THE AUTHORITIES UNABLE TO TRACE THE BLACK-HEARTED SCOUNDRELS.

DUNDALK, Aug. 23 .- This usually quiet and peaceable hamlet was on Wednesday, 18th inst., the scene of one of the most dastardly affairs which has ever trken place in that part of the country, and it was with great difficulty that your correspondent, even at this late day, was able to ascertain the facts of the case. On the above-mentioned day a simple minded girl, apparently about twenty years of age, who gave her name as Mary Campbell, or Cameron, of Hopeville, came to the village and applied at the residence of several prominent citizens for employment as a servant. A few minutes conversation soon convinced the parties to whom she made full application that she was of weak intellect, and naturally they refused to employ her. While walking around the village she had, by her strange behavior and eccentric movements, attracted the attention of some roughs from Shelburne who were in town that day, and others belonging to the yillage, who, under the pretence of assisting her in "getting a place," took On Friday afternoon last a number her to a hotel and all afternoon plied her of intoxication. When evening arrived the inhuman brutes carried or dragged her down the railway track to Hegan's bush, where was to preside over the school. they repeatedly outraged her. After satisfying their lusts. the black-hearted villains brought her back to the village, when the poor girl wandered around aimlessly until she reached Main street, where she told her she was unable to give any description of take no action in the matter. She left the village on foot that afternoon and nothing

BY A WOMAN IN THE VILLAGE OF MAXWELL.

Our Maxwell correspondent sends the Mr. McMaster commenced his following which arrived too late for last duties as head teacher of the public | week :- Last Sunday afternoon an old woman aged about 55 or 60 years, named Saigeon, residing in the village of Maxwell with her two sons and a daughter, all being grown GRAND ILLUMINATION .- On Friday up, attempted to end her existence by hanging. Ascending the stairs she suspended herself from a rafter by a cord, doing it so noiselessly that the daughter, who was alone first time illuminated, Mr. Kay having at the time, did not hear it for some time. However, a low strange sound reached her ear, and she went up stairs to ascertain the cause, when the body of the suicide met her gaze, the face already being black, and inside and in the bright gas light life nearly extinct. The cord was instantly severed and the body fell down, and in a few minutes animation was restored. She has nearly recovered now. The cause said to be her inability to obtain any whiskey, section 3 for two years has been being under its influence a little already. engaged as head teacher for the This is not the first time she has tried such an act, doing it once before, about two menths since, when for the same reason she took nearly two ounces of laudanum, and Miss Lizzie Richardson and Miss great efforts were then required to resuscitate. She says she will do it yet. Some talk is heard of sending her to an asylum, but she

Cyclone In Manitoba.

HOUSES AND CHURCHES DESTROYED BY THE FORCE OF THE WIND.

WINNIPEG, Man, August 29,-A terrific wind storm of cyclonic character swept over the province last might, doing incalcalable damage to property in various towns, and also damaging crops, which are now being reaped, to a large extent. The wind, which began to blow from the southwest about eight o'clock after a hot day, was encountered by a violent gale coming from the north. A fierce fight between the elements followed. resulting in great losses. No less than a number of passengers, was lifted of its track and borne some distance by the wind. At Portage La Prairie, a town sixty miles, from here, a church was blown down; and a Fatal Reaping Maching Accident.

A fatal accident took place Thursday, 21st, on lot 14, con. 1, Euphrasia, whereby Mr. Richard White lost his life. It seems that something went wrong with his horses or harness, and that he went round to the off side in front of the reaper, and while there the horses ran away, and the machine being in year, he was caught on the guards and knife, and carried about eight rods and then got free from the machine in some way. the horses ran a short distance farther and stopped, his father and hired man were in the field binding, and they ran to his assistance, and when they got to him he was lying m a pool of blood. A doctor was at once sent for but when he got there he was breathing his last. He bled to death, having received a very bad cut on the back of his right leg close to the body, and two of the guards appear to have run into his hip. The deceased was a very quiet and inoffensive young man, and upright in all his dealings. He leaves a loving wife, a young child, and aged father to mourn his loss. The funeral took place on Friday afternoon, when a very large company assembled to pay their-last respects. In fact it was one of the largest. funerals that has been in that part for a long time. - Meaford Monitor.

Farmers' Homes

Why should not a farmer's home be a varitable little paradise? Who else has so good an opportunity for beautifying his grounds until they shall far exceed in beauty and elegance the grandest possibilities of any cramped and pent up city lawn? We neglect this altogether too much; we have so much to do, we say, in looking after our crops that bring us money, that we have no time to spend with flowers, shade trees, etc., which simply ornament the place, and bring no money. As an investment even, we believe this to be a mistake; but aside from the financial side of the matter, we think it pays to take a little time—considerable, if necessary—to improve the external appearance of our homes. Shade trees are at the disposal of eyery farmer, flowers and plants are cheap, and easy obtained and cultivated, and we believe it is as much every man's duty to make his home and its sorroundings the most beautiful and attractive place on earth, as it is to pile up a large fortune for the benefit of the future generations and lawyers. We do not expect to come this way again, so why not enjoy as much as we can as we go along.—Ex.

Caught a Bear,

Recently Mr. W. H. Campaigne, our well known hunter, set some bear traps on the banks of the Saugeen river near what is known as Currie's clearing, Artemesia. On Wednesday morning a farmer living near by discovered a large black bear in one of them. As it was living he shot it and notified Campaigne of the fact, who forthwith proceeded to bring his bearship home. The hair is long and of a rich black color. Markdale sports will have to waken up .- Advance.
