CATTLE POISONING

For some time past cows running at large on the public highways of the Village of Brooklin have taken ill and died. Many theories or runors of poisoring being affoat led the Hon. John Dryden to call an investigation of one of the cattle by some specialists. Dr. Sweetapple, of the Ontario Veterinary College, Teronto, was present and a post morten held. No light was given on the matter more than was prespit and a jost morton held. No light was given on the matter more than that given by the local veterinary. Five cows have been stricken there, of which four died almost immediately, and the remaining one cannot recover. This baffies all veterinary science, and the villagers are so alarmed that they keep their animals shut up lest they share the same fate.

No light was given on the matter more than three or four hundred men and women united spontaneously to defound it, and succeeded after two hours had fighting in mastering the flames. The total loss will reach about $8,000; only partially covered by insurance.
