DON'T monkey with the editor. He is liable to be loaded. The editor of the Independence (Kan.) Star sued a delinquent subscriber for eleven dollars. The delinquent claimed that he never subscribed for the paper and did not purpose to pay. The judge instructed the jury that if the evidence disclosed the fact that the delinquent had taken the paper from the office or caused it to be taken, they should find for the plaintiff. It cost the man nearly a hundred dollars to settle what eleven dollars would have paid. It pays to be honest especially with the printer.

Editor Standard:

We are saddened to chronicle the death of John Morrison, son of our highly esteemed farmer Mr. W. Morrison, of the 2nd con., Glenelg.

He had entered a monastry at the age of twenty-six, and, after five years of assiduous labor for the salvation of souls passed happily away in the Lord.

While we offer our sincere and heartfelt condolence to the bereaved family we do not forget the relations over whom a gloom has been cast by the loss of one of their treasures. Who can estimate the value or measure the loss of one whose every thought and action serves to promote that which is good?

Education.

It has been customary for the great majority of persons to think and speak of education as applied to our day schools and colleges, forgetting that there is a large and growing class in every community who have left school years ago, and who through their present occupation are unable to attend the colleges, and if they were able would find our colleges only capable of giving special lines of instruction suitable for the ministry, medicine or law, true the Business Colleges now scattered over Ontario are filling a long felt want in some directions, but how many hundreds, yes thousands of persons who cannot avail themselves of the privilege of attending such institutions.

It is now well understood that the educated tradesman, merchant, clerk, etc., is the best, and without a good practical training suitable for your special trade or other occupation you get behind in the race of life.

Great Britian found that out some years ago, when she discovered that France, Germany and other States were producing finer, better cheaper specimens of work than her own. A Royal Commission was then appointed to enquire into the cause, and their report was that those countries had a better educated class of mechanics, artisans, &c., that their Governments had established schools and colleges for that class, and so the different individuals became better workmen for the community grew better and so the national products were better and more saleable, they produced better, designs for they understood the art of drawing, they produce better machinery, &c., because they now understood the laws of proportion, weight, &c.

Acting on this report Great Britian established Technical Schools, Mechanics' Institutes and Art Schools all over the land, and so gradually gained back her first position. In no country are those schools more necessary than our own, with our undeveloped mineral and other great resources. We have one school of Practical Science in Toronto, but in looking over the course we find it more suitable for civil engineers and other similar professions, so that the only institutions at present capable of giving some of the desired requirements are our Mechanics' Institutes and Art Schools which our Provincial Legislature has so liberally provided with money grants on certain conditions.

The great aim of Mechanics' Institutes is not the Reading Room and Library alone, but to educate the community by means of Evening Classes, and it is no wonder that so many young men and women are availing themselves of the opportunity now opened to them to improve their time and talents and make them more fit to perform the active duties of a business life.

An Act of Kindness.

Editor Standard.

The following is related by a person who had the pleasure and the profit of witnessing the whole incident,

"Not long ago I had occasion to travel not less than a hundred miles. While in the Toronto C. P. R. waiting room my curiosity was aroused by an unsual bustle. Glancing around to ascertain its cause my eyes rested on a young girl who was weeping. She showed several signs of poverty and was very poorly clad for the cold blustry day which it chanced to be on that occasion. But her present distress was more immediate than anything I have yet mentioned. She had missed her train and was left without a cent of money or a friend to whom she might turn. My sympathy was at once aroused, but before I had time to form any good resolutions, to my utter satisfaction I observed one of the C. P. R. conductors going around the room receiving from each a little contribution for the distressed girl.

It seemed this venerable gentleman had learned the cause of her grief and hastened to assuage her trouble. She was handed a handsome collection and after humbly expressing thanks left us glad that she could now remain over night in the city.

After this observation I could not help thinking a great deal and my memory involuntarily lingered on the lines:—

"I count this thing to be grandly true,
That a noble deed is a step towards God,
Lifting the soul from the common clod
To a purer air and a broader view."

This is another of the high remarks passed on the courteous and obliging C. P. R. conductors.

SILENT.

Editor Standard:

DEAR SIR,—I noticed in your last issue that my name figured disagreeably conspicuous in the war of words waged between our correspondent, and your worthy member. Now Sir, the whole trouble apparently is built upon my shoulders and now that I am nearly threescore years and ten and never having had such a load to carry before, though my mind was easy figuratively speaking, my bones sorely ache under the friendly pressure (?) and so I must try to disengage myself of the burden and straighten up all round. As we failed to get the first petition granted, at my request this year the Dr. wrote out a second, and I canvassed the south of our district and all willingly and without any questions signed it, and R. S. McLaughlan canvassed the north with the same success. This petition I then posted to the P. M. General, followed by a letter to both the Dr. and the P. M. G. (which the Dr. instructed me. I should have done when the first petition was sent in.) After this I received a couple of communications from our member about the matter and finally a letter was forwarded to me which had been written to Dr. Sproule from the P. M. General, stating that his request would be granted and we should have two mails a week via. Lily Oak, so about the Lily Oak suggestion give credit to whom credit is due. I desire none of it for that, for when the P. O. Inspector wrote me asking my opinion about such a route my reply to him was anything but favorable of such a plan. By the letters I received from our member I am satisfied he did every his influence in bringing this matter to its final issue, and I think when we got everything settled as we desired we should be grateful instead of raising a disturbance over it.

Thanking you for your space,

I remain Sir,
Respectfully yours,
JAMES LOGAN.

Division Court Items.

Friday Nov. 13th was division court day in Markdale, when some twelve or fourteen cases were disposed of by His Honor Judge Morrison, about half these were judgment summonses, and the balance unimportant except perhaps two cases. One case Clarke vs Hanner man was one of considerable complication of accounts in connection with the sale of timber also work between the parties which the court after spending a long time in vainly trying to see through, concluded to let lie over till next court, that fuller and clearer accounts may be rendered by both parties.

Gillespie vs. McGill, wood dealer of Toronto. A case arising out of a contract taken by Gillespie to haul three hundred and forty six cords of wood at Berkeley which he claimed he did. Mr. McGill claimed that he only received three hundred and twenty-three cords in Toronto, twenty-three cords less than the ground measure in Berkeley. Mr. McGill was also dissatisfied because Mr. Gillespie without his permission exchanged two piles of wood with another party because he could not get at Mc. Gills wood. This mode of loading was shown to be somewhat customary, and it was not shown that McGill had suffered loss by the exchange, yet His Hohor did not exactly like the plaintiff exchanging the piles without defendents consent. Judgment was given for the loading of the whole three hundred and forty-six cords of wood with costs.

As is usual in the case of those upon judgment summons for the first time they get off with a tax of from one to three dollars per month and His Honor in the kindness of his heart usually gives a month before the first judgment has to be made they depart rejoicing, but those up the second time on that is called a show cause summons, that is to show why the monthly payments have not been made; these have considerable difficulty in satisfying His Lordship, however he is very particular in making the order to find out if they are able to pay the amount. Among the cases on hand were three who were unable to make satisfactory explanation and were committed to jail, two for ten days and one for forty days, all so anxious was he to get his forty days in that he wanted to go up that night, but the plaintiff was not so anxious to furnish the funds to defray the expenses of a trip to Owen Sound, so he was allowed to go home for the present, but no doubt he will be accountable in the near future as well as those who were not so anxious to go.

It is needless to say that the different cases were ably conducted by our local limbs of the law McCullough and Lucas, people having so much confidence in them that outside lawyers are seldom called in now, which speaks well for our local law talent.
