FATAL ACCIDENT.—One day last week, as Mrs. McInnis, wife of Hugh McInnis, near Annan, was engaged in scrubbing the kitchen, she left the little child of about eighteen months, playing on the floor. The stove was between them, so that she could not see, and hearing all quiet for a little while she went over and was horrified to find the child had fallen head first in a tub of water, life being already extinct.—O. S. Times.

Various unpleasant discoveries have been made by New York chemists as to the nature of some of the substances used to give candies their bright tempting appearance. Now a few of them are rank poisons, and are used in quantities sufficiently large to make candy colored by them anything but safe. It is just as safe for every one and especially children to eschew these brilliant morsels. If they must eat candy, let it be the plain unvarnished sort.

The Financial Reform Almanac of Britain for 1885, shows how the aristocracy have drained the public purse since 1850. The net result is that 582 noble families of 7,991 members have held 13,888 offices in that period, and have received £105,614,652 sterling as their pay. No doubt much of this money has been honestly earned in the public service, and there can be equally no doubt that by far the larger part of it has been quite unnecessary expenditure.

The American papers are paying a good deal of attention to Sir John Macdonald's Confederation scheme. Comparatively few of them, however, seemed to attach very much importance to it. They regard it as the brilliant dream of aspiring politicians. We are by no means certain that they are right in this estimate. We incline rather strongly to the opinion that there is more in it than many Canadians even are willing to admit, and that the scheme of confederation will prove to be the plank on which the Conservative party hopes to keep itself afloat at the next general election.—Truth.
