

Flesherton.

From our own correspondent.

Monday last (fair day) was a busy day in town.

Wilmot, Pickell & Co. have been doing a large business in buying hogs in this locality during the past week. On Thursday last there was almost a continuous squeal of the hog as they were being drove in from north, east, south and west. We understand about $1000 was paid out for hogs here that day. The McMillan Bros drew, for some 20 odd hogs, about $225.00.

Mr. James Leonard, father of the deceased wife of the late Cook Teets, received the sad intelligence by telegram on Saturday night last of the terrible fate of his daughter who lived in Barrie, who, with her four children were burned to death in their beds on Friday night last, her husband barely escaping with his life. He awoke in the night to find the bed on which they were sleeping a sheet of flames. No doubt the bereaved family will have the sympathy of the entire neighborhood in which they live.

Mr. M. Richardson and J. W. Armstrong spent some days at Conference in Owen Sound during its present sitting. Owing to the absence of the pastor, Rev. Mr. McDowell, at Conference, his pulpit has been occupied by local brethren. On Sabbath morning last the brother who was to preach failed to fill his appointment, when Dr. Christie was called upon to fill the vacancy, and although quite unprepared, the Dr. gave a most excellent address. In the evening Mr. J. P. Nicholson delivered a very carefully prepared sermon on the destruction of Sodom.

The Gospel Army has arrived and opened fire on our town. A number of friends accompanied them from Durham on Monday. In the evening they marched our streets with banner and music, and held their first meeting in the Town Hall in the evening. The Hall was filled to the doors.

Osprey.

From our own correspondent.

The cheese factory at Feversham is doing a good business, and Mr. Henderson, the proprietor, expects the business to continue increasing. Mr. Mitchell, shoemaker, removed from Feversham last week.

Mr. Chas. Neil and Mr. Geo. Lush, 8th con., each lost a valuable mare last week.

Maxwell.

From our own correspondent.

Business rather dull at present. Farmers are through seeding around here, and crops look well. Surely "Jack" won't come this year and nip them; but he cannot be trusted.

On Wednesday, June 3rd, a baseball match was played between Maxwell club and the Feversham boys. The latter was whipped badly, another challenge has been received from the Flesherton boys, and has been accepted; the match to be played on Friday next on the Maxwell grounds.

CHANGED HANDS.—As Mr. John Miller is bound for Alpena next week, the house and lot formerly occupied by him has changed into the hands of Mr. D. A. Holman of the "big boot," an energetic young business man of this place, and he is preparing to erect a large store and dwelling thereon with brick veneering. Well done for D. A.

Mr. John Hamlin has moved from this place, and has taken up his abode in Duntroon.

PHIZ.

Owen Sound.

(From an occasional correspondent.)

Weather mild and warm. Town and country gardens looking fine. A big crop of fruit expected this season.

Steamer Athabasca left Saturday on time with a heavy cargo of freight and some very fine horses for mounded police in the North-West, also a large number of passengers.

Steamer Alberta arrived Sunday morning at 9 a. m. with 60 first and 61 second-class passengers and 26,335 bushels wheat, besides 85 tons deck freight, chiefly flour.

Steamer City of Owen Sound arrived in port last week to undergo repairs after spending a winter on the rock at Michipicooton. She will run between here and Duluth.

A GOLDEN OPINION.

Mr. Wm. Allan, of Acton, declares that Hagyard's Yellow Oil is the best household remedy in the world for colds, croup, sore throat, burns, scalds and other painful complaints. Her opinion is well founded.

From Prince Albert, N. W. T.

The following is a synopsis of a private letter from Mr. Wm. Donnelly of Toronto, 10th Royals, brother of the late Samuel Donnelly of Glenelg: Prince Albert, N. W. T., May 21st, 1885.

