The Cheap Article a Good Hat Pillers "A half a pound of mappeary leaves and for smovel purpose, the neath of wi copperas, please," hald Sanctuary Pers, mid in the Charleston News and Courier as putting two street-car fares on the counter fellows: at the round-house grocery.

"What do you mean, Sane?"

it was paralysis for rats. You see I boil it tures is unique. It is as follows: until the copperas all floats to the top in a thick green soum. This I soum off, and | Spread a cloth of blue, and put thereon the have handy as poison. If you ever touch a dishes and the spoons and the bowls, with the rat's tail or a cockroach's heel with it, you beg your game. Before I began the skimming process the death rate in my family a cruse.—Exra vii. 22, and I. Kings xvii. 12. was pretty heavy, and that's the reason I'm a widower. While you are Tell them who are bidden I have prepared my measuring out the leaves I'll give you what I learned from the heathen." And then he dissertated: "Whenever you hear a customer sak for green tea because that's its natural color, you may set him down as an ardent native who has placed too much confidence in some grocer acquaintance. Do you know that green or black tea can be made out of the same leaf? Dried on copper plates, the leaves turn greenish, and a little copperas and a drop of something akin to Paris green deepen the tinge. Dried in baskets, the leaves become dark, and the so-called black teas are, generally speaking, therefore, the purest and best. But a contrary notion has possessed the Hoosier teadrinker's mind, and time was when threefourths of the tea sold here was green, but good wine.-John ii. 10. now more than half is black tea. The best grades sell at $1 a pound, but we don't get the choice in this country, and even in Japan and China your bones would soon be bleaching in the gutter if you should offer to sell such 'pizen' as that berry leaf hyson. Old Chinese gave me a package of that 'He-No' tea, such as you sell at 40 cents a half pound. You know it says on the package that it is the kind the Chinese use, but the fellow said it wasn't, and that 'twas called 'He-No' because the Chinaman he no it. Still, it's pretty good tea for Americans."-Indianapolis News.

A Complicated Question.

At the Leicestershire assizes, yesterday, a singular case of larceny was tried before Lord Justice Denman. A pensioner named 28. Thomas Ashwell was charged with stealing a sovereign at Alestone. The prisoner borrowed a shilling from Edward Keogh, who handed him a coin in the street, near a lighted window. Keogh afterward discovered that he had given a sovereign in mistake for a shilling. The prisoner asserted that it was a shilling, and told a policeman that a sovereign which he had changed was one which he got for his pen-SIOD.

The policeman afterward saw the prisoner go to the back of a house. The policeman followed, and secreted himself behind a wall. He heard the prisoner call Kennedy was making anxious search for and "Vive la revolution sociale," a man, and say to him: "The policeman her little 4-year-old, curly-headed son, who has been to me about that sovereign; I did had disappeared for the moment from the have it, and have spent half of it, but I'll family-door-yard. Hurrying through the be hanged if he has it back." The police- streets, looking and inquiring for the little man then put his head over the wall and runaway, her attention was directed to a the policeman."

whether this constituted larceny, it being The eyes of the woman followed the gaze of submitted that what the prisoner did was the crowd, and this is what she saw to "keep" and not to "take." The Judge Eighty feet from the ground, holding on by said the principle involved was unprece- his chubby legs and one arm could be seen dented, and he left three questions to the the little fellow extending his free hand jury, which they answered in a manner toward some pigeons that were perched which was taken to be a verdict of guilty. almost within his reach. The Judge said the case was so important His awful peril had stunned and stilled in the principle involved that he would the helpless group beneath, which now himself take it to the court of appeal, and parted as the mother came swiftly toward meantime the prisoner would be liberated the scene. Then her firm, quiet voice was in recognizances of £100 to come up for heard, raised that the child might hear judgment when called upon after the legal | "Come down, Carl, and mamma will give question had been decided in the Court for you a peach." The child heard, and, look-

One Man One Vote.

