MARKDALE, AUGUST 20, 1891.

HARKAWAY.

Our foot ball team was greatly disappointed last week because the Markdale team failed to put in an appearance to play a game.

The town line north seems to be a very hilly road, as one of our farmers while on his way to Owen Sound with a load of oats had to lock no less than eleven times between here and Walter's Falls. We should elect a good man from our midst to each council the coming year.

Mr. W. J. Neely has gone to Calgary.

Miss Steer of Markdale has been visiting her son Edmond.

Mr. Culbert and wife spent last week at Chesley and other points.

Mr. and Mrs. McMicken visited friends at Shelburne and Riverview recently.

One of our young men who is inclined to the dipping idea chose a maiden of some sixteen summers to experiment on, but she, being a strong believer in another mode of baptism, promptly applied a pail full of water from top to toe, which must have convinced him of the error of his way.

Mr. Robert Halbert of Sydenham paid us a visit on Sunday.

Mr. Thomas Bentham, Detroit, Mr. A. and Miss Kate Bentham, Flesherton, spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin.

Walter's Falls.

Cool and damp.

A cyclone passed over this section on the 9th inst., doing considerable damage to fences, grain, orchards, &c. We learn that it almost destroyed an orchard belonging to Mr. N. Morrison near Bognor, tearing the trees up by the roots. During the same storm Mr. J. Hammill's house was almost struck by lightning rendering the inmates unconscious for a short time.

Mr. G. D. Reid returned home from St. Thomas last Saturday. He informs us that the crops look fully as good there as here and further ahead.

Mr. H. C. Morgan is away on an excursion to Niagara.

A Temperance Society has been formed here and by the forcible, earnest appeals of the head workers many have been snatched from sin and delusion into eternal peace and comfort.

Some of the farmers in this vicinity have harvested their fall-wheat which is a big yield. Mr. C. Hammill has got 40 bushels of 12 acres, or over 3 bushels per acre.

School reopened on Monday with an attendance of 52. The three candidates Miss Campbell, Olive Brown and Annie Cook went up to the Entrance examination were all successful. The first mentioned taking third highest marks in Sydenham, Thornbury, Kimberly and Markdale, and the other two taking also good marks.

Flesherton.

At a special meeting of the Orangeville Presbytery on Friday last, the Rev. J. Wells, B. A., accepted a very unanimous call from the Presbyterian congregations of Flesherton and Eugenia. The minimum stipend with free manse was offered. The induction into the aforesaid pastorate will take place in the Presbyterian church here on Tuesday the 25th inst., at 1:30 p. m. Revs. Mr. McLeod to preside, Dr. McRobie of Shelburne to preach, Mr. Johnston of Singhampton to address the people, Mr. Hudson of Dundalk to address the minister. These congregations are worthy of a good pastor for the very liberal effort put forth to become at once self-sustaining, and they are to be congratulated upon their success in securing Rev. Mr. Wells as their pastor, one so eminently pleasing and forcible speaker and defender of the truth.

Mr. Tooge of this place is now taking charge of the Methodist services at Grimsby, in his absence Rev. Mr. Barkerville with local help is looking after this work.

A. R. Sweet, Esq., of the "Streetsville Review" paid friends a brief visit here this week. The genial ex-Advance editor has still a hearty welcome and a loving and warm spot in Flesherton.

Again and again it has become our sad duty to notice the decease of those who have died in and some very suddenly, in this community but in no previous case was society more sickened than on Sunday morning last when the sad news spread rapidly through the village that John Field had suddenly died. Tears dimmed many eyes, pallor crept over many cheeks and the strongest and bravest held their breath for a time.

Deceased served several years in the British Army, after coming to this country settled in this place, he was among the earliest settlers in Flesherton. He was favorably and widely known in military circles and has long been an officer of No 6 company, 35 Battalion, an excellent drill sergeant and has for some time been Lieut of the company, respected and honored by all his men. On Saturday evening last he was engaged in the hall with drilling young recruits for company September next. On Sunday morning he arose and prepared himself for breakfast as usual and was about to sit down for his morning meal when he was seized with a pain in the breast and fell, he was at once carried in from by his son to whom he said "I am done for." Dr. Carter was at once summoned but life had fled.

