The Great Thank-Offering.

The Twentieth Century movement, says The S. S. Magazine, has assumed such proportions in all the branches of Methodism in Europe and America and in the mission fields as has never characterized any other in our history. The amounts proposed as 'a thank-offering by seven of the leading denominations of Methodism are as

Church Members Amount Meth. Episcopal...2,851,000.820,000,000 British Wesleyan. 772,000 5,000,000 Irish Methodism... 100,000 500,000 Australian Meth... 180,000 United M. Free Ch. 100,000 Canadian Meth.... 278,000 1,000,000 M. E. Ch., South., 1,457,000

5,739,191 $29,400,000 run their sulscription up to ninety per cent of the whole, while the Canadians antly varied by a couple of in the very outset of their efforts secured about one-half of their million. That all these branches of the Methodist family will accomplish to the full what they have undertaken scarcely admits a question.

Banquet to Mr. Stafford.

Our Orangeville correspondent sende is the following report of a recent nteresting event in that town:

Mr. F. M. Stafford, one of the members of the recently desolved partnership of Chapman & Stafford, general merchants, was the guest of honor at a jargely attended banquet in the Gordon House, Orangeville, on Wednesday night, the 20th inst., tendered him by his many friends in this place on the occasion of his removal to Markdale where he has been taken into partnership in the firm of McFarland & Co., hereafter to be known as McFarland, Stafford & Co. Mr. Stafford was in Markdale a few days prior to the event, bytycame down on Wednesday night's tran in response to a message from the mittee in charge of the arrange-ters here. Messrs. F. J. Marshall and J. H. Sutherland, chairman and secretary respectively of the committee, were largely responsible for the successful outcome of the function, and a good deal of credit is due these two gentlemen. Owing to the blocked condition of the railways, the Owen Sound train was between two and three hours late on Wednesday night. The banquet was necessarily delayed until Mr. Stafford's arrival, and it was consequently ten o'clock when the guests took their seats at the tastefully arranged tables in the spacious dining room of the Gordon House. The gathering was representative as well as large, and the forty or more guests were drawn from nearly every business and profession in the town. Mr. J. N. Fish presided, and the vice-chairs were occupied by Drs. F. W. Lewis and C. J. Hunter. The menu was of an elaborate character and the tables were served in an excellent manner. After justice had been done the numerous courses, which appeared only to disappear, a lengthy toast list was bivceeded with and honored in the usual

In response to the first tosst, "The King and Royal Family," proposed by Mr., Fish, the company sung the National Anthem with great heartiness. "Canada and the . Empire" elicited eloquent responses from Dr. F. W. Lewis and Mr. D. B. Brown. Guest" was greeted with a round of hearty applause, followed by a neat speech from Mr. F. J. Marshall, who presented Mr. Stafford with a handsome gold mounted cane. The recipient, who was greefed with the familiar strains, "For he's a jolly good fellow," made a brief and feeling response. "Athletic Sports" was briefly replied to by A. D. McKitrick.

The chairman, who had been in Jaundice, Bil- | charge of the toast list thus far, now delegated his duties to Vice-Chairman, Dr. Lewis, who in a few humorous words proposed the toust. "The Learned Professions." Mr. A. A. Hughson and Dr. A. J. Hunter responded. The Mayor and Public Officials" brought replies from Mayor Still and Messrs. J. W. Neil, John Gilchrist and Hugh Ferguson. Among those who responded to "The Mercantile Interests" were W. M. Green, C. W. Sydie, F. J. Marshall, O. Perfect, Ed. W. Sproule and M. Gray; while T. W. Paul, G. H Goetchins, J. R. Hughes, H. Campbell, J. H. Sutherland and H. C. Chance were amongst those who replied to "Our Producers." Dr. A. J. Hunter now took charge of the toast list and proposed "Our Banking Interests." Dr. Lewis and E. W. Doon responded. Mr. H. G. F. Pett, of Walkerton, made a vigorous and practical speech in reply to . ! The Maunfacturing . Interests." .. "The Press' was responded to by Messrs. A. R. Groff and B. McChaire, while Mr. C.
