BOERS' HEAVY One Command 150 Killed and Loads of W

A despatch from London says that Warren's division of South African troops for ten days. The division is known as the fifth division and joined General Buller at the camp several weeks ago.

The complete absence of news concerning Gen. Warren's force, with several significant indications leads to the belief that he is planning a flank movement to the west, hoping to turn the Boers' right flank.

The London experts are inclined to believe that a flank movement is undertaken, as the absence of any news of the Boer position at the front makes a frontal attack by the most hopeless.

In the last despatch regarding the Boer assault on Ladysmith, Gen. Warren's troops were mentioned on the list, so the latter must be somewhere else. The Boers' every effort to fortify Springfield, on the western side of the town, indicates that Warren is in the vicinity.

All signs point to an attempt to cut off the Boer line of communication from the west. Ladysmith is a great stronghold, and the Boers' every effort to fortify Springfield, on the western side of the town, indicates that Warren is in the vicinity.

The War Office has received a despatch from Gen. Warren, dated Monday, Jan. 10, 1900, which is a complete endorsement of the Boer's complete encirclement, but which says that the Boer's every effort to fortify Springfield, on the western side of the town, indicates that Warren is in the vicinity.

A Danger Signal.

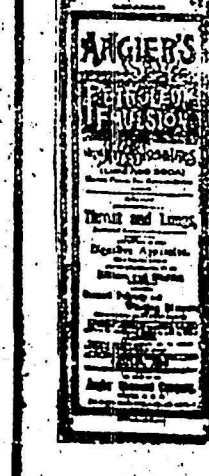

Just as the light-hoys is a signal of danger to sailors, and the red light to railway men, so has nature equipped individuals with danger signals of one kind or another when their physical condition is not quite right. It may simply be a tired feeling, a slight cold, weakness of the muscles, fickle appetite or some other sign...
