Mrs. Sarah M. Black of Seneca, Mo., during the past two years has been affected with Neuralgia of the Head, Stomach and Womb, and vrites: "My food did not seem to trengthen me at all and my appe-tic was very variable. My face was yellow, my head dull, and I had ush pains in my left side. In the ming when legot up I would ave a flow of mucus in the mouth, d a bad, bitter taste. Sometimes my breath became short, and I had such queer, tumbling, palitating sensations around the heart. I ached all day under the shoulder blades. n the left side, and down the back my limbs. It seemed to be worse ewet, cold weather of Winter and Spring; and whenever the spells ame on, my feet and hands would turn cold, and I could get no sleep at all o I tried everywhere, and got o relief before using August Flower Then the change came. It has done aderful deal of good during the time I have taken it and is workg a complete cure." G: GREEN, Sole Man'fr, Woodbury, N.J.

At that thought I stopped still in the squalid street, into which I had wandered, and my mart seemed to bound up into my throat, st pping my breath for the minute. When, with a sudden impulse, I moved quickly on, I caught sight of a worm standing on the opposite side of the path, Icoking up the alley to see what I had been gaping at.

I saw that it was by being simple, not I saw that it was by being simple, not making myself cunning, that I could get at the truth. "If I throw off the convict's cunning, and regain the trusting confidence of happier days," I said to myself. The thoughts pource tunultuously throughmy mind, breaking in one upon the other.

"Does not innocence sometimes wear a mask as well as guilt," I asked myself? If one disguise has deceived me, may not the mask as well as guilt," I asked myself? If one disguise has deceived me, may not the other laise? Why had I believed as old rascal, and not believed Hebe? A Curious Transformation of Brass. A curious incident has been noticed in cor A curious incident has been noticed in connection with the brass condenser-tubes of a foreign cruiser. The pipes, after being in use for more than 12 months, were found to have experienced a peculiar change. In many places the metal had been, it appears, converted into almost pure copper of a spongy texture, the zinc of the alloy having completely disappeared. An investigation which was made showed the probable cause of the failure to have been an alectrotycic of the failure to have been an electrolytic action between the tin lining of the tubes and the brass, the sea water circulating through the condenser forming the electric lyte. Had the tin coating remained perfect doubtless no corrosion would have resulted but the mud and grit conveyed in suspenthe tin coating in spots, and it was at these points that the transformation of the mital cocurred. It is concluded that if the p.per had not been tinned at all they would have sin remained intact:

And so a man often wonders how his wife spends so much money without having more to show for it. He constantly calls her his "better half," and yet thinks she is not half solwise or prudent as he is, and considers her an irresponsible being whom it is not safe to trust with money. He does not mind giving her occasionally a diamond ring, or pin, or bracelet, though he will look surprised, or perhaps a little cross, if she asks for one-fourth of the sum for the children's clothes or to replemish the china closte. One thing that no man seems to understand is that it is humiliating to a woman to have to ask for money, no matter how willingly he moment in the hope that it will occur to him to give it without waiting for her to ask for it; and, if he is accustomed to be so unreasonable as to makeany scene about givunreasonable as to make any scene about giv-ing it, she will often do without an absolute necessity while trying to find courage to prefer her request. The weather was very hot and the sky without a cloud, and about 10 o'clock, as the bark was rolling heavily on a ground swell and the sails slattering like the report of field pieces, everything was made snug. On board every sailing ship both Captain and mate take the noon observation at the same time, and both work it out afterward. The two are then compared. The only thing we had seen Capt. Lucas put his hand to was to take this observation. At noon found in localities to which they are Fenry shousand tons of coal are burned daily it London.
