LIVE CE

almage Makes Suggestions.

f we could have all these little ones gathered toge and rags and sin and total darkness! If we could see tle feet on the broad road to through Christian be pressing the path of life; if we could hear wices in blasphemy, which long be singing the praises of God. could see those little hearts at that age ought not to be with one unclean thought become he sewers for every abom late we could see those suffering a cones sacrificed on the altar of the infinitious passion, and bank we would recoil, crying out unt thou dream of hell!

there is in iniquity when uncluded and unrestrained and unblanche igoes on concentrating and deep and widening and gathering more than until it swings ahead with the concentration of decolories. very triumph of desolation, doing like surges, scorching like fa CRUSHING LIKE ROCKS.

What are you going to do with abandoned population of the stre will you gather them in a churches? It is not the will of Heavenly Father that one of the street of the str nave ten respectable children in class, gather in ten that are not If in your Bible d here be twenty young men who he ome from Christian homes and ant surroundings, let those two wenty more of the young men of Ly who are lost to society.

ecture. Because Christ was b a manger is no reason why nould worship him in a barn. he churches of Jesus Christ be only comfortable but ornate. cleurch of Jesus Christ ought to great family circle, the pulpit of fireplace around which they athered in sweet and domestic numion: A live church must hav pininodious, comfortable, and pted building. "How amiable hy Tabernacles, O Lord of Hos fould rather be a doorkeeper in ouse of my God than to dwell e tents of wickedness." Igain, the characteristic of a wich must be that it is a s It must be the g od of Christ. "Oh," say some the gosple of Christ allows hich is open before the gos been my ambi I believe it has been yours, . people; in these years of inistry, to have this

A SOUL-SAVING CHURCH. d we never yet threw out the net but we drew in a great m They have come, a hu at a time, and two hundred at the, and three hundred and fifty time, and I expect the day will peny when in somo service there three . thousand souls accept offers of eternal life. I wis could tell you some circumstan nat have come under my obser ion, proving the fact that God essed the prayers f of his dear p ple in behalfoof souls immortal. Others in different parts of and are living the Christian upholding the Christian st dard, and we shall meet them w toils of life are over, in great harvest home. O men and immortal, hear this call sovereign mercy. All the offers gospel are extended to without money and without price and you are conscious of the feer fellow he was, half-witted, I that these opportunities will so be gone forever. The conductor n' failtrain was telling/me a weeks ago, of the fact that he one hight standing by his train side track, his train hav switched off so that the expedit hat's where my real story comtrain might dart past unhinder He said while he stood there in darkness beside his train on the track, he heard the thunder of saw the flash of the headlight. train came on with fearful veloci earce and nearer, until after avi when it came very near, by the fi of the head light, he saw that switchman had not attended to duty-either through intoxication indifference—and that train un Something was done immediate would rush on the sidetrack dash the other train to atoms. shouted to the switchman:

express in the distance.

the switch!" and with one str the switch went back and the press thundered on. O men and men. going toward the eternal wo as the years, swift is months, swift as the days, swift he hours, swift as the second what track are you g Toward light or darko l'oward victory or defeat? heaven or hell? Set switch! Cry aloud to God is the day of Salvation. WHERE SINGLENESS IS

We speak of single bles And talk of married life; But what a sad awakening A girl becomes a wife! In fancy, she can see the Da

With roses richly strewn, thorns, of course, neath-"Tis one long honey

Make no mistake Would live quiet, Where singleness is blis most Folly to be wives

The Man Who Knows.

Wetherell is abducted who demninds as rahsom her father £150,000 and a mys-Chinese stick. Mr. Wetheand her lover, Richard Hatteras. gen carried to Pipa Lannu. A i is equipped and pursuit com those who have had no experiof the South Pacific the conbeauties of our like a would have seemed taste of Heaven itself. From ney, until the Loyalty Group lay ind us, we had one long spell of nisite weather. winking stars, and by day in the m sunlight, our trim little craft don't ghed her way across smooth with. s and to speculate as to the rethemselves. of the expedition upon which we embarked.

