Box Social at Temple Hill

The Box Social held by the Ladier Auxiliary of Temple Hill Presbyterian church in aid of Foreign Missions on Tuesday evening of last week was, like everything else in connection with this progressive church, a big success, the attendance including young and old from all sections of Euphrasia, and from adjoining townships. The boxes were distributed indiscriminately, and much amusing "pairing off" resulted.
Mr. Alex. Erskine was chosen chairman, and it is needless to say that he discharged his duties gracefully and well. The churchchoir—which, by the way, has recently been strengthened by the addition of new members, not-ably Miss Hall, an alto singer of much sweetness and power—contributed several new selections. Those old favorites, Dr. Bennett at the organ and Mr. John Patton with the violin, pro-duced exquisite melody, which caused them to be raiturently energed or seleduced exquisite melody, which caused them to be rapturously encored on each appearance, and a solo by Miss Mattie Gilray was well received. Miss Agnes Burrell's rendering of "The Island of the Scots" proved that she possesses elecutionary ability which should be cultivated. Mr. Shore, the new Blantyre teacher, contributed two recitations which were well in keeping with the nature of the entertainment, and in which articulation, pausation and modulation were carefully observed. hereabouts and at Flesherton for some days. Name the Farm. It has been frequently suggested that reat good would result from each farmer placing his name and the name of his farm in a conspicuous place or ais barn or road-gate. Not only would ersons driving for the first time to the lace more easily find it, but it would dd much pleasure and interest to peo ple driving from place to place. This atter result would have especial effect with regard to well, kept and pretty nomes. An observing person will sel-lom pass a beautiful farm steading without a desire to know who is its enterprising owner. If such a practice vere general a marked improvement in he appearance of our farms, and thereore in our country, could not fail to result. Every tidy man would feel a eightened interest in making his farm front, roadsides, etc., more beautiful, knowing that every passer-by would ommend him as the owner. It would also have a good effect upon the untidy nan's farm, because the contrast be wear his slovenly place and his neigh or's Well-kept home would shame him nto fence repairing, tree planting, and or put up the $25.00. I scarcely know which is the most difficult task, but I think I will try the former. As he suggested I wrote to about half of the names, I thought that would be sufficient to accomplish my purpose. The following is the result of my investigation. I find six of them are repair jobs, one of which was done last July John Ward's pump' (Whitehouse) was put in last September. Three of the names I cannot find in the directory or any where else, viz: Geo. Moffat, Bog nor, Alex. Cresar, Chatsworth, and E Connor, Durham, I wrote to them but got no answer. M. D. Connor, pump maker at Durham was in my shop a few days after he published the names, he says there is no E. Connor near Durham, that there is only two Connor's there besides himself and he is sure he did not sell a pump to any of them. will only publish three of the letters I received this time. If Mr. McCullough is not satisfied but wishes to continue the "war" as he calls it, I will publish some more, as I have a number of away. others almost equally as interesting. Bognor, Jan. 27, '96. MR. ARTLEY,

MR. ARTLEY, Yours to hand, would say that I never bot a pump from the party you ment-ioned. Geo. Miller.

I am prepared to prove all that I have said above. It would appear that it was his whole summers work he has published, which he says he sold in two months, viz: November and De cember, and then he had to use three fictitious names to make up the number. I rocken I'm not entitled to pay the $25. Lam really sorry for the Ladies Aid for I'm sure they could have used the money to good advantage among the poor of the village this extremely hard winter. I have had several already telling me they were going to apply for a share of it, it was really too bad to disappoint them. I have to reluctantly acknowledge that he has the advantage of me in one thing at least for I was not born a poet, nor do I employ one to write for me, I'm content with what I can do myself in a humble way. I will say that I would not have interfered with him if he had advertised the truth, I like to see a person have reember, and then he had to use three truth, I like to see a person have respect for common honesty. I would recommend Mr. McCullough to read a book entitled Tact, Pushand Principle
