The slayer of Capt. Nutt is himself slain, and now lies lifeless in the same room at the hotel in which the tragedy of Dec. 24th last was enacted. The slayer this time is James Nutt, Capt. Nutt's eldest son, who is now in jail. Just as dusk was drawing on and many people were passing along the street, the sound of five pistol shots rang out upon the air in the direction of the Post Office. In a moment everybody was running to the scene, and word quickly passed along that Dukes was dead. The excited crowd gathered around the Post Office, and there on the floor lay the lifeless body of Nicholas Lyman Dukes. The work was done so quickly, and so paralyzing was its effect upon those who witnessed it that it was difficult to get the correct story. Officers Frank Pegg, Geo. B. Hutchins, Alf. Collins, and others who saw the occurrence describe it as follows:

James Nutt was standing against a post inside of a room that joins the Post Office and fronts on Main street. The room was until lately occupied by a drug store, and the front wall taken out, it being now fitted up for a room for the First National Bank. While standing there Dukes came down the street from the direction of the Jennings Hotel, walking briskly, with a cane under his arm. Just as he turned the corner toward the Post Office door, young Nutt stepped outside, pulled a revolver, and fired two shots at him in rapid succession. Dukes looked around, and started to run into the Post Office door, whereupon Nutt fired again and followed in close pursuit. Just as Dukes got inside the Post Office his assailant fired two more shots, and Dukes fell heavily to the floor upon his face.

E. A. Lingo rushed into the office and stooped to pick him up. Dukes tried to say something, but could only gasp, and in a moment he was dead. By this time officer Pegg reached young Nutt and laid hold of him. The latter struggled fiercely to free himself, but when he discovered it was an officer he quietly yielded, and was taken to the jail. Dukes' body was removed to his room at the hotel, where Coroner Sturgeon impanelled a jury. No testimony was taken, owing to the difficulty of getting witnessess, and the inquest was adjourned until next morning at 9 o'clock.

On examining the body it was found that three of the bails entered the back near the side under the left arm and penetrated toward the heart, lodging in the breast very near the skip, where they were cut out. They all three entered within two or three inches of each other. On Duke's body was found his old pistol, the one with which he killed Nutt, and hanging to his suspender button in front was a dirk-knife. The pistol used by young Nutt was a 42-calibre Smith and Wesson. He had in his pocket another smaller pistol, which he refused to surrender to Officer Pegg, but gave it to Officer Martin. A fourth ball slightly grazed Dukes's leg near the foot, while the fifth missed its aim, passed through one of the Post Office lock boxes.

The revolver with which the shooting was done is the same that Capt. Nutt carried on the morning of his death. Young Nutt it was evident what had become of the calm, but as pale as a sheet. Excitement | ed shelf-wise across the foot of the sick is running high.

The causes leading to the tragedy were as follows:

Capt. A. C. Nutt, cashier of the Pennsylvania State Treasury, was shot and instantly 1882, by N. L. Dukes, a leading lawyer and Nutt through the head. The wounded man fell into his nephew's arms and expired in a few moments. Dukes walked to the Sheriff's office and surrendered himself.

Dukes' trial opened at Uniontown on March 12, 1883. Letters between Dukes and Nutt were produced in evidence concerning the former's intimac; with Miss Lizzie Nutt. Dukes admitted the intimacy, but alleged that the young woman encouraged him, claimed that other men whom he named bore the same relations towards her, and said that under similar circumstances Nutt would have been guilty of the same conduct. In his reply Nutt said:

"If I had invaded the sanctity of a home, as you have confessed to doing, I would hold myself fit only to be shot. When I cross the threshold of a man's door and become the guest of his family or any member of it, his wife and daughters are as sacred to me socially as my own. I have the physical courage to seek you out and give you the al. her," So the kind-hearted park official came ternative of repairing the ruin which you have wrought or suffering death. It remains with you whether there shall be a legal farce or a tragedy. You cannot escape from me or evade me. Leaving Uniontown when I go there will not avail you. I will be home again on the 23rd."