Deceased was 52 years of age and leaves a widow and family to mourn his loss. He was a kind husband and father, a good neighbor and citizen respected by all. His remains will be interred in the Flesherton cemetery this Tuesday afternoon with Orange, Military and Masonic honors. Rev. Mr. Baskerville officiated at the house.

LATER.

The funeral on Tuesday was the largest and most impressive ever held in this district. Thousands of persons attended the obsequies. The 31st Batallion, of which deceased was a respected officer, was represented by Col. Brodie, Owen Sound; Maj. Rorke, M. P. P.; Capt. Macdonald, Chatsworth; Lieut. E. Rorke, Thornbury; Paymaster, W. Masson, Owen Sound; Cap. H. Cleldand, Meaford, and many other prominent officers also the batallion band from Durham. The six pall bearers were officers of the batallion. Then there was the Masons the Orange Order and Young Britains, all largely represented. The religious services at the house were conducted by Rev. Mr. Baskerville after which the Masons, Orangemen and Volunteers each took part in the solemn services and last sad rites. The procession was fully half a mile long and the various bands played appropriate music on the way to the cemetery. The whole was conducted with imposing solemnity.

Their Best Cows Were Their Pumps.

Complaints were laid by Inspector J. E. Hopkins, of Brantford, against seven Patrons of the Victoria Cheese Factory before P. M. Magistrate M. C. Brown, Simcoe, for sending milk watered, skimmed and stippings kept back. On Tuesday the 4th inst., five accused pleaded guilty to one of the above charges. They were each fined $10 and costs amounting to over $14 each, as these were the first cases of this kind it was made light but it may not fair so well in the future should any be so foolish as to come before him with same offence. It is to be hoped that this will be ample warning to all who are sending milk to different factories to send it as it comes from their cows. The Ontario Government has appropriated money for the appointment of four Inspectors under the direction of the Western Dairymen's Association whose duty it is to visit each factory in each district and thoroughly inspect all the patrons milk and prosecute any sending contrary to law. It is of great importance to every factory and to this Province as well as each honest patron sending milk that the reputation of our cheese should be maintained and this can only be done by protecting the factories from dishonest milk. Each Inspector is furnished with a genuine Lactometer and Dr. Babcock's Milk tester equal to annalizing. Therefore ye who dare take care.—Norfolk Reformer.

Adulterated Milk.

Dairy Inspector J. E. Hopkins, of the Western Dairymens' Association, has been for some days testing the milk at Markdale Cheese Factory, and found a few cases below the Standard, and had to enter complaint. Two of the parties complained of settled the difficulty out of Court by paying a fine of $10 each and costs, but the third appeared on Tuesday before Squires Brown, Struthers and Rae resulting in the imposition of a fine of $15 and costs.

The Inspector reports the milk at this factory good on the whole, standing higher than many places visited, while the management in manufacturing is good, and the factory kept clean and neat. Mr. Stokes, he says, is a pains. taking and attentive maker and the cheese of the finest quality. He says it would be to the intersts of this section if the farmers would keep more cows and also take better care of them thereby making a longer season, say six months. By so doing they would realize more per cow and greater profits, and thus become more interested in the cheese business. Where they do this the general virdict is that it pays to keep cows.

A Melon-choly Incident.

(O. S. Advertiser.)