I am in favor of the principle of one man one vote (hear and cheers) and I object altogether to the plural representation of property. I will take my own case; I am a terrible example. (Laughter.) I have three votes for as many borough constituencies, and I have three votes for as many sounty constituencies. ("Shame," and laughter.) Oh! but I use them on the right side. (Cheers.) I know many of my friends who have ten or twelve, and I heard of one reverend pluralist who has twentythree. Well, I consider this is an anomaly which is altogether inconsistent with the principle on which we stand. That principle is, that every householder, at all events, has an equal stake in the good government of the country; his life, his trying to mold their children into happiness, his property all depend upon reproductions of themselves. But every If we are to make a distinction, I am not quite certain whether it is not the poor man that ought to have more votes than the rich man. (Hear, hear.) If you have legislation, it may lessen the income of the one, but it may destroy the means of subsistence of the other .- Mr. Chamber. lain at Birmingham.

Fainting.

A timid person sees, perchance, some lost. accident in which human life is possibly sacrificed, or the sensibilities are otherwise shocked. His feelings overcome him, and he faints. How are we to explain it? Let paper seventy-three dwelling houses are us see what takes place. The impression offered for rent on Fifth avenue and upon the brain made by the organ of sight adjacent streets. The price to each dwell- it. It tells of the sad death of Jackson creates (through the agency of special ing is named. A "small house" is Romley." centres in the organ of the mind) an influ- offered for $1,200 a year, and this is the ence upon the heart and the blood-vessels of cheapest of all of them, The prices then the brain. This results in a decrease in increase at about $500 a jump, up to so? every time any one said anything." the amount of blood sent to the brain, and $3,000, $4,000, $5,000, $7,000 to $10,000 a "Ah, then I am glad to receive it. causes a loss of consciousness. In the year. Now, a man ought to have a presty my readers will be glad to know that he is same way persons become dizzy when good income to enable him to pay $7,000 or dead."-Arkansas Traveller. looking at a waterfall, or from a height, $10,000 a year for his rent. The dwellings

"I mean to call things by their right Bible a right royal Christman bacques is the

PRELIMINARIES. bread in the backet.-Num. iv. 7, and Levit.

Bright shining of a candle giveth light.—Luke dinner.-Matt. xxii. 4. They are strong of appetite.—Isaiah vii. 11. Let us eat and be merry.—Luke xv. 23. The feast was made for laughter, wine makes merry.—Eccles. x. 19

Ye hear all kinds of music.—Dan. iii. 5. Grace Give us this day our daily bread. Matt. vi. 11.

Pour out the broth.-Judges vi. 20. Feed me with pottage.—Gen. xxxv. 30. Eat this roll.—Ezek. iii. 1. Use a little wine for thy stomach's sake.—Tim

We remember the fish we did eat.-Num. xv. 5. Bring off the fish which ye have now caught.— Every man at the beginning doth set forth ENTREMETS. Hare.-Levit. 1i. 6. Chickens.—Matt. xxi. 37. Besides harts and fatted fowl.—I Kings iv. 23. Kidneys.—Deut. xxii. 14. The wine is red.—Psalms lxxv. 8.

Olives.—Micah vi. 15. Give me a little water, for I am thirsty.—Judges

All manner of baked meats.—Gen. xi. 17. Ye may eat of the roebuck.—Deut. xii. 15. Deut. xiv. 14. Cause strong drink to be poured out .- Num. VEGETABLES.

They brought parched corn and beans .- I After that the full corn in the ear .- Mark iv. in the streets, who shouted, "Down with We remember the leeks and the onions and the cucumbers and the garlic.-Num. ix. 7.

Partridges.-Jer. xvii. 11. Two young pigeons.—Levi. v. 7. And he brought quail.—Psalms cv. 40. I would cause thee to drink spiced wines. Cant. xvii. 2. Carry these ten cheeses to the captain. Sam. xvii.18.

"I'M COMING, MOTHER."

The Thrilling Experience of a 4-Year-Old Bighty Feet in Mid-Air.

said: "So you did have it, did you? I'm crowd of people who were gazing, white and silent with awe, at a huge windmill tank, A legal argument then took place as to against which a long ladder was leaning.

