Where to Advertise,

The Chicago Sun well says: "When cows have learned to read, then, and not till then, will it pay enterprising merchants to advertise their business on wayside fences, trees and gateposts." All the ingenuity of man has failed to invent an advertising medium equal to the columns of a well-established newspaper. It is a part of everybody's daily life to read the papers and to do this without reading the advertisements and being impressed with their statement is an impossibility. Therefore the merchant who knows anything of human nature never fails to prefer the newspaper "ad" to all the dodges ever invented.

The American Agriculturist For January, 1885.

BRIGHT BRISK, AND BEAUTIFUL is the American Agriculturist for January. The Forty-fourth volume opens with more than the usual fullness and freshness, and is indicative of renewed vigor in this long established authority on all matters pertaining to the farm, garden, and household. Upwards of a hundred fine engravings by several noted artists, as Cary, Bennett, Folsom and Giles adorn the pages and explain the carefully prepared articles upon a wide range of important subjects. Joseph Harris, "Walks and Talks" from the West... Col. Weld is "Among the Farmers"... Dr. Thurber, A. S. Fuller, Dr. Halsted, Dr. Slade, and a score of others well-known writers are represented by their best efforts. "One of New York's Breathing Places," is a charming specimen of engraving, and illustrates one of the minor parks. "Remodeling a Barn," "Plan for a Convenient Kitchen," "Exterior and Interior of a Western Cattle Ranch," a "Cheap Poultry House," and a "Good Smoke House," give the usual number and variety of farm buildings... Improvement in a Well Curb, Mouse Traps, Garden Fences, a Harness Holder, Slop Trap, etc., are among the useful farm appliances... Illustrated descriptions of "Showy Pigeons," "Shetland Ponies," "Silver-Gray Rabbits," etc., are of general interest... The Household Department, shows how to make a "Scrap-Basket," a "Foot Warmer," a "Tea-pot Cozy," a "Remodeled Looking Glass," a "Clock Panel," a "Rustic Screen," has hints on Cooking Apples, and other useful and timely matters... The Boys and Girls have a touching story, "Old Red Spire," beautifully illustrated. The Doctor's "Talks" explain the Cow's foot in the Milk, and the ways of Water Beetles. Dr. Cornell describes "A Living Boat," etc. Price $1.50 per year; single copy 15 cents. Address: Publishers of the American Agriculturist, 754 Broadway, New York.
