

North-West Trouble.

As the rebellion in the N. W. T. is now the all important question, and anything in the shape of reliable information in the papers is eagerly sought for, we give the following.

Rev. Ewarton Ryerson Young, who has been engaged in Methodist mission work in the North-West for many years, gave an interesting lecture in the Central (Bloor-street) Methodist Church, 23rd inst., the subject being "Reminiscences, incidents, and experiences in the North-West, and of Riel."

After paying a high tribute to the soil, climate and general conditions of our great North-West, Mr. Young said the Indians in the North-West were comparatively speaking, small in number. He did not suppose there were more than 30,000 Indians in the North-West, and they were wretchedly poor.

THE INDIANS TO DAY were in a deplorable position; they were suffering to death almost. Some time ago the Saskatchewan Valley was like a large butcher shop, where the Indians could go among the buffalo herds and get all the food they needed and also clothes.

For over sixteen years G. M. Everest of Forest, has sold Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, and its sales are steadily increasing. It cures coughs, colds and all lung complaints; is pleasant to take and always reliable.

Truth Stranger than Fiction!

ONE OF OUR CITIZENS IN LUCK.

Many of our citizens will remember W. J. Woods, a lumberman, who formerly lived on the St. Vincent road near the railway track, and twelve or fifteen years ago deserted his wife and family.

THE HALF-BREDS WERE NEVER LOYAL.

They went out to the North West immediately after the battle of the Plains of Abraham, and under the humiliation that France received at the hands of England.

NOT TO BE MUCH FIGHTING.

He did not think there would be much of a battle. He was in Winnipeg at the time of the former uprising, and then Riel had his means out and the rebels were aware of every move the forces advanced, and fled in two and three.

THE SECRET OUT.

The secret of success of Burdock Blood Bitters is that it acts upon the bowels, the liver, the kidneys, the skin and the blood; removing obstruction and imparting health and vigor.

A GREAT MISTAKE

It is a great mistake to suppose that dyspepsia can't be cured, but must be endured, and life made gloomy and miserable thereby.

It Sounded Funny.

Scotch Highlanders have the habit when talking their English of interspersing the personal pronoun "he" when not required, such as "The king he has come."
