Our Ottawa Letter.

Special to the Standard.

The legislative sensation of the session was reserved for the Senate when it concluded its labors by rejecting the most important government bill introduced to Parliament. That was the Short Line Railway bill by which the government undertook to construct at a total cost of two millions, 130 miles of road from Harvey, N. B., to Moncton, N. B., to be operated by the Canadian Pacific in connection with the International into Halifax. Sir Charles Tupper once promised that the C. P. R. would build the road and so when the C. P. R. put its debt conversion bill before Parliament certain members objected to the bill until the J. P. R. consented to build the road. The minister of justice himself headed the obstructionists and the difficulty was finally adjusted by the bill introduced by Sir John Macdonald and thrown out by the Senate. It will be seen that neither the Premier or the C. P. R. desired the construction of the road, the Grand Trunk strenuously opposed it and three explanations of the Senate's unprecedented action are given: They acted independently; they acted against the wishes of the Premier; they acted in accordance with the wishes of the Premier—take your choice. The vote stood 22 against and 11 for the bill. Mr. Abbott, the leader of the Senate, is a C. P. R. director and spoke strongly for the measure. Mr. Frank Smith, also a member of the government in the Senate, is a Grand Trunk director and worked against the bill, and as he, as a member of the government, could not openly vote for the six months' lull he stayed out of the Chamber all day. Mr. Walter Shanly, the eminent engineer and a ministerialist, exclaimed in the House of Commons next day: "Thank God we have a House of Lords." He is, of course, a Grand Trunk man.

THE SENATE OFFENDED.

A joint committee of both Houses having reported certain proposed reductions in the salaries of officers of the Senate without a similar schedule applied to the Commons Senator Mille Conservator, declared that the reductions were being taken away and in their position as a co-ordinate branch of the legislature was being destroyed. The report of the committee, of which Sir Hector Langevin is chairman, they refused to adopt. There is room, however, for the pruning knife among the Parliamentary officers. In the Senate for instance the doorkeeper, employed for three months, receives $800. The Speaker's messenger gets $800 or over $260 a month. The Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, who sits on a chair in the Senate about two hours a day for about forty days in the year gets $1,350 from a grateful country. There are any number of messengers in receipt of six, seven and eight hundred dollars, the salary of many a good book-keeper toiling all the year round.

THE NEXT SESSION.

Sir John Macdonald announced before prorogation that Parliament next year would be called together early in January. This made Mr. Mitchell think the government was going to hold three more sessions before April, 1892, when this Parliament legally ends. The Premier replied that he would consider the suggestion.

PROROGATION.

Prorogation ceremonies were rather dull and not at all brilliant. The ladies wore ordinary street costumes and the Chamber was not full. His Excellency drove up at three o'clock in full uniform, not to be compared, however, in magnificence to the red breeches, white silk stockings, and gilt buttons of the funkeys. Lady Stanley arrived in a separate carriage driven by coachmen whose breeches were white instead of red. Altogether the dashing helmeted Dragoon Guards escort, the scarlet coated guard of honor, the brass band and the many colored coachmen, footmen and vice regal retainers, together with the vast throngs on Parliament hill fairly eclipsed the spectacle in the Red Chamber of the Senate.

OCCUPATIONS OF THE COMMONERS.

It is curious to note that of the 215 members of the House of Commons 59 are lawyers, 47 are merchants and members of trading or financial corporations, 39 are farmers, 21 physicians, 11 lumbermen, 9 journalists, 7 manufacturers, 6 contractors, 3 ship builders, 2 civil engineers.

THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

To-day the Royal Society of Canada begins its annual session in Ottawa. This is the pre-eminent literary and scientific society of the Dominion, the aristocracy of the study. The President is Prof. L. W. Bailey of the university of New Brunswick. He is an M. A., Ph. D. and author of several scientific works, natural science being his department. The secretary of the Society, whose patron is the Governor General, is the well known Dr. Bourinot, clerk of the House of Commons. He is an L. L. D., author of a work on parliamentary practice, a fellow of the Royal Colonial Institute and of the Statistical society. He is an example of native talent and industry, winning a prominent position in his native country. Dr. Burinot was a shorthand writer and parliamentary reporter, acting as official reporter in the Senate in 1868. Among the members of the Society are Sir Daniel Wilson, president of the University of Toronto, Mr. Sandford Fleming, C. M. G., the eminent engineer and chancellor of Queen's University; Dr. Louis Frechette, ex-M. P., journalist, poet, and Laureate of the French Academy; Dr. Sterry Hunt, who was president of the American Association for the advancement of Science in 1871. Then there are Mr. Le Moine, Mr. Le Sueur and many other literateurs.

NOTES.

The Railway committee of the Privy Council is meeting to-day.
Mr. Erastus Wiman delivered an address here Saturday evening under the auspices of the Board of Trade.
Mr. Owen Murphy, a supporter of Mr. Mercier's, from Quebec west, has been unseated for corrupt practices by an agent. He is a representative Irish Catholic.
There is no truth in the rumor that Sir John Macdonald is going to England this month.
Sir Charles Tupper sails for England on the 16th.
Ottawa, May 7.