Dukes replied by applying an offensive epithet to Nutt's daughter, and said he would be justified by Nutt's letter in shooting him on sight. He appointed the meeting with him at which the tragedy took place. He said he thought the meeting would result in an amicable understanding Breckenbridge was the principal witness at the trial. Two others described the shooting. After being out a short time the jury returned a verdict of not guilty, though Judge Wilson's charge was distinctly against Dukes. "The verdict is one that gives dissatisfaction to the Court," Judge Wilson said, after it was announced, "because we thought the evidence sufficient to justify a different verdict. The prisoner is discharg-

An indignation meeting of the citizens was held the next night, and circulars signed by leading citizens were posted denouncing seems as how she is behavin' of herself Dukes as an assassin. He was hanged in effigy from telegraph poles and gas lamps in extremes."

a dozen different places. He was permitted to resing his seat in the legislature.

No Chance to Shoot.

One Sunday afternoon, at a hotel in Alabama, we were talking about how great disappointments sometimes soured a man, when a chap who had been chewing plug tobacco all by himself over by the window turned around and said: "Gentlemen, you've hit it plumb centre! Up to four years ago I was a man who allus. wore a grin on his face, and I'd divide my last chaw with a stranger. Folks now call me mean and ugly, and I kin hardly get a man to drink with me."

"Then you have suffered a great disappointment?" I queried. "I have, stranger-I have. Ten years ago a man in this very town cleaned me out on a mortgage, sold me out on an execution, and chuckled when I took the dirt road for Tennessee. I orter have shot him, but somehow I didn't do it, and arter I got to Tennessee things began preying on my mind. Day and night I could hear a voice saying: 'Go back and pluck old Brown,' and I lost flesh and came powerful near going into a decline."

"Well, that voice kept talking and I kept waiting, but in about three years I shouldered my rifle and turned my steps this way, my mind fully made up to shoot old Brown on sight. He had a patch o' land out west o' here, and used to ride out every day. I made for that spot, calkerlating to biff him as he drove up to the gate. Nobody had seen me, and nobody would know who did the shooting."

"Yes?" some one answered as he made a

"Well, I got fixed and waited, and I was feeling real good for the first time in three years when I heard hoofs and looked out for the old man. It wasn't him. True as you sot there the old skinflint had gone and died only a week before, giving me a tramp of 200 miles to say 'howdy? to his executor! Gentlemen, I can't describe my feelings! Just think of one white man playing such a trick on another! It was wuss than Arkansaw mud warmed over for next season. I was took with shakes and chills and a cough, and here I am, sour, cross, mulish, ugly, and realizing that I don't stand no more show of going to heaven when I die than that thar' dog doos of swallowing a postoffice without any preliminary chaw-

A Sad Story of London (England) Life.

A little girl had been apprehended for stealing plants from a South London Park.

