Gentle Reminder.

Uncle" Peter Bates was a local celebrity who kept the tavern in Randolph, Vt., in the old staging days.

He was noted for his dry humor, and was never at a loss for a retort or for a method of expressing his ideas.

One morning, after breakfast, as a stranger was about to depart without paying his bill, Uncle Peter walked up to him and blandly said:

"Mistor, if you should lose your pocket-book between here and Montpelier, remember you didn't take it out here."

Useless Forebodings.

"What a vast proportion of our lives is spent in anxious and useless forebodings concerning the future—either our own or our dear ones'! Present joys, present blessings slip by, and we miss half their sweet flavor, and all for want of faith in Him who provides for the tiniest insect in the sunbeam. Oh! when shall we feel the sweet trust in God that our Father gives each weave, who are so much more to Him, so irritable, so unjust, so wayward, so wilful, so pitiful, so loving, so forgiving? When cannot we, slipping our hand into His every day, walk trustingly over that day's unexplored path, cheery or flowery, crooked or straight, knowing that evening will bring us sleep, peace and home.—Phillips Brooks.

Finer Than Silk.

When you see a man is thoroughly content with himself and is able to take all the ups and downs of life that there may be, and wishes to impress people with the fact he is not to envy his independence effectively by an apt quotation? So when a man who has for sheer vanity and little else in abundance, spent a quarter of an hour in the company of his friends that he feels finer than silk, you may be certain that something wonderful and little short of miraculous has happened to that man. Yesterday was what a resident of Belleville has that man's name to the undergarment of his choice. Better no. Only the other day, and the day before, and the day before that, he was in the habit of wearing a flannel shirt, but now he has changed all that. Oddfellowship is a thing of the past in this town. Initiation fees were made ages ago. There are no banquets to feed on, no fines to be collected, no duties to perform. There are the shirts, still who did know all their troubles at Oakville, they knew it. It must be a terrible disappointing hunger. This is the way to make your own fortune. Go to Connor Bros. and get a front of Canadian Building.