Orewn cases reserved .- St. James' Gazette. ing over his shoulder, perceived his mother. Instantly he began to descend, carefully slinging, round by round, and as he neared the last, he smiled at the upturned face of his mother and said : "I'm coming, mother," and in another moment was in her arms. And then that crowd separated into small parties of one each, and melted into the distance, leaving behind them only an indistinct memory of moistened eyes and fluttering mocket handkerchiefs.

The Individuality of Children.

The moral nature and individuality of children, says Prof. Adler, should be carefully studied and respected. They are, it is true, bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh, but we are only the channels through them. Some parents make a point I don't want my boy to be a painter; mean him to be a lawyer." Or again, a youth shows an intense passion for study, but a friend of the father has an opening in his counting house, and so the instincts of York Correspondence Washington Post. genius are sacrificed to the dollar. Thus the individuality of that life is destroyed and the particular message with which it was intrusted to deliver to the world is

Rents in New York City. In a single adversisement in a New York

As a curiosity the annexed bill of fare is by the head master of the Eton public exploited, while the collect man, if it could be called a home, worth preserving. Taken wholly from the shool mentioned to day as the late who was the picture of misery. His wife was Bible a right royal Christman handle in the institution was on he carried to day as the stranger channels of ancient rivers, which was the picture of misery. His wife was castle in a state of siege:

England will be attacked. before next Saturday.

pool and other provincial centres.

ANTI-GERMAN DEMONSTRATION. Freschmen Can't Stand the Sight of the

German Flag. A last (Monday) night's Paris cable says : During the funeral procession of Jules Valles, the Paris Socialistic journalist, to-Ye shall eat of the wild goat and wild ox .- day, a large number of Frenchmen attacked the German Socialists in the procession and destroyed their wreath. The attack was brought about by the fact that the Take unto thee wheat, lentils, and millet .- | Germans carried the German flag conspicuously hoisted immediately in the wake of the coffin. This provoked the Frenchmen the German flag." The opposition soon extended to the Frenchmen in the procession. When the flag was not lowered in answer to the shouts, it was stoned and a free fight followed. Forty thousand persons attended the funcral. A great crowd of people have since assembled at the Bastile, discussing the anti-German demonstration. During the procession to the grave the police force in the neighborhood was largely strengthened in anticipation of a renewal of the disorder when the funeral procession returned. At the cemetery M. Henri Roche-San Francisco Chronicle: In San Jose, of Valles, and was enthusiastically cheered

The Dead Cardinal's Pastoral.

A Dublin cable says: On Sunday in all the Catholic churches was read, amid an impressive silence, the Lenten pastoral letter Cardinal McCabe prepared on the eve of his sudden death. The pastoral expresses indignant repudiation of the hideous attempts made for the destruction of property and innocent lives by the foul dynamite conspirators. "The object of that wicked conspiracy," said the pastoral, " is to achieve the independence of Ireland and avenge the wrongs inflicted on . this unhappy country is former times. God knows, the record of its wrongs forms the blackest page in European history. surely savage vengeance is not calculated to win God or the world to the side of this poor and afflicted country, which has no more deadly foes than the wretched men who support and countenance schemes so detestable. Deeply as I love Ireland I would gladly consent to a continuation of its greatest sorrow rather than see redemption worked out by agencies that God and the Church anathematize." pastoral created a profound sensation.

Why Lord Garmoyle Has Nine Tees. Lord Garmoyle, in spite of anything that July sun. has been said, can appreciate a good story —when he tells it himself. His adventure with a cobra when in India shows him to be a man of nerve. "I was awakened one night," I heard him telling a party of friends, "by a severe pain in one of my which the river of life is transmitted to toes. Looking down in the dim light cast radical measures which sorely cut by the moon I was horrified to discover For instance, if a boy shows a talent for poison do its dreadful work. I did not art it is a grave question as to whether it hesitate, however, but, swiftly snatching while the measures were pending. be wise for the boy's father to say; "Oh, my revolver from beneath my pillow, with hasty aim I shot off the wounded toe, while another empty chamber instantly told of a dead cobra. I have only four toes on my left foot now, you know.-New

He Did Not Die Too Soon.

