MEN WHO WIN.

Two Hundred Dollars Thrown Away—
His Aim Was Success.

A good healthy body is almost sure to be found associated with a good con dition.

A close student of human nature is surely willing to place large matters in his hands of another, to whom he is not yet known.

He looks for the fresh health and vigor, the honest, frank countenance and attractive form, and in fact all that is attractive in men. He doubts the dys peptic with sallow skin, drawn out features, the evident weak and irritable nature. He feels as Shakespeare makes

Julius Caesar say:

"Let me have men about me that are fat;

Sickly headed men, and such as sleep o' nights;

He Cassius hath a lean and hungry look;

He thinks too much; such men are dangerous."

He does not doubt the honesty of the unfortunate, but he fears disease of the body will affect the mind, bring misfortune upon the individual, and less it may be injustice to the weak, but the man has not the mental strength, if he is wrapped up in his misery, he cannot take in the situation of the world, does not see that ideas are broad and that isms and teachings are gaining! How can an employer hope for success from such a man? The same old family friend that treat s his parents before him, and in such a way he drags out his miserable, unsuc cessful existence.

He discards the poor victim of disease who goes wearily out into the world, discouraged at last he takes to his sick bed. He seeks medical aid. Lacking the broad ideas of the successful man of the world, he tries the same medical treatment that he has tried many times before. The same bigoted counsel is right, the same drugs are administered by the same old family friend that treat

way he becomes weaker.

J. A. Gettys, insurance agent of Clioche, Ohio, suffered for nearly three years with dyspepsia in its worst form, having periodical spells of vertigo, nausea and chills. He wrote over his signature: "I spent about 500, at the best medical attendance, tried all the remedies recommended without success, until I was induced to try Wimer's safe cure. I used three bottles, and gained twenty pounds and feel like a new man."

Such a man as we have described, the times out of ten, unconsciously to himself or to his physician, has a kidney disorder, which is fast wasting his body and life. He sees the merits of Wimer's safe cure, which is becoming more popular daily, hourly, while he is becoming weaker.

The company then joined in singing

"We are jolly good Fellows," after which they repaired to their respective homes each apparently satisfied with the prosperous condition of the club, and resolving in his mind, never to forsake

it. COM.

Editor Standard.

DEAR SIR.—allow me a short space in your columns for a brief reference to your present bereavement. I am sure I can speak the sentiment of the whole com munity when I say that you have their profound sympathy in your sad affliction.

Mrs. R. was one of the most amiable, virtuous and highly respected ladies of our town, while her domestic circle was a "model home" where cheerfulness and genuine affection reigned supreme. May

God's richest blessings be abundantly vouchsafed to yourself and family is the prayer of,

A CITIZEN.
