The Prince's Speeches.

LONDON, Oct. 27 .- There is a report that Murray is going shortly to publish the Prince of Wales' speeches. He has now spoken in public for a quarter of a century. Many people believe that his speeches are entering. It was as if I had lived through written for him, the Prince only putting on the finishing touches. It is obvious that he | ed at my watch I saw that since I had fallmust have an immense deal of assistance, for the subjects on which he speaks are so varied that it would be next to impossible for him to prepare the materials for himself It will be interesting to see if there is any | kind. natural development in them, or if they show the work of different hands.

VIEWS ON THE IRISH QUESTION.

I believe there has been no question on which the Prince of Wales has had stronger views than concerning Ireland. His opinions on the desirability of having a royal residence there are perfecely well known. His feelings on these matters are not shared free of charge." in higher quarters, and to the Prince's great credit he has never allowed his opinions, if they were in opposition to the Queen's, to become known. He is the first heir apparent in England who never allowed whatever differences may have arisen between worst taste in the world !" him and the Crown to become public gossip.

HIS AMUSEMENT IN PARIS.

The Prince has been spending three days iu Paris incognito. Of course everybody | that she hasn't yellow hair." knows what he has been doing, and where he has been breakfasting and dining. His royal highness is accompanied invariably by the Marquis de Lau. He has been to see Mlle. Granier in Barbe Bleue, at the Varieties, Mlle.