The address she gave was at a house in a squalid back street in the borough—at least a couple of miles from the park where she had purloined the snowdrops, and it was soon discovered that the tale the child told as to her mother being ill was quite true. The poor creature was found confined to her bed in a dark and miserably-furnished back room, and there she had lain dying of consumption since last winter set in. The father was in prison, and the sick woman's only means of support were her two children, respectively two and four years older than the child in custody, and they all earned a few pence each daily by selling cigar lights near London bridge. At a glance gave himself up, and is now in jail. He was stolen flowers. A piece of board was fastenwoman's bedstead. and on it, in three or four old gallipots, were as many bunches of crocuses, snowdops, and wall flowers, each in a setting of green grass. The poor invalid had not the least suspicion that they killed in Uniontown on Sunday, Dec. 24, | had been dishonestly obtained, and the person inquiring being in unofficial costume and a member elect of the Legislature. The perceiving her condition charitably refrained tragedy grew out of Dukes's alleged impro- from enlightening her. "You are looking per intimacy with Capt. Nutt's eldest at my garden, sir," her white face lighting daughter. Nutt, accompanied by his ne- with a wan smile. "They are wild flowers, phew, Breckenbridge, went to Dukes's room | sir, so my little girl tells me, but she has to in the Jennings House by appointment. go ever so far to pick 'em. When the win-Nutt entered the room, but Breckenbridge i ter weather went away and the sun came out remained outside. A scuffle followed be- I began to feel a craving for the sight and tween Nutt and Dukes, and Breckenbridge | smell of fresh flowers that I couldn't express entered and endeavored to separate them. I it if I had tried. It is through lying here so A man connected with the hotel ran in. He | many weeks so dreary and dull and so many found Breckenbridge holding Nutt. He at | hours all by myself, I suppose; but I knew once seized Dukes and succeeded in getting it was no use thinking about 'em at the price him into a corner of the room. At this mo- I they are when they first come in the spring, ment Dukes raised his revolver and shot I though I couldn't help thinking and saying that if I had a few I felt sure they would do me more good than all the physic. And so without saying a word about it to anybody, my little Kitty—a mere mite of 7, sir—she gets up at five in the morning, and before breakfast time she's back with as pretty a bunch as ever you set eyes on. They didn't last long, poor things, in this stuffy little 'em here out of the fields where they grow, but there's thousands of 'em there Kitty tells me, and I don't think that those who have their health to go and see 'em growing would grudge me just a few brought away for my share." "No one certainly would, supposing the little girl you speak of comes by them honestly," the visitor returned. "No fear about that, sir," replied the sick mother confidently. "Why, I happened only to say something like what you just said when she brought home the first lot, and she fell crying so that I didn't know what to do with away with his original purpose unfulfilled. and the magistrate being informed of the circumstances discharged the terrified little prisoner with a caution. Whether she ran home and made confession I cannot say; but unless she did so within a week it was too late, for at the end of no longer an interval she was motherless, and it was my privilege to assist in placing Kicty and her two sisters in a country home, far removed from the vice and temptations of London streets, and where wild flowers in plenty may be

> That the craze for acting among the "upper ten" of London city is pretty strong, the following note from one manager to another appears to prove : "My Dear B-, I am in immediate want of several 'guests' for my coming revival. I should be much obliged to you, therefore, if you would kindly send me two or three earls at your earliest convenience."

had for the picking.

Gentleman (by a request of lady): "Conductor, put that lady off at the next corner." Polite new conductor-" Excuse me, sir: don't seem no occasion for preceeding to

GARNERED WITTICISMS.

What is a quarter of 6? 5.45. "The miscellaneous" is the new name for

We don't buy our coal at any half weigh A nannie goat is a milker and a billy goat is a butter. "What did the paper weight for?" Had to, it was stationary. There seems to be no call for an exhibition of grief at a circus. Yet the audience is always in tiers. Is the composer of "The Maiden's Prayer" living?-Subscriber. No; put up your shotgun. He's dead. A man should not become so rich as to have an avenue named for him. It would always be his (s)treet. Did you ever notice how many y's the Welsh use in their words? And did it strike you that it takes a y's man to read one of their newspapers. There are seven thousand species of fish known to men of science. The man of science must be a blamed sight luckier than the average fisherman. Brown, being invited to assist at his friend Robinson's wedding, said he could not give the bride away, but he could give the groom dead away if occasion required. A burglar who had climbed up to a garret window on a ladder is arrested by a voice shouting: "Hello, there, what do you want?" "May I ask you for a glass of fresh water?" The meanest man we have heard of this season is the fellow who telegraphed his sympathy to a friend who had lost everything in speculation, and made him pay for the message.

"Lake Shorge," he said, "ish a fine blaze -finer like silk, bud der prizes are doo high like as Trinity steebles. Dot ish vy, my tear poy, I go mit my familie to der Vite moundains.'