CHAPTER V.

wing greater. In less than two all being well, we should be at destination, and twenty-four irs after that, if our fortune ved in the ascendant, we ought he on our way back with Phyllis our possession once more. And v leave you to guess.

ring up over the horizon ahead. therell and I chanced to be sitg in the bows. The sea was as ooth as glass, and the tinkling of water around the little vessel's se as she turned it off in snowy es from either bow, was the only Another characteristic of a and to be heard. As usual the nurch is one with appropriate a versation; after wandering into or topics, came back to the submake a few remarks anent Nikola his character. There was one ing I had always noticed when the o came under discussion and at was the dread Wetherell had of ". My curiosity had long been exd as to its meaning, and, having opportunity now, I could not asking him for an explanation. You want to know how it is that m so frightened of Nikola?". he od knocking the ash off his cigai the upturned fluke of the anchor "Well, to give you gside him. reason will necessitate you a story. I don't minu, t at all, but what. I am is that you may be inclin bt its probability. I must cona small-swing for man's facult sit is certainly more like the plot and some men have left the minis a Wilkie Collins novel than a bit with that idea." Why, there is soler reality. However, if you field an earth so grand as that to hear it you shall." should like tor abo replied, making myself ortable and taking another cifrom my pocket. "I have been ing to ask you about it for som e past, but could not quite scar

Well, sin the first - place, 'you must nd that before I became a Minisof the Grown, or indeed a Memof Parlament, at all, I was a rister with a fairly remunerative ctice. That was before my wife's th and when Phyllis was at ool: Up to the time I am going tell you about I had taken part no very sensational case. But n;y portunity for earning notoriety s, though I did not know it, near hand. One day Livas briefed to end a man accused of the murder a Chinaman aboard a Sydney'veson a voyage irban Shanghai. At st there seemed to be no doubt at as to his guilt, but by a singular ance, with the details of which li not bore you I shit upon a eme which got him off. I reinber the man perfectly, and ought, and at the time of the trial thin an ace of dying of consump-Mis gratit db was the more thetic because he had not the ercyithal to pay me. However, made it up to me in another way,

One wet night, a couple of onths or so after the trial. I was my ting in the drawing-room listening my wife's music, when a servant e passage to find waiting there a

Are you Mr. .. Wetherell?" ... she

I am," I answered. 'What gan not in trouble again?' He's in a worse trouble a before he goes.

1 asked rather suspiciously. I'm sure I dunno, was 's reply! ot back from work, to fetch you. c comin', sir, you'd best be having again closed the door, sat for he won't last till mornin, Very Well. I'll come with you him to speak once, I said, taking, a mackindown from a peg as I spoke. having told my wife not to sit nger out of the house and down or nearly an hour we walked and on, plunging deeper into the quarter of the town. All the march my guide mained a rigid silence, walking a feet want to un ahead, an only recognizing Feel with my nillow and that I was following her by what you like the directed ing in a certain direction when ever we arrived at cross thorough ares or interlacing lanes. 'At last we arrived at the street she wanted, At the corner she came suddenly to a standstill, and putting her two first fingers into her mouth apt a coup to release her but blew a shrill whistle, after the fash-betrayed. Hattdras finds she ion of street boys. A shock-headed urchin about ten years old made his appearance from a dark alley and came towards us. The woman said something to him, which I did not catch, and then turning sharply to her left hand beskoned to me to follow her. I did, but not without a feeling of wonderment as to what the upshot of it, all would be. "From the street itself we passed by way of a vallainous alley, into a large courtyard, where brooded a By night under silence like that of death. Indeed. a more weird and desolate place I don't remember ever to have met Not a soul was to be seen, and our only occupation was and though it was surrounded by and our the long loaf about the houses, only two feeble lights showed Towards one of these my guide made her, way, stopping on the threshold. aving sighted the Isle of Pines she rapped with her fingers, and as turned our bows almost due she rapped with her fingers, and as the and headed for the New Hebfloor opened; and the same boy we Every hour our patience was had met in the street looked out. "'How many? inquired the woman who had brought me, in a loud whisper.

"None now, replied the boy but there's been a power of Chinkies hereabouts all the evenin', an' arf an hour ago there was a gent. in a cloak.

"Without waiting to hear any me morning, just as the faint without waiting to hear any more the woman entered the house and I followed close on her heels. The adventure was clearly coming to a head now.

"When the door had been closed behind us the boy appeared at the top of a flight of stairs with a lighted candle. We accordingly ascended to him, and having done so made our way towards a door at the end of an abominably dirty landing, heardst our hearts. This led us At intervals I could hear the sound of coughing coming from a room at the end. My companion, however, bade me stop, while she went her-self into the room, shitting the door after her. I was left alone with the boy, who immediately took me un-der his protection, and for my undivided benefit performed a series of highly meritorious acrobatic performances upon the feeble banisters, to his own danger, but apparent satsfaction. Suddenly, just as he was about to commence what promised to be the most successful item in his repertoire, he paused, lay flat on his stomach upon the floor, and craned his head over the side, where, once banisters had been, and gazed into bean sters had been, and gazed into the half dark well below. All was quiet as the grave. Then, without warning, an almond-eyed pigtailed head appeared on the stairs and looked up. Before I could say any-thing to stop him. The stairs of thought I ran to the Royal Family. Therefore he knows to call the girl, the boy on the King's constitution and the petal is taking care that whatever developed as well as he does his own. But we have too late,—China I etc. was markable for his extreme silence and looked up. Before I could say any-thing to stop him the world has heard a great that the world has heard a great that well has he thing to stop him, the youth had vested himself of one slipper, taken it in his right hand, leaned over a bit farther, and struck the ascending Celestial a severe blow on the mouth with the heel of it. There was the noise of a hasty descent and the banging of the street door a moment later, then all was still

> That was Ah Chong,' he said confidentially. Chinkie I've landed that way since dark.