"We charge for obituaries," said an editor to whom had been submitted a long paper commenting on the death of a man. "I thought that you would be giad to print it."

"No, it is of no interest to the majority of our readers."

"Who was he?"

" Mr." from their visiting ourds.

A last (Sunday) night's London ceble two magnificant sources of wealth in Australia Dayer Ford neighborhood. He was a train, one of which has been imperfectly kind-hearted min, but children were names whenever I find out was they are.

I held a Chinaman's queue, s'other day, while he fought an Irisaman, and he was specified.

As will be seen the equipped by dynamite. The letter has been the equipped by dynamite. The letter has been fought as a local and music then buried for ages beneath the supering the production of some silly student, but our productio so grateful that he has been telling me all priate wine accompanied. Though in the authorities deemed it were to guard the prising miner now hinks his shaft. Each entering a saloon, and addressing a party about teas. That 20-cent per pound Palestine there is now no game, yet at this building, and extraordinary precentions of these must have been a veritable of idlers. young hyson' which you have been selling dinner quail and partridge are provided. were taken to-day. A strong police force Pactolus, and their golden sands have me is nothing but a popular build of rasp. With these the spiced wine of Cantille is was stationed in and about the chapel, and yielded a rich return to many an adventur. replied. "I'd rather know that the seven berry leaves colored green with copperas prescribed. At such a dessert as thus, with the gates of the school enclosure were kept our company. The second source of wealth years itch was coming." and put into a tea cheet to acquire the right the sweet wines of the prophet Amos, a closed, so that no one but those living at is also subterranean, and will probably Bab came in, leading or rather dragging odor. But that's the kind I want. I can modern Amos would like to sit. Corres- the school could obtain access to the chapel. prove to be far more precious than the after him, a little boy. The child was begmake meney out of it. The last I got ponding bills of fare from Snakspeare have The customary services took place, but the first. We refer to the underground rivers ging him to go home. didn't make the best ten in the world, but been framed. This one from the Scrip- appearance of the chapel was like that of a which have their origin in the great central depression of the Australian conti- drink?" The Most Rev. Dr. McCarthy, Bishop of nent, where some superficial streams and Cloyne, which is one of the most important | the heavy tropical rains disappear, perco- approached the bar. dioceses in the south of Ireland, has issued lating through the penetrable soil, and a pastoral letter, in which he denounces forming hidden reservoirs, from whence child. Salt, without prescribing how much, and all in the dynamite outrages in London and elec- at least two great bodies of water where. He inveighs against all secret and issue southward and find an outlet in the what'll you have? Sold a cow this morn. oath bound societies, and says that their sea. Ever and anon one of these channels ing and am flush." works are a diagrace and a curse to Ire- is pierced by the well-sinker, and there Taking from his pocket a shoe, nearly rises to the surface a perenntal spring of worn out, he struck the bar with it. The authorities have again been warned the precious element, in the midst of a that St. Paul's Cathedral and the Bank of region that is liable to be parched with as though a man's got money to throw drought. Such a discovery has just been away." Dynamite Detective Roper has received made at Moree, in the electoral district of The boy pulled at his sleeve. a letter advising him to order his coffin, Gwydir, about 390 miles north of Sydney. "Now, I want you to stop that. I've and assuring him he will "meet his fate" Water was struck at a depth of 130 feet, stood about as much of your foolishness as and it rose 42 feet in three hours. "The I'm going to.". There is a growing movement in the value of the discovery," we are told, "candocks and among builders and other trades- not be overestimated, as the country in the said Bab, striking the bar with the shoe. men to dispense with the services of Irish vicinity has hitherto suffered terribly in No one objected. The men whom he had laborers. Fifteen hundred Irish workmen dry seasons." The question arises whether, joined would have drunk with him all day. were recently summarily dismissed from inasmuch as the country is beginning to be They seemed to have no other business. They gave him a piece of broiled fish.—Luke | buildings in course of construction in East | dotted with various points at which similar London, their fellow-workmen of other discoveries have been made, it would not be you were in town, didn't they, eh?" asked nationalities being unwilling to work possible by systematic investigations to beside those whom they regard as possible determine approximately the course of one, dynamitards. It is reported a similar at least, of the aubterranean rivers—that I generally pay for my whiskey, which is movement is started at Manchester, Liver- which is believed to have its outfall near Portland—so that boring operations might be conducted for the time to come in those places only where there is a reasonable can say a word-to you." prospect of success.