The bloodhounds in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" have commenced to fight on the stage in presence of the audience. They should imitate the example of some other "star" actors, and do their fighting behind the

There is one good thing about this 2-cent postage. The swarms of spring poets won't be compelled to face the dreadful fact that the stamp on the envelope is worth three times as much as the poem inside. It will only be worth twice as much.

More disgrace for this country? It has been discovered that Mr. Whistler, the London artist, who shuts his eyes, dabs a gob of paint on a piece of canvas, and call the effect an "arrangement in black," or a "nocturne," and asks $2,000 for the work of art, was born in America!

Correct—Two men were standing at the bar when one of the rounders came in for a drink. As he departed one of the men exclaimed: "Cæsar, what a nose! Did you see it?" "Whose nose!" "That fellow who just went out; he's got a nose on him like a beet!" "That's what he is!" sententiously remarked the barkeeper.

A Boston man clung to a friendly lamppost in the vicinity of the University Club, and, as he made several ineffectual attempts to stop the drug store on the corner, under the impression that it was a horse-car, exclaimed: "If (hic) there'sh anything (hic) that I (hic) despise, it'sh one thing (hic) more'n 'nother." The drug store continued to whirl around until a policeman came along. *

A reverend gentleman who has the reputation of making felicitous puns and droll remarks rejoices in three initials of his name. the middle one being M. "Did you ever know my middle name?" he inquired of a friend. "It is a very odd one, and would take you nearly all winter to think it out." "Then I won't begin. What is it?" "Midwinter." "Queer enough," remarked his companion. "Rather unusual. You were named after some very dear friend of your father, 1 suppose?" "Yes," said the doctor, "a very dear friend indeed-my

The Order of the Garter.

It is a curious circumstance in English administrative annals that, during a tenure of office which has lasted close on three years and a half, Mr. Gladstone, until the death of Lord Harrowby, had but one garter to dispose of, whereas no fewer than five of the present knights date from the short period of Conservative rule in 1866-68, which lasted room, and it seems almost a shame to bring less than two years and a half. Several foreign princes have been admitted to the order since 1874, the last being the King of Saxony; but these are extra knights, twenty-five ribbons having been reserved for subjects, not descendants of George II., by the statute of 1805. How eagerly the garter has been sought for is matter of history. For five centuries it may be said to have been "the last infirmity of noble mind" in England, and since 1603 in Scotland, too. James I., while as yet only the Sixth of Scotland, was generally understood to have accepted the garter from Queen Elizabeth, by way of compensation for his mother's loss of her head; and the English Queen judiciously supplemented the gift with a pension of £5,000 a year. One of William III.'s allies among the German princes thought money could hardly be weighed in the scale against the garter, and his Serene Highness reduced a claim of £400,000 to £100,000, in consideration of a garter. The late Earl of Fitzwilliam, on the other hand, on being offered a garter, asked what it would cost, and being told £1,000, said he thought he could do better with his money.

Many persons fancy themselves friendly when they are often officious. They counsel not so much that you should become wise as that they should be recognised as teachers of wisdom,

An indignant landlord writes that he adopted coils of fire-escape rope in his bedrooms, and that three guests successfully escaped, though there was no fire. They left unpaid bills.

It is a fact not generally known that Alaska has one of the largest rivers in the world. The Yukon is navigable for one thousand one hundred and fifty miles, and is the largest American river flowing to the Pacific Ocean.

A Dog's Painful Voyage.