> "This important piece of informatron he closed with a double-jointed oath of remarkable atrocity, and, having done so, would have recommenced the performance of acrobatic feats had I not stopped him by asking the reason of his action. He looked at me with a grin, and said .-

" I dunnol but all I cares is that China Pete in there gives me a sprat (sixpence) for every Chinkie what I keeps out of the 'ouse. He's a rum one is China Pete; an' can't he cough-my word!'

'I was about to put another question when the door opened and the girl who had brought me to the house beckoned me into the room. I entered and she left me alone with the occupant. "Of all the filthy places I have ever seen and I have had the ill luck to discover, a good many time-that one eclipsed them all. The room was at most ten feet long by seven wide, had a window fered to tell my that a woman at the far end, and the door, through anted to see the. I went into which I had entered, opposite it. The bed-place was stretched bebuxom lass of about five-and- tween the door and the window, ent vears of age. She was noorly and was a horrible exhibition. On essel, but in a great state of ex- it, propped up by pillaws and evidently in the last stage of collapse, was the man called China Pete. the gentleman as defended whom I had last seen walking out bina Pete in the trial the other of the dock at the Supreme Court a couple of months before. When we were alone together he pointed to a do for you? I hope China Pete box near the bed and signified that not in transl. I did so, at I should seat myself. I did so, at this the same time taking occasion to exme, sir, said the women. He's press my sorrow at finding him in yin, and he sent me to fetch you to this lamentable condition. He made a before he condition but after no reply to myscivilities, but after But what does he want me a little pause found strength enough to whisper, See if there's anybody at the door 1 went across, opened the blocked into the passes to the strength enough to whisper, See if there's anybody at the door 1 went across, opened the door and looked into the passes you all this blessed day: "Send sage, but save the boy, who was now Wetherell! send for Mr. sitting on the top step of the stairs So off I came, when at the other end, there was not a soul in sight. I told him this, and down on the box and waited for "You did me a good turn Wetherell, over that trial; the me, I followed my strange make it worth your while.

" 'Oh, you mustn't let that we L answered soothingly You would have paid me if you had brought to light a queer little woods long, made of some heavy timb id covered all over with Chines nscriptions; at one end was a tiny hit of heavy gold cord much tar hished. I gave it to him and he looked at it fondly. "De you know the value of this little stick?' he asked after a while. T have no possible notion, eplied=

Make a guess, he said. To humour him I guessed five pounds. He laughed with scorn. Five pounds! ye gods! Why, as a bit of stick it's not worth five pence, but for what it really is there is not money enough in the world to purchase it. If I could get about again I would make myself the richest and most powerful man on earth with it. If you could only guess one particle of the danger I've been through to get it you would die of astonishment. And the sarcasm of he preferred should attend upon him it all is that now I've got it I can't in his new and exalted capacity. The make use of it. On six different oc- selections he made are of some intercasions the priests of the Llamaserai est and significance. in Peking have tried to murder me Queen had always a resident physi to get hold of it. down from the centre of China disguised as a wandering beggar. That business connected with the murder of the Chinaman on board the ship, against which you defended me, was on account of it. And how I lie here dying like a dog, with the key to over ten millions in my hand. Nikola has tried for five years to obtain it, without success however He little dreams I've got it after all. If he did I'd be a dead man by this time.

"Who is this Nikola then? asked.

' Dr. Nikola? Well, he's Nikola, and that's all I can tell you. you're a wise man you'll want to know no more. Ask the Chinese mothers nursing their almond-eyed spawn in Peking who he is; ask the Japanese, ask the Malays; the Hindoos, the Burmese, the porters in Port Said, the Buddhist priests of Cevlon; ask the King of Corea the men up in Thibet, the Spanish priests in Manilla, or the Sultan of Borneo, the ministers of Siam, or the French in Saigonthey'll all know Dr. Nikola and his cat, and, take my word for it, they fear him. "I looked at the little stick in my

"What do you wish me to with this?" I asked. Take it away with you,' he answered, and guard, it with your Reid, who was, as has been said, id hand and wondered if the man had gone mad.

