Will be a Statesman. Minister (to boy)—"So you have come out to the Sunday school picnic instead of going to the circus?"

Boy—"Yes, sir." "I am proud of you, my little man. One of these days you may be a great statesman."

Boy—"Yes, sir." "Come here Brother Moon?" (calling some one) "and talk to this little fellow that would rather come out here among the children than go to the circus."

Boy—"No, I wouldn't rather come here, but he gave me fifty cents to come here instead of going to the circus, but you bet your life I'll take the fifty an' go-morrer."—[Arkansas Traveler.]
