In France the cultivation of roses has become so much a science, or so much a mania, that when an authority on the subject recently prepared a complete list of the known vareties of roses, it was found that the names alone, without de inition or description, filled forty pages of closely printed text. Of the tea-roses alone there were one hundred and twenty-two varieties, counting from the "Adam" to the "Zelia Pradel. A recent communication to the Horticutural Society of France gives an account of what is believed to be the oldest rose bush in the world, the great bush which grows against the church at Heldersheim, in Germany.

It is believed to date from the epoch of Charlemagne,-the close of the eighth century and the beginning of the ninth, The local tradition has it that the rose was planted by Charlemagne himself.

This great rose-tree grows from a crypt under the church, the crypt having been opened at the top for the evident purpose of letting in light and air for the bush. For this reason it is asumed by many persons that the bush is older than the church itself.

The trunk, which is as large as a man's body, traverses obliquely the wall of the church, and enters the open air several inches above the surface of the ground. There it divides into five branches of unequal size. The bush covers a surface of about seven yards in height and eight in width on the side of the church, where it is kept in place by an iron railing. A bishop named Hepilo was the first to put up a framework to support the branches of the rose, and the fact is mentioned in the archives of the church as occurring in the year 1079. An account written in the thirteenth century declares this rose-tree to have been the marvel of the country round about.

The ancient rose of Heldersheim is certain-The farmer's wife ran out to the road and ly something to set modern levers of roses looked up and down. A tramp was shrffling to dreaming. How many races of roses have been born since this veteran of their tribe was planted!

Education in Toronto.

Toronto is steadily advancing in educational matters. The University has had two additional professorships endowed by the city, and is erecting a large and handsome building for the School of Practical Science a new Ladies' College has been opened "Ah, my young friend," said the eminent | under the auspices of the Baptist University, and a College of Music has been opened under the direction of Mr. F. H. Torringof the Metropolitan Methodist Church and conductor of the Philharmonic Society. In its system of teaching and the scope of its departments, the College resembles the University and provides a practical education, for both professional and amateur, in all branches of music.

In the Philippine village of Antique the onily white men were a priest and a Spanish planter. One day the native inhabitants decided to kill the priest, and attacked his house. The planter took a rifle and fifty cartridges, and went to the priest's defence. He used up all his cartridges, and made every one kill a man. Then the natives. terror stricken at the slaughter, fled, leaving their fifty dead on the ground.

Consumption Curable-

Since the fact that consumption is both preventable, and in its earliest stage curable, it has lost much of its terror. If the first symptoms are at once recognized, and the proper remedy applied, very few, if any one, need die of consumption, which is really lung-scrofula. Like many other diseases this formidable one grows out of impure blood, and this, in turn, from a diseased liver. Hence, we have the hacking cough, the pains in chest, the inflamed lungs, and all the symptoms of hastening consumption, all the result of depraved blood and a diseased liver. The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will arrest all such symptoms, restore the liver to healthy action, and send streams of pure blood into every organ. O