While 'longshorem'm were unloading a lot of telegraph wire from the steamship De Ruyter, at the foot of West Twenty-fourth street, N. Y., recently, they found a small black-and-tan terrier in the centre of a coil that lay on the floor of the ship. He had been stowed away there in some way while the ship was loading, and was unable to escape. During the passage the wire had shifted, and one leg of the little fellow was caught under the coil. The leg was broken and he was pinned down for no one knows how long. The ship sailed from Antwerp on May 12. Mr. H. E. Paterson, United States customs inspector, who was present, says that the dog was greatly emaciated by his fast of twenty-five days. He was very cross when found, and bit the hand of one of the men who attempted to release him, making a very painful wound. His temper improved after he had some water. His broken leg and his general health were attended to by the ship's surgeon, and he will hereafter serve as one of the crew of the De Ruyter. He was too weak to do more than blink his eyes und wag the end of his tail when any attention was paid him, although he got up once during the day and hobbled across the decks. Under the care of the ship's surgeon and a nourishing diet of beef tea and milk he is recovering more rapidly than was expected. It was his left hind leg that was caught under the shifting cargo. From its appearance the surgeon thinks the coil of wire caught it soon after he got into the hold, and that he was held in the one position, with the wire cutting into the leg, all the way over. The dog has been identified as the property of a clerk in the employ of the ship's owners at Antwerp. The little animal was running about the decks when the cargo was stowed and probably fell down a hatchway. He will be returned to his owner when the ship reaches Antwerp, although the crew, who have made a pet of him, object to this course. Consumption Cured.

Dr. R V. PIERCE: Dear Sir- Death was hourly expected by myself and friends. My physicians pronounced my disease consumption, and said I must die. I began taking your "Discovery" and "Pellets." I have used nine bottles and am wonderfully relieved. I am now able to ride out. ELIZABETH THORNTON, Montongo, Ark.

How wise we are in thought! How weak in practice! Our very virtue, like our will, is-nothing.

The "Golden Bloom of Youth" may be retained by using Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," a specific for "female complaints." By druggists.

Speaking much is a sign of vanity, for he that is lavish in words is a niggard in deed.

Our Progress. As stages are quickly abandoned with the completion of railroads, so the huge. drastic, cathartic pills, composed of crude and bulky medicines, are quickly abandoned with the introduction of Dr. Pierce's"Pleasant Pargative Pellets," which are sugar-coated, and little larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concentrated vegetable extracts. By druggists.

Poor and content is rich, and rich enough; but riches, fineless, is as poor as Winter to him that ever fears he shall be poor.

A Pleasant Acknowledgment.

"Had sour stomach and miserable appetite for months, and grew thin every day. I man, will; whereas a man, who, by la liers captured in Tong used Burdock Blood Bitters with the most marvelous results; feel splendid." (31) MRS. JOSEPH JOHNSON, Pittsburgh, Pa.

It is no disgrace not to be able to do everything; but to undertake, or pretend to do, what you are not made for, is not only shameful, but extremely troublesome and vexatious.

Important. When you visit or leave New York City, save Baggage Expressage and Carriage Hire, and stop at GRAND UNION HOTEL, opposite Grand Central Depot. 450 elegant rooms fitted up at a cost of one million dollars, reduced to $1 and upwards per day. European plan. Elevator. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroads to all depots. Families can live better for less money at the Grand Union Hotel than at any other first-class hotel in the city.

If thou art rich, then show the greatness of thy fortune, or what is better, the greatness of thy soul, in the meekness of thy conversation : condescend to men of low estate, support the distressed and patronize the neglected. Be great.

Catarrh-A New Treatment whereby a Permanent Cure is effected in from one to three applications. Particulars and treatise free on receipt of stamp. A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 King-St. West, Toronto, Canada.

A man's strength is said to lie in his hair. and a woman's in lying about her hair, claiming that it is all her own.

THE WORD "ELECTRICITY."

How the Jealous Makers of an " Elec tric" Oil Endeavored to Suppress Briggs' Electric Oil.

