Rev. N. Wellwood of Thornbury, concluded the reopening services in the Methodist church here on Sabbath last preaching to large congregations, in the evening the church was crowned.

The text for the morning was Isa, 83:17. The preacher drew a vivid picture of the reign of good King Hezekiah and the triumph that attended his battle. After victory had crowned his efforts ne came out decked in his royal robes and the eyes of the people saw the King in his beauty. He then went on to show that some eyes did not see him

And breathed in the face of the foc as he passed: And the eyes of the watchers grew deadly and And their breasts heaved but once and forever ed to decorate the church this

So the eyes of the good and true shall see the King in His beauty, but to the unfaithful disobedient and rebellious there is no beauty in Him that they should desire Him. The evening theme was Christs grief over Jerusalem Luke 19: 41-44. The speaker commenced by scribing Jerusalem in her day of from the city last week, they report an light and privileges, then described from Josephus her multiplied warnings and then showed that there were two ways by which the light was hidden from her eyes, first, by themselves and secondly, by God. He then drew an analogy between Jerusalem's privileges and ours and showed how they might be hidden from our eyes. Mr. Wellwood is a thoughtful and edifying preacher, and his services on Sabbath were highly appreciated. At the comnencement of these services a fortnight ago the work of renovation had not een quite completed, but since then the finishing touches live been put on and as we promised our readers we shall endeavor to describe the interior of this place of worship which has been 'made to look rich and beautiful indeed. The he will transact important business finishing has been done in oil and the while away, which will necessitate his delicate tints and colors blending har moniously have a restful and pleasing effect upon the eye. The superior workmanship throughout and fine taste displayed by the artist, Mr. W. H. Flesher, has given entire satisfaction to the congregation. As a decorator Mr. Flesher has his mark and for the future has a standing monument to his superior abilities for beautifying and adorning, and has placed himself abreast with the foremost men in that line of the art. The arched ceiling is a picture to look at the ground work eing done in cream and pink, stenetled with shades of bronze, green, pink and lavender. The walls have been done in flesh color; above the wainscotting and around the windows there is artistic scroll work in the same shades as on the ceiling, and an appropriate motto "Worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness" is beautifully lettered on the face of the arch above. the organ chancel. The large stained windows, 10 in number, contain five handsome atterns, each pair having a beautiful mblem in the centre as follows: An open Bible, cross and crown, anchor, decending dove, and monogram, A. O. (alpha and omega.) The Hobbs Co. London, furnished the windows which for fine workmanshir, beauty of de-Cheboygan, Mich., left for home last sign and convenience in ventilating, make them highly creditable to that firm who carried out their contract in a ing Mrs Humphreys, left for home last very satisfactory manner. The wainscotting, pancels in platform, pulpit vard to make 're chancel, formerly occupied by the choir being now almost filled with the new pipe organ which in itself is an adornstops, 79 notes and 405 pipes. The tone is rich, compass wide and powerful, and under the skilful hand of Miss Christoe adds greatly to the enjoyment of the service of praise. Eight hand-some Pittsburg lamps have replaced the old chandeliers and add greatly to the appearance and improvement in the lighting. In all that has been done the people nave responded liberally and joined heartily in supporting their energetic pastor Rev. Need Anticipated!

That's the sum and substance of this store news. No occasion for a pyrotechnic display. It's no news to you. Heads of families appreciate the fact more than they can ever tell, and more recole are finding us out 'every day.

Every possible dlothing need of man, woman and child has been anticipated. You can't think of a thing that we haven't got, and the prices we ask are a direct bid for twice over the trade we have now.

Things for the Home!

There are other things in the store besides dry goods -things for use and ornament in home. Time and again we have emphasized the fact that no other store begins to do the Carpet and Curtain business as well as we. You evidently find it so, for trade is growing beyond all expectations, and sales justify the efforts made to keep prices below the average.

A little money will go a long way towards furnishing a house these days.

These stocks represent untold chances to win comfort and satisfaction at trifling expense;

CARPETS AND FLOOR OILCLOTHS. CURTAINS AND DRAPERIES. WALL PAPERS AND WINDOW SHADES.

Shoppers are becoming more and more critical in their knowledge of goods. We may advise you that carpets are below the retail market, that all classes of house furnishings are quick to adapt themselves to your every need, but what of it? It requires careful, consistent work in the store as well as sensible advertising to make business successful in the sense of being thoroughly correct. The important fact is this: Every department is very wide awake and no pains are being spared to make your interests uniform with our own.
