

A BROKEN BETROTHAL

BY LARRA JEAN LIBBY
Author of "When Lovely Maiden Stoops to Flirt," "Parted by Fate," "Parted at the Altar," etc.

Harold. I quite forgot that I had only to fetch my hat and go to the office. I had a dry goods store in a town, and we lived on in those humble rooms. When you were a thousand times as good as I am now in this marble hall, I had no interest in the world. I had no interest in the world. I had no interest in the world.

CHAPTER XIX.
"I have everything went on as usual," said Mrs. Winfield, "but I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"What a feeling!" said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

Screamed... Agony

With... Tortures of... Eozoma on the Scalp

Some of the cures effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment are more like miracles than anything else recorded here. One of the worst cases of itching, burning, and smarting eruptions of the scalp, which was cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, is given in the following letter:

Mr. James Scott, 135 W. 14th St., Toronto, writes: "My son, Tom, aged ten, was nearly three years afflicted with a bad form of Eozoma of the scalp, which was very unmanageable and caused him much suffering. His hair was in a terrible state, and he had to wear a wig. I tried many remedies, but all failed. I then used Dr. Chase's Ointment, and in a few days the itching and burning ceased, and his hair began to grow again. I am now able to wash his hair, and he is perfectly cured. I am very grateful to you for the discovery of this wonderful medicine."

CHAPTER XXI.
The morning brought a bright and sunny day. The sun shone brightly on the water, and the birds sang merrily in the trees. The children were playing in the park, and the people were walking about in their summer clothes. It was a beautiful day, and everyone was enjoying it.

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

Hard-working Farmers

Long hours of hard, never-ending work makes kidney trouble a common complaint on the farm. Painful weakness or backache and urinary disorders are too frequent.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS help a farmer to work and keep his health. It takes the ache and pain out of his back and gives him strength and vigor.

CHAPTER XXI.
The morning brought a bright and sunny day. The sun shone brightly on the water, and the birds sang merrily in the trees. The children were playing in the park, and the people were walking about in their summer clothes. It was a beautiful day, and everyone was enjoying it.

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

Save the Babies.

Thousands of them die every summer who could be saved by the timely use of Dr. Fowler's Ext. of Wild Strawberry.

There is not a mother who does not know that her child should be kept cool and comfortable. The best way to do this is by using Dr. Fowler's Ext. of Wild Strawberry.

CHAPTER XXI.
The morning brought a bright and sunny day. The sun shone brightly on the water, and the birds sang merrily in the trees. The children were playing in the park, and the people were walking about in their summer clothes. It was a beautiful day, and everyone was enjoying it.

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

DR. A. W. CHASE'S REMEDIES.

DR. CHASE'S LIVER PILLS cure chronic constipation and dyspepsia.

DR. CHASE'S LIVER PILLS cure chronic constipation and dyspepsia. They are a powerful and reliable remedy for all cases of liver trouble.

CHAPTER XXI.
The morning brought a bright and sunny day. The sun shone brightly on the water, and the birds sang merrily in the trees. The children were playing in the park, and the people were walking about in their summer clothes. It was a beautiful day, and everyone was enjoying it.

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

Save the Babies.

Thousands of them die every summer who could be saved by the timely use of Dr. Fowler's Ext. of Wild Strawberry.

There is not a mother who does not know that her child should be kept cool and comfortable. The best way to do this is by using Dr. Fowler's Ext. of Wild Strawberry.

CHAPTER XXI.
The morning brought a bright and sunny day. The sun shone brightly on the water, and the birds sang merrily in the trees. The children were playing in the park, and the people were walking about in their summer clothes. It was a beautiful day, and everyone was enjoying it.

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

Save the Babies.

Thousands of them die every summer who could be saved by the timely use of Dr. Fowler's Ext. of Wild Strawberry.

There is not a mother who does not know that her child should be kept cool and comfortable. The best way to do this is by using Dr. Fowler's Ext. of Wild Strawberry.

CHAPTER XXI.
The morning brought a bright and sunny day. The sun shone brightly on the water, and the birds sang merrily in the trees. The children were playing in the park, and the people were walking about in their summer clothes. It was a beautiful day, and everyone was enjoying it.

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."

"I have a feeling that something is going to happen," said Mrs. Winfield, "I have a feeling that something is going to happen. I have a feeling that something is going to happen."