Cross-Eyed People.

"You would think that a cross-syed person would overcome his sensitiveness." spoke about it just now." said an occulist, "but he seldom does. He broods over it. It grows on him. He Why don't you drink your whiskey?" imagines that every one he meets thinks as much about it as he does, and life often loses all attraction for him. Did you ever notice a cross-eyed man walk? No? I can tell one as far as I can see him. It person squarely in the face. If he retained you, Eli. We are too good friends for the power of sight in each of his crooked | that." The place where the face ought to be would his coat. be a dismal blank. Many bright features are ruined by this fearful misfortune. Some | hold of the boy's shoulder, sensitive victims never pluck up courage selfish misanthropes, grow stingy, and who looked with pity upon the child. leave a fortune for a horde of straight-eyed relatives who totally ignored them while they boy. "Our horse is at the stable." eyed men, take what they can get in the time." matrimonial market. They spring at the very first chance which offers. Thus declared that having spent all his money, often a soulful, but cross-eyed sesthete and that as he could not get whiskey withfinds himself joined to a loving, but out it, he wouldn't stay in the infernal unsympathetic, helpmeet, whose ambition town. He vowed that everybody was never rises above the kitchen or the laundry. trying to rob him, a belated but not alto-He loses his hopes, descends to the level of gether untrue reflection. "Come on," said his mate, and what might have been a he, "we don't care for the snow, do we, talented career is ended on a large box in | Tom?" front of the corner grocery in retailing neighborhood gossip. Occasionally you find a man with sufficient strength of mind man has overcome his diffidence he out in the snow." becomes as bold as a sewing-machine agent. When he is courageous enough to look a than an owl. Full as goose, Tom." woman obliquely in the face without stammering an apology for having been born he all the churches the other bishops denounced fortune. Such a man would make a heroic she'll cry." soldier. Unfortunately, there are few who can do this. The ordinary man melts ain't she?" under the affliction like a cake of ice in a

They Felt Him.

When a well-known member of this community, now dead, was State Senator from this city, he was engaged in some very many people whom he thought were in that I was being bitten by a cobra, the need of reform. They abused him very most poisonous of reptiles. To stop to kill thoroughly, but in his honesty he mainlegislation which he is equally entitled child has a right to its own individuality. the snake would be to let the insidious tained the fight strongly. A friend of his child's teeth chattered. "Can't go any from the city visited him in Sacramento "Well, what do they say of me in San Francisco?" "They don't speak very well of you."

"What do they say about me? That's what I want to know." "Well, they say very rough things about you. I don't care to"they can think of that's bad."

enjoyment, "they feel me, my boy, they there lay a little worn-out shoe."-Arkansaw feel me!"-San Francisco Chronicle. Traveler.

Ex-Mayor Robinson, of Hartford, Conn., tells this of the famous preacher, Dr. Joel "The man who always saked, 'Is that and said: 'Henry, a man was in my study this morning, and, right under my All own roof, told me I hadn't preached the gospel for forty years! What would you through the effects of the organs of sight marked twenty-two feet front, and "ms. William Laonard, a native of Wexford The good old doctor—a man of peace in all through the effects of the organs of sight upon the brain.—Dr. A. L. Ranney, in Harper's Magazine for March.

