EARS FOR A MILLION

FOO CHOO'S BALSAM OF SHARK'S OIL positively Restores the Hearing, and is the Only Absolute Cure for Deafness known. This Oil is abstracted from peculiar species of small White Shark, caught in the Yellow Sea, known as CARCHARODON RONDELETTI. Every Chinese fisherman knows it. Its virtues as a restorative of hearing were discovered by a Buddhist Priest were discovered about the year 1410. Its cures were so numerous, and many so seemingly miraculous, that the remedy was officially proclaimed over the entire Empire. Its use became so universal, that for over 300 years no Deafness has existed among the Chinese people. Sent, charges prepaid, to any address at $1.00 per bottle.

Hear what the Deaf say: It has performed a miracle in my case. I have no unearthy noises in my head, and hear much better. I have been greatly benefited. My deafness helped a great deal—think another bottle will cure me.

Its virtues are unquestionable and its curative character absolute, as the writer can personally testify, both from experience and observation. Write at once to HAYLOCK and Jenney, 7 Dey Street, New York, enclosing $1 and you will receive by return a remedy that will enable you to hear like anybody else, and whose curative effects will be permanent. You will never regret doing so.—EDITOR OF MERCANTILE REVIEW.

The following romantic story is told by a writer in the Winnipeg Times. We fancy it will puzzle Orillia readers to discover the identity of the hero and heroine of the tale:—About five years ago their lives in the town of Orillia, Ont., a widow 40 years of age. She became greatly attached to a young man, or rather a boy, 18 years of age. She invited the young fellow to her house, made him many handsome presents, and in fact did every thing in her power to win his affections. Several months passed by, and although she had several times resolved to tell him of her love, her courage had always failed her. But love, like murder, will out sooner or later, and one evening she almost took the boys breath away by telling him that she loved him tenderly and truly. She almost fainted when she had spoken the words and clasped him to her breast, and lay sobbing upon his bosom for several minutes. When she recovered she entwined her arms around his neck and whispered "My darling Charlie, will you be mine, or do you wish to break my heart?" Charlie was a boy of good common sense, and knowing her to be worth several thousand dollars, he swore to be true to her till death. Her joy may be much better imagined than told. He proposed that she give him money to go to college for a year, to which she assented. They were married a week or so before he left for the college in Toronto. In that city he had a "high old time" and spent nearly half of the old lady's money. He returned when the year was up, but a few months afterwards proposed that they should remove to Manitoba. He said he would go first and get a house ready for her. She agreed and gave him nearly all the money she had. He came and for two years she had heard nothing of him, although she sent several letters to him and made every inquiry. At last in her despair she resolved to go to Winnipeg and search for him herself. She arrived in the city a couple of weeks ago, and after being in the city a couple of days she met him on the street. Instead of calling him false and heartless, she hung upon his neck and wept tears of joy. But the young husband, who is no longer "My Darling Charlie," was very angry at her for coming after him, and commanded her to return home, and never to trouble him again. He said he did not love her, but had only fooled her from the first. The shock was too much for the poor old lady, and she had to be taken to her hotel in a cab, and she now lies in a very precarious condition, suffering it is said, from brain fever. Her heartless husband has refused to see her, but expresses he hope that she will die. It appears that when he arrived here he commenced to speculate, and is now worth over $100,000. He is engaged to a young lady in this city, and for that reason is anxious to get rid of his first "love." He has offered to give her $10,000 if she will go home and not trouble him, but the old lady has treated his offer with righteous contempt.
