to describe his departure, so sweet was it, so contented was it, so peaceful was it. Stephen had lived a very laborious life. His chief work had been to care for the poor. How many barve feet he had sandaled, how many cots of sickness and distress he ble sod with ministries of kindness and love I do not know but from the way be lived and the way be died I know he was a laborious Christian. kindness and love I do not know but from the way be lived and the way be died I know he was a laborious Christian. But that is all ever now. He has pressed the cup to the last fainting lip. He has taken the last it sult from his enemics. The last stone to whose crushing wight he is susceptible has been hurled. Stephen is dead! The dieiples come. They take him up. They wish away the blood from the wounds. They straighten out the bruised limbs! They brush back the tangled hair from the brow, and then they pass around to look upon the calm countenance of him who had lived for the poor and dec for the truth. Stephen

A School for Dishifection The Prussian Minister of Education has ordered the stablishment of a special high school for the teaching of disinfection in all its branches. The school is to be connected with the Hygienic Institute of the University of Breslau and will be under the direction of Professor Fluegge of that university. — Popular Science News.

The X Ray Eye. The news comes from France that have X ray eyes. are oventually to have X ray eyes. An exceptionally learned French scientist says that in time we will be enabled to see almost any number of vibrations of light.

Not all of us may be so gifted, however. The faculty will be confined to a few, and they vill be called xylopes, if the French professor has his way about it. To these xylopes the French scientist says that lovely women will appear as skylotons covered with a gulatinous sort of matter.

skeletons covered with a golatinous sort of matter.

What value, then, will the human from have? There will be no rosos, no dimples, no protty curves. Grace will be typified by bones—ugly, horrid bones. Laughter will be ossified, cars will be invisible, weeping a more fattling of the teeth. The traces would be filled with the horror of hipless, lidless, furless crowns. The terror of pervious clothes would vanish. Modesty would assume new forms and phases. Or perhaps we would go back to mediaeval days—to the suits of armorand go about the streets clanking and unstreets clanking and un-

The Art and Mystery of Driving a Hog. The difficulty of driving a single hog was well illustrated at the foot of Ninth atreet one afternoon. Some men were periments have, been made to find out the proper temperature at which to keep such articles, safe from clothes moths, black carpet beetles, leather beetles, the dark mealworm and a cabinet beetle. It was found that a temperature of 40 to 42 degrees F, in summer is sufficient. The columning laws hitherto kent the animals became obstreperous and bolted toward the city, thereby becoming, separated from the rest of the drove. The three or four men, assisted by volunteers, placed themselves between the city and the rebel-lious hog in a semicircle while one of their number advanced cautiously and began to tickle the hog's nose with a pine brash. This would make the animal turn round, number advanced cautiously and began to tickle the hog's nose with a pine brush. This would make the animal turn round, and each time ho did so be would move a few steps toward the bridge and the rest of the drove. The manoguvers were writed with a great deal of interest by a large crowd of spectators, and when finally the wayward one returned to the bosom of the drove a very audible murnaur of admiration went up from the crowd.—Lynch-miration went up from the crowd.—Lynch-miration is in the middle of the car.
