KEEP OUT THE COLD.—The use of tar paper for the building of houses will, we believe, come into general use in Ontario, as it has in the North West. Mr. John Lyons, of this village, has taken the battens off his dwelling, which was built some years ago, and has lined the house outside with this paper and put over it dressed siding which he intends to have painted. This will make the dwelling very warm and will cost but little.

The tar paper can be used when the building is being first erected, it is cheaper than other methods and doubtless become generally used and serve well the purpose of making houses air tight, a thing very desirable during our cold winters.

In addition to the large assortment of hats already on hand J. R. Trimble has received this season a large consignment of the newest and most stylish hats ever brought to Markdale and purchased much below the market price.