Outan planters can not get their money back by selling their molesses, and so are utilizing it on their estates as manure.

Make twenty-two feet from, and "make discovered and the profit of domestic happiness for lived a life of lived

OLD BLE BAR

"Then look out for trouble," some one

"Hello, fellers," said Bab.

The party of idlers promptly arose and "Pa, please come on," implored the

"Oh, dry up, won't you! Fellers,

"Wife told me to have this thing fixed.

The men drank. "Fill 'em up again."

"Had you in the 'boose the last time Nat Boles. "Yes, but that's none of your lookout.

more than you can say and tell the truth." "I didn't mean any harm by it. You are getting to be such a crank that nobody

"That's all right. You sit around here and guzzle every day, but if I happen to come to town once in a while and get a little off, you go around singing it."

"I don't do any such a thing. I merely "Oh, I heard of you. Fine joke for you. "Reckon I want to drink with a man that talks to me as you do?" "Yes, you'd drink with the devil." " I'll just show you."

Taking up the glass, he made a motion imparts to his gait a certain movement as though he would throw the whiskey en peculiar to the whole class of cross-eyed | the floor, but his appetite being stronger people. But it is not altogether bashful. than his resentment, he drank it and said: ness which causes him to avoid looking a "I don't want to have any trouble with eyes, as is often the case, it would do | They sat down around the stove, for the him no good to look the ordinary weather was intensely cold. There is no way. He would be very likely to place on earth more dreary than a saloon the object altogether. The in a small town, but men stay there. Yes, lines of his vision would probably for man will stay anywhere. When evening cross a foot or so before the object came Eli was beastly drunk. He had was fully comprehended, and all he would | thrown away the shoe, but the boy recovsee would be the faint and shadowy out- ered it, and to keep from offending his lines of a pair of ears or the rim of a hat. father by the sight of it, carried it under

"We'll go home now," he said, taking "It's awful cold for you to attempt to enough to marry. They often become walk; I'd stay in town, Eli," said a man "We don't have to walk," replied the were alive to fight over. Others, with that "No, my little fellow, your horse is not natural yearning for the love and sympathy | there. Your father sold the horse when which are almost universally denied cross. be slipped away from you before dinner

The child burst into tears. His father

"But if you want to stay, we'll stay."

The child, looking at him reproachfully, to live down the malign effects of strabis- yet affectionately, replied, "I wouldn't stay mus and come out a victor. When once a here if I knew we'd freeze to death by going "All right, Maccovey. Come on. Drunker

> "Yes, I know." "What'll old lady say?"

" She won't say anything, but you know

"Presty good woman, Tom. Your mother " Yes, sir."

"That's what I thought. Man never has but one mother, Tom. Never heard of a man with two mothers, did you?" "No, sir."

"That's what I thought. When a man tells you that he has two mothers, call him a liar. He may have two sisters and a front yard full of brothers, but he won't never have but one mother."

They were struggling along a lane. The farther to night, Tom," said the father, stopping in a fence corner. "Just so tired I can't go any further. You go home and tell the folks not to be uneasy. I'm all right. Going, Tom?" " No, sur."

Early the next morning a traveller dismounted to examine something he saw in "Speak it out. Tell me how they talk." a fence corner. "I will never forget that "They call you a liar, a secoundrel, a sight," said he, in speaking of it. "The thief, an ignoramus, an idiot everything boy had his arms around the father's purple neck, and had pressed his cheek close "Ah," said the Senator, rubbing his to the rough face of the drunkard. Both hands in glee and chuckting in perfect were dead, and on the dead man's breast

He Couldn't Bee It.

Wife-What a number of ladies there Hawes: "One day he came into my office was in church this morning wearing sealskin sacques. I counted no less than twenty-seven.

Husband (who won't see the point)-Do you think that is the proper way to occupy r one's mind while at church? I didn't notice a single one.

Wife No one can scarcely be expected to notice such things when one's asleep.

It is reported that a woman in the city of Mexico gave birth to seven babes in one day, all of whom died. The mother