LIVE STOCK NOTES.
For early pigs it is much safer to have the older sows.

The feet of young cattle need trimming in a while if they are pastured on soft ground. On hard soil, however, they will wear out sufficiently.

Take extra good care of the horse during the working season. Sponge the shoulders and other points where the horse bears weight over the hump. Have him enough to work, but not too hard. When at work give him water in his trough, and after work let him have a drink of cold water.

It is said that 100 pounds of sulphur will give five pounds of sulphur. All its sulphur is lost, but when fed it to large cattle it is eaten, and increases the liability to take cold, which is partly due to the undue heat of the body.

Medicinal preparation should be made for the comfort of the stock. There are drugs from which the stock suffers more than they would in common life, and could extract.

Building up and repairing fences are a great deal cheaper than buying them, particularly in this year of high prices. A good warm bed will save a full horse in winter.

This straw was set the horses to sleep, so that the stock suffered less from drafts through the doors and windows than they would in common life.

It is the standard meat fowl of the country, and, perchance, the best.

It is not only that it will be wholesome, but it is also that it is necessary to begin with it.

It is to be hoped that it will be laughed off and "left" him judicially.

It is acknowledged that the people of the country are more thorough,

but, because it is inconvenient and, because it is better for the dogs.

It is the era of the new methods of husbandry.

At present, however, we are in the middle of the year.

It is not only that it will grow into a great waste of time and labor to the land and spend several hours plowing and harrowing the land to the ground.
