WARM HOUSES FOR WINTER.

The way to make a house warm for would like to learn, as there are comparatively few really warm and comfortable dwelling houses.

Building paper, or tar paper, has been for many years extensively used in the United States and in Manitoba. It is used both dry and tarred, and is airtight either ways. It is used in flooring, being put between two thickaround the body of the building.

A few frame houses in Markdale were made warm by its use last year, and the occupants are unanimous and very strong in their praises, of the benefits of the new idea, and state that they could not have been made to believe the improvement it would make, and the comfort secured by this cheap mode of keeping out jack frost, had they not tested it for themselves, and that, during the coldest winter on record. The battons are taken off and the tar paper put on, window and door cassings should be HONESTY THE BEST POLICY, sprung out sufficient to let the tar paper slip behind them, then the siding (which is made for the purpose) is put on and should be well painted Wild Strawberry is the only reliable, immediately afterwards. The dry but is almost infallible to cure Cholera paper is equally as good as that tarred, except that the latter is a good disinfectant, besides vermin will not are often sudden and fatal. come near where it is. They are about the same cost. The cost for a house 18 x 24 and 14 feet high is about as follows: 1.500 feet of lumber at $21 ... $32,00

Nails				1.00
Painting,i	ncluding	windo	ws &	20.00

It is considered warmer and more healthy than a brick house, and perfectly dry, a very important point. The tar paper can be procured at Haskett Bro's, or almost any well regulated hardware store. Grant & Co. make a good class of siding, so that those in our district can secure their material at home.