Electricity is recognized as a powerful agent in modern medicine, and the great success which has attended the use of Briggs' Electric Oil has naturally created for it jealous enemies among the makers of medicine alleged to be cures for diseases of a similar nature to those which have been so successfully combatted by Briggs' Electric Oil. The most prominent and active among these enemies have been Messrs. Northrop & Lyman, of Toronto, manufacturers of a medicine called "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil." These jealous persons sought to prevent us from using the word "electric" on our label, claiming that it was an infringement upon their trade mark, being similar to the word "eclectric." It will be observed that the word "electric" means something, and is used in connection with our oil because the oil is charged with electricity by a powerful bettery, as set forth in the sworn evidence of the maker before the court. Both Messrs. Northrop & Lymau, on oath, deposed that no electricity whatever was put into "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil," and this in the face of the fact that on their labels appears a cut of a bottle, from which a large number of formidable thunderbolts are radiating. The statement is also made that the oil is "combined with electricity." The expose of this fraud upon the people was the grand result of the ligitation, so far as the manufacturers of "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil " were concerned. It amounted to an actual acknowledgement, under oath, by the makers of the oil, that they had been palming off on the public a medicine said to contain electricity which did not contain anything of the sort. After being a long time before the court, the proprietors of Briggs' Electric Oil, having stated under oath that their oil was charged with electricity, were confirmed in the use of the label bearing the word "electric," and showing the device of the five cell battery with which the oil is charged in the course of its manufacture; and to-day Briggs' Electric Oil stands before the people, its claim to be what it is having been vindicated by the Canadian High Court of Chancery.

50 PREMIUM The Bolt and Iron Co., ha of The Bolt and Iron Co. They are into their new works, which cover acre of ground, all the men and acre of ground floor, so arranged at the ground floor arranged at the grou Bolt Co. on the ground floor, so arranged to best results will be had at the smaller will do better next: they are they will do better next; they carry amount over, after payment of divide the credit of profit and loss and vil tinue to accumulate a large surplu year from the sales of their lands be their profits in manufacturing; the is profitable now and constantly increase.

They withdrew the stock from the at the beginning of the year. They about to offer the unallotted stock for improvements. This affords and tunity to investors that they cannot have, an opportunity to become interin a proved valuable and established ness, manufacturing goods that are up as the iron from which they are tured. The time will come when the may be considered cheap at $200, nor limited amount of unallotted stock ma had at par to those who are first to i:. No fires can destroy their pro-ing in value and other projected in seek cation on the surplus land below to the Company which will help to mile its value.

I have suffered for the last 20 years Dyspepsia and General Debility, and many remedies, but with little success I used Burdock Blood Bitters, when was quick and permanent. (33) A. LOUGH, Alpena, Michigan, U.

Men are born with two eyes, but with tongue, in order that they should see to as much as they say. A Remarkable Fact

It is a remarkable fact that W. A. Ein of Frankville, who was so far gone r liver and kidney complaint that his life despaired of, was cured with four bottle Burdock Blood Bitters. At one time hel a fortnight without an operation of bowels, (35) Heaven will permit no man to secure in piness by crime.

LITTLE THINGS seem to constitute the reessence of life. The little drops of water me ing form the mighty ocean, and a hundred amples might be cited to prove how import after all are the little things. Now, come small affairs. Little sympathy is expect though they should be a source of agony wi unhappy possessor. Putnam's Painless ( Extractor is a small affair, yet by its person he rumour that Earl Sp speedy, and painless action it has gained to good will and kind words of thousands of have used it. Don't take the dangerous six tutes offered by some, but see that it is me here is a feeling at the by Polson & Co., Kingston. Safe, sure, pi

Much danger makes great hearts in resolute.

One of Many.

Mr. R. W. Carmichael, Chemistand In gist of Belleville, writes as follows:-"In Burdock Blood Bitters have a steady st are patronized by the best families here a surrounding country, and all attest to i virtues with unqualified satisfaction."

A man who owes a little can clear it of a very little time, and if he is a proce negligence, owes a great deal, despaint ever being able to pay, and therefore new the sentences of three looks into his accounts at all.

A Minister's Evidence. The all prevalent malady of civilized is is Dyspepsia. Rev. W. E. Gifford, of Both Li Hung Chang, Chinese well, was cured of dyspepsia and liver combrand the French Min plaint that rendered his life almost a buris The cure was completed by three bottle Burdock Blood Bitters (36)

A proud man never shows his price much as when he is civil.

