific for Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Colic, Acute or Chronic Diarrhoea and Summer Complaints generally.

The huge, drastic, griping, sickening pills are fast being superseded by Dr. Pierce's "Purgative Pellets." Sold by druggists. Buckingham's Dye for the whiskers is an elegant, safe and reliable article, cheap, and convenient for use; will not rub off. Try it. "Mad must work and women weep, So runs the world away!" But they need not weep so much if they use Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," which cures all the painful maladies peculiar to women. Sold by druggists.

PUZZLE.—How is it that Brigg's Electric Oil should reach and successfully treat so many complaints? All nervous diseases yield to its influence in a few minutes when applied externally, and as an internal remedy all are both astonished and pleased.

"VEGETINE," says a Boston physician, "has no equal as a blood purifier. Hearing of its many wonderful cures, after all other remedies had failed, I visited the laboratory and convinced myself of its genuine merit. It is prepared from barks, roots and herbs, each of which is highly effective, and they are compounded in such a manner as to produce astonishing results."

Robert A. Wilson, Dispensing Chemist, Brockville, says, under date of June 3rd, '82, "I have not the slightest hesitation in saying that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has given my customers more satisfaction than any medicine in my store for the cure of Summer Complaints, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Pain in the Stomach Sea Sickness, Piles, etc. You can use my name, etc."

TONY PASTOR IN TROUBLE.

Tony Pastor, of New York, who is now with his intimate variety combination making a tour of the Union, is recognized as the leading character vocalist and variety performer of the United States. The writer of this article met Mr. Pastor recently, and found him as genial in private as he is very popular before the public. During our conversation he mentioned that he had occasionally severe pains, either the result of rheumatism, or of colds, or of some other ailment, but that he had found out a remedy for all such annoying affections. I asked what the remedy was, and he replied, "St. Jacobs Oil." Mr. Pastor said that he considered the Great German Remedy an excellent preparation for the cure or relief of rheumatism, and that it was the only thing using among professional people for that distressing complaint. He took bottles of it with him wherever he went, and when he was troubled with it, he would use it, and he knew that it would cure him. He said that he had been cured of his own case, and he had cured many others. He said that he had been cured of his own case, and he had cured many others. He said that he had been cured of his own case, and he had cured many others.

Vegetine
J. BENTLY, M.D., says:
It has done more good than all medical treatment.

Superior to any Family Medicine.
DOCTORS GAVE HER UP.
VEGETINE CURED HER.

MONTREAL, P. Q., Oct. 22, 1879.
Mr. H. R. STEVENS—Dear Sir,—About fifteen years ago I was troubled with Scrofulous Humor which settled on my lungs and brought on a severe cough. I consulted five or six of the best physicians in Boston, but they gave up treating me, said there was no hope of a cure, and could do nothing more for me. A friend, however, advised me to try your Vegetine, and I procured three bottles, and before finishing the third bottle found myself entirely cured and had not another attack of scrofula for nine years. After that period I had to get some more Vegetine, but it quickly restored me to health again, and I have not had a third attack. I am sixty-nine years old, and since becoming aware of the virtues of your medicine, have given it to my children and grandchildren, and have recommended it to my friends. The results have been invariably all that could be desired. I am a fervent believer in your Vegetine, and I have a cancer removed, and scrofulous sores broke out on me, but none have appeared since, and I believe it is superior to any of the Family Medicines in use.

I can vouch for the above statement in every particular, and consider Vegetine the best Family Medicine now in use.

Vegetine is Sold by all Druggists.

WHAT IS CATARRH?
Catarrh is a mucopurulent discharge caused by the presence and development of the vegetable parasite amoeba in the internal lining membrane of the nose. This parasite is only developed under favorable circumstances, and these are: morbid state of the blood, as the slightest corpuscle of tubercle, the germ poison of syphilis, mercury, toxæmia, from retention of the effete matter of the skin, suppressed perspiration, badly ventilated sleeping apartments, and other poisons that are germinated in the blood. These poisons keep the internal lining membrane of the nose in a constant state of irritation, ever ready for the deposit of the seeds of these germs, which spread up the nostrils and down the fauces or back part of the mouth causing ulceration of the throat; up the eustachian tubes, causing deafness; burrowing in the vocal cords, causing hoarseness, usurping the proper structure of the bronchial tubes ending in pulmonary consumption and death.
To effect a cure the parasite must be removed or destroyed, hence inhalants and snuffs are worthless.
Some time since a well known physician of 40 years standing, after much experimenting, succeeded in discovering the necessary combination of ingredients, which never fails in absolutely and permanently eradicating this horrid disease whether standing for one year or forty years. Sufferers should, without delay, communicate with the business manager, Mr. A. H. Dixon, 367 King St. West, Toronto, and receive free by enclosing stamp. Ask your druggist for it.