The water-melon trade here is not going to die out, notwithstanding that Dad Henson—that renowned consumer of this delightful article of summer diet—is no longer in our midst. On Friday night several young Poulett street swells, headed by a limb of the law, having passed round the hat and scraped together from the mysterious recesses of their trousers pockets a sufficient number of shekels, made a sudden descent on a confectionary, fruit and sode-water store, kept by a peaceable and law-abiding citizen at the south of Water street. In about two minutes the air was green (not blue this time) with water-melon, each member of the crowd having wound up the mainspring of his large and picturesque mouth and then "sicken it on" the water-melon. Meanwhile a detachment of police came rushing upon the scene, headed by the chief, who had been attracted by the terrific racket. They declared on discovering the source of the noise that they had actually concluded that a volcano or something else equally dreadful had made its appearance; "and" concluded Chief McAuley, "I want it to be distinctly understood that any volcany or such, that breaks Her Majesty's peace in this man's town, is going to get run in without further delay. Young gentlemen, its not quite so serious as that this time, but I give fair warning that henceforth you must consume your water-melons outside the corporation limits, so that the public may not be disturbed. I will only ask you this time to see that this debris is cleared off the streets before the early morning traffic begins." Half an hour after the young gents were busily engaged with brooms, shovels, &c., clearing away the remains of their nocturnal repast; and the limb of the law has been seen since anxiously enquiring of the authorities (Blackstone, Kingsmill, &c.) whether there is a law against the consumption of water-melons within the limits of any corporate town. Perhaps it was only an extreme measure on the part of the chief.

Public and Private Morality

The current session of Parliament has been a most humiliating one to all honest Canadians. The effect upon the reputation of Canadians in general and of those of them in any way connected with the politics and public life of the country in particular, cannot fail to be seriously and lastingly injurious We cannot complain of the fact. This is merely the outcome of a well understood law of retributive justice. When the people wink at corrupt methods in elections, it is but to be expected that those who gain or retain power by such methods must fail to secure any higher code of honour in those who serve under them in positions of influence or trust. The stream cannot rise above its source. It has often been observed and lamented that too many of those from whom better things might be expected seem to have one system of morals to govern their relations to individuals, and quite another system to govern their relations to the public as an organized body, whether in a municipal or political capacity. How often is it the case that the man or the woman who would be strictly fair and upright in dealing with a neighbor seems to think it quite pardonable and even creditable to get the better of the corporation in any transaction, or to teach the Customs or the Post-office, or to obtain two prices for a product or a service from the Provincial or National Government. This shallow and painful trifling with moral standards may often be charitably ascribed to a lack of proper ethical training, or of that moral thoughtfulness which Dr. Arnold rightly prized so highly, and which in many natures can be developed only by careful cultivation of the sense of right and wrong. But if it is painful to find a similar moral obtuseness in those from whom we should have expected the very opposite? it would be easy to illustrate our meaning from the records of the committees of enquiry now sitting at Ottawa. A Deputy Minister, for instance, fails to see any moral wrong in permitting clerks in a Government office to draw money from the Department, in the name of other persons, real or fictitious, which it would have been illegal to draw in their own. Another official in the service of the Government, himself the son of a Minister, boldly declares, in the presence of a Parliamentary Committee, that he thinks those who hold good contracts from the Government should make liberal donations to the funds of the political party which supports the Government. Nay, a Minister of the Crown himself assures a Parliamentary Committee, with the air of a man who expects applause for the statement, that he has sometimes refused the contract for a public service to the lowest tenderer, in order that he might the better distribute the patronage, as if forsooth, the management of a branch of the public service meant the distribution of a certain amount of the public funds in the way of patronage, rather than the conduct of public business on business principles, in the conscientious discharge of a public trust. It is painfully apparent that this baneful idea of "patronage" is at the bottom of much of the wrong-doing which is wasting the national resources and bringing disgrace upon the Canadian name.—Week.

DEAR SIR,—Your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills" are the best regulator for the system that humanity can use. Lifers as the time piece: frail and delicate are many of its works. A tiny particle of foreign substance adheres to the smallest wheel in the works, and what is the result?—Stoppage, only a slight difference in the obstruction grows, the irregularity becomes greater, until at last, what could have been rectified much care in thoroughly cleansing the entire works. So it is in human life—a slight derangement is neglected rapidly, until what could, in the beginning, have been cured with little trouble, becomes almost fatal. To prevent this, I advise all to purify the system frequently, by the use of Morse's Pills, and so preserve vigor and vitality.

W. H. COMSTOCK, Brockville, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—This is to certify that I deal in Patent Medicines, including various kinds of Pills. I sell more of the Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills than of all the others combined. Their sales I find are still increasing.

Yours, &c.
N. L. NICHOLSON.