Copy of a letter received from Dr. landation. R. Maitland Coffin, F.R.C.P., &c. 10 The German Governme SUTHERLAND, Esq. Having taken Some land's "Rheumatine" myself, I can be per Silesian and Berl testimony that it will prove a hoon to po sons who suffer from rheumatism MAITLAND COFFIN, F.R.C.P., Barton Court, S.W., May 17, 1852.

A good man is kinder to his enemy the bad men are to their friends.

In a private letter Wm. Goldsmith, of (a lingwood. Ont., writes: After trying almost every remedy I heard recommended, and far ing to get relief, I was cured of Chronic Dr. dstone stated that the pepsia and water-brash by one bottle of letter not consulted before Hoffman's German Bitters. Price 50 cents nosdowne was appointed Sold by Chemists everywhere.

A Letter from Goldsmith.

Few advise how to make money. Take how to spend it.

What Every Person Should Know. The grand outlets of disease from the ste are the Skin, the Bowels and the Kidners Burdock Blood Bitters is the most sit a Thir beople at Ve pleasant and effectual puritier and health re storing tonic in the world. Trial bottles !! cents. (32)

More hopeful than all wisdom is out The Latter Triumphant in the Contest. draught of simple human pity that will no foresake us.

Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Braise, Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites, AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACRES

dby Druggists and Declaration Pains Pier Cents Me

Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Ceaus but Directions in 11 Languages.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER & CO.)

Baltimore Id. L. S.

NE. 20 ONE 30 HORSE POWER CORLING

Frame Engine for sale -new-one 35 hore nearly new. For further particulars address

NELSON & CO. Replin Foundation NELSON & CO., Berlin Foundite

VE MINUTES SELECT mary of Foreign, Dome

ems. -Concise, Pithy, an DOMESTIC. ring the past year 10,80 e geological museum at 14th Prince of Wale decided to visit Brockvil banquet given to Sir e Halifax Hotel was mos tawa police are looking or is sold to youths und s of age. wholesale grain and ts of Winnipeg are takin in and provision exchan brick of gold weighing ght to Halifax from the aac's Harbour.

is rumoured at Quebec mship Company have off steamers to Mr. Sened

rs. Johns, charged with have suffered for the last as State s in the Kingston penite he staff of carpenters se are working day and aratory to the departu of their Excellencies. far the canvass for cont men's Medical College e liberal, $1,200 of the hally for five years have b he Conference of the M

Canada, in session at r a protracted debate pro he basis of union, and the gainst it. t the meeting of the H n Order of Forresters, t cutive Committee in an ber of seceders from t er at London was sustai: GENERAL. here is a financial hitch rements between Peru a ord Granville has, it is a liate between France and re from the Lord Lieute cessions offered by Ger

Ir. John Bright has been mentary banquet at th mingham. he French Chamber of pted a new literary as it convention with Gern rrangements are about exportation of Ameri d to Bremen and Hamb he French Minister sta ered pilagers and summa o were condemned to muted to imprisonmen no intention of declar The French Minister of M Cabinet that reports the parations are making in purchase six railway ds. The estimated co

Carey has been permit mainham jail occasion s has now been stoppe ning to hold themselve

n reply to a question the House of Commo e not consulted befor

UNITED STA inety-three thousand nted with timber in Ka the fever, which is co

he Wiman Dwight co nber of New Yorkers a nds terminated at Bu "A. P." 13 ebina Eastman, one res in the agitation f very and publisher of t

The United States Ind ed official notification Canadian Cree Indian erican soil. M. Farrow has add

National Rifle Associ catigation of the charge racter by John Bodine the Chicago Board of nvestigating the alleg by Fowler Bros. meeting of Irish ci at New York, at issued to their co-na for the relatives of in Ireland's cause. A'Chinese Be Among the many ele niel Leech, of the Smit ently brought his c from California and elabor inese bed-spread, wit The materials a imp pink silks, neat storks forming centre ile a graceful border ely tinted flowers in deftly wrought by the pink silk make a st te beautiful articles.