In pleasing health and happiness I write you a few lines. Am out here on the war expedition, and pleased with the tour. I had wished to see this country for some time past, and this suits my wish admirably. We are camped here at present and not aware of any rebel force near or we would be marched out to disperse them. I have no idea where we will be moved to next, or when for home; am contented, however, and would be satisfied to return home any time. I was in two battles, first at Fish Creek, but came up late; heard a few bullets whiz past. I was also in the battle at Betsache for four days, the last of which we made the memorable charge over the pits. I received a slight flesh cut from a bullet on the top of my head, but continued the chase.

The country here looks pleasing. We had remarkable good weather for the season during our march up.

Sad End.

A WOMAN AND FOUR CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH.

Special dispatch to the Standard.

Barrie, June 6th.

Mr. Wonch is an industrious man who has lived on the Mill road some time, his wife a kind hearted Irish woman, daughter of J. Leppard, near Markdale, Gray Co., and four children comprised the family.

Mr. Wonch, the husband, had been away working all day, when he returned home, at tea his wife told him that a coat of his that hung up in the room showed signs of fire in the lining and wadding and that she had taken it outside and put the fire out. How the fire came in the coat is a mystery.

Mr. Wonch took down the coat and examined it thoroughly, but could discover no signs of fire. Putting it on he went out and fed the pigs and completed the other chores for the night. On his return to the house he again examined the coat, and being satisfied that it was all right, hung it up on a nail. He spent the evening in the house writing; about 10 o'clock the children were put to bed by the mother.

The baby, six weeks old, slept with father and mother. Being tired Mr. Wonch soon fell asleep. The next thing he remembers was waking to find the whole room and the bed he was lying on one mass of flames, burning like fury. He jumped up, cried out to his wife and tried to catch hold of her to pull her off the bed, but she seemed to be unconscious. The flames bursting out of the bed, completely enveloped her. Within his grasp he then grabbed the bed-tick and pulled when it parted, the straw burning furiously. The floor gave away and it was a rush for life. Not being able to reach the door he jumped through the window, his face and hands terribly burned, one ear hanging singed, his whiskers burned off. He then ran across the street yelling and waking some neighbors who hurried out, but all too late; the fire burned furiously, nothing could save those left behind. The husband offered them everything, but powerless to save the mother and children. When the morning came and the fire subsided, the remains of the wife and four children were found in the cellar, the flesh being almost completely burned up. The remains of the five were picked up and placed in one coffin. The sad affair has cast a gloom over the town, and Mr. Wonch has the deepest sympathy in his great troubles. Several rumors are afloat as to the origin of the fire, such as smouldering in the coat; but this can never be accounted for. Several townsmen saw the fire, but as it was a mile out they thought it was a log or stump burning and paid no particular attention to it.

BREAKING INTO GAOL.—We have often heard of people attempting to break out of gaol, though an attempt to break in is a rarity; but to Governor Miller belongs the honor of conducting such a model establishment that some people are apparently anxious to get into it. Between two and three last Friday morning, Mrs. Macdonald, wife of the turnkey, was aroused by hearing steps on the roof. Getting up she looked out of the window and saw a man on the top of the building, about to descend into the interior courtyard communicating with the gaoler's office and the residence of gaoler and turnkey. Thinking they were prisoners escaping, (for the steps indicated more than one,) she gave the alarm, whereupon they went back over the roof, and made their escape by the gate leading from the roof of the turnkey's house. Mr. Miller at once looked to the prisoners in the cells, but found them all safely locked up. On examining outside the means by which entrance could be obtained soon became apparent. The wall had been scaled by means of a plank, and access once gained to the turnkey's yard the rest was easy. The bold adventurers are supposed to be some who were familiar with the turnkey's house and thought they could make a hall there, even if they had to break into the gaol enclosure to do it. But they didn't find the inmates napping.—O. S. Times.

A WIDE SPREAD EVIL.

The great source of consumption and of ugly sores is scrofula in the blood. Burdock Blood Bitters purify the entire system and cure scrofula, as well as the more common blood humors.
