

THE DEVIL-SNARE

Let us come away from this end of the garden, Mr. Westwood said to her...

"No, Mr. Westwood, I am not going to leave you here," she said...

"What a beautiful day!" she said, looking up at the sky...

"I have never seen you so happy before," she said...

"I am so glad to see you," she said, her eyes shining...

"I have never been so happy in my life," she said...

"I am so glad to see you," she said, her eyes shining...

"I have never been so happy in my life," she said...

"I am so glad to see you," she said, her eyes shining...

PETER HORACE'S SPECULATION

It had been for months a mooted question in the little village of Glendale...

"There were two nice ones, the nearest of kin in the first place," he said...

"The lawyer sat at the head of the room," he said...

"I have never seen you so happy before," she said...

"I am so glad to see you," she said, her eyes shining...

"I have never been so happy in my life," she said...

"I am so glad to see you," she said, her eyes shining...

"I have never been so happy in my life," she said...
