The All-Important Question.

To the Editor of the Standard.

DEAR SIR,—The present depression in the price of grain is a fitting time to cast our eyes abroad upon the world s resources for a substitute to re-fill our diminishing coffers, and a more certain income than that derived from uncertain grain-harvests.

During the present winter I had the pleasure of inspecting several herds of Holstein cattle in the County of Waterloo, more especially those of of the township of Wilmot, in that County. My only knowledge of these cattle was derived from the short sketch given of them in the Agricultural report of Ontario. Hitherto my bias was in favour of the shorthern Durham; but the report in question strongly inclined me to the opinion that the Holsteins were better adapted to the present status of the tarmers of Grey than the Durhams, or any other breed; and this opinion

Of the cheese producing qualities of these cows the above gentlemen could give me no positive data; but from the testimony of those who have made cheese exclusively from the milk of Holstein cows, the result is highly satisfactory, their milk being superabundant in caseine matter.

It is self-evident that the laudable efforts put forth by our breeders to improve their stock has been a vain J. S Hallman and H Hilgarten, Esqs., attempt; and those who take initiative in the introduction of the Holsteins will secure the reward which ever attends intelligently directed enterprise.

Yours Ever.