life, and when you have occasion, use it. your hand what will raise a million liked by the King when Prince . men and the equivalent of over ten Wales that he was even then made "At this point a violent fit of tage which Sir James possesses coughing seized him and pearly tore that he received the greater part of him to picces. I lifted him up a his training under the fumous Sir blood had gushed from his lips: clusively in attendance upon the Like a flash of thought I ran to the Royal Family. Therefore low knows dead, again, and the youngster turned to 'He's the sixth Pete was not sane at the time he told me. And yet, how was I to account for the affray, with the Chinaman on the boat, and the evident desire the Celestials in Sydney had to obtain information concerning it? After half an hour's consideration of it I locked it up in a drawer of my safe and went upstairs to bed

"Next day China Pete was buried, and by the end of the month I had well nigh forgotten that he had ever existed, and had hardly thought of his queer little gift, which still reposed in the upper drawer of my safe. But I was to hear more of it later on. "One hight, about a month after my coming into possession of the stick, my wife and I were entertaining a few friends at dinner. The ladies had retired to the drawing-foom and I was sitting with the gentlemen at the table over our wine. Curiously enough we had just been discussing the main aspects of the politics of the East when a mald-servant entered to say that a gentleman had called, and would be glad to know if he might have an interview with me on important business. I replied to the effect. that I was engaged, and told her to ask him if he would call again in the morning. The servant left the room only to return with the information that the man would be leaving Sydney shortly after daylight, but that if I would see him later on in the evening he would endeavor to return . 1 therefore told the girl to say I would see him about eleven o'clock, and then dismissed the matter from my mind. To Be Continued.

WRITER AND READER.

A good and perhaps an old story comes from the Persian. went to a professional scribe, and asked him to write a letter. I cannot, said the scribe, I have pain in my foot. A main in your foot? What has that to do with it? I don't want to send you anywhere. No. sir, said the man, but when ever I write a letter for anyone I am valid said at last, and I couldn't always sent for to read it, because no one else can make it out.

> FOR THOSE IN LOVE Cund's darts make many Mrs. Mancha at locksmiths; but th

ABOUT MEN WHO GUARD THE KING'S HEALTH.

Sir William H. Broadbent is Chie Medical Adviser Sir James Reid the Queen's Doctor.

"Long live the King!" is the universal sentiment, and such are His Majesty's health and constitution that there is every prospect of the loyal wish being gratified. But, of course, the King is only human and is subject to all human ills just as other people are, and it is interesting therefore to observe His Majes ty at such times and to see what precautions he takes. In the first place, His Majesty or very recently chose the doctors that I brought it cian in attendance upon her -James Reid - but King Edward has no need for such constant medical service, and dislikes anything of this kind which is not absolutely neces sary. Consequently he has deter mined to content himself with what are known as "Physicians in Ordinthis description being really arv.' anything but an ordinary one, for signifies the highest appointmen possible:

> guard. Three are chosen principally so that in a crisis there should always be a preponderance of opinion on one side or the other: One of the three is Sir William H Broadbent, who has attended upon His Majesty whenever necessary during the last nine years, and has for that period been his CHIEF MEDICAL ADVISER. Sir William is a favorito with His Majesty, and it was for his medical services to the Royal Family that he was awarded his baronetcy some years ago. The King has in many ways shown his great regard for Sir' William, who lives Brook Street, London, and has large practice among the most fash ionable people of the West End, an all-round physician, but has mad a special study of irregularities the pulse and heart. |.

many years Queen Victoria's resi Remember you have in dent doctor, and who was so much one of his physicians. An advanreticence, notwithstanding the fact that he is the soul of courtesy. His funeral, I bade her good bye, and ful, but business-like to a degree.

THE OTHER KING'S DOCTOR and one of whom His Majesty is extremely fond, is Sir Francis Lak-He is a great collector. As a doctor he is noted for having few "cranks" and he tells those who ask him that best, so long as it is sensible. He tive of the press the alignmages hand, for is a great believer, however, in "conclaimed for the new scheme ver the to the value of the two canals." people wear themselves out too quickly nowadays. He holds that people who have to work for fifty off to the Continent. The son of Sir Francis has inherited his father's taste for curiosities. and is an acknowledged expert in old

These three, to all intents and purposes, comprise the whole of THE KING'S MEDICAL STAFF. but it may surprise most people to ments of one kind and another connected with it. They are in most cases honorary. There are five Physicians Extraor dinary, one Physician to the House

King's health provided for to the ut-

HIS MAJESTY'S DOCTORS, FOILING THE UNITED NICARAGUA CANAL SCHEME

BRITISH RAILWAY

His Majesty has followed the old Royal rule, and has appointed three of these to be his medical body-

Another of the three is Sir Jame hulf-a-dozen bottles of medicine and man Pearson, Bart. a surgical operation. His principle The idea is to render the Nicaratheir thoughts away from themselyes, and therefore he keeps in his cd States wishes to secure safe and rooms an enormous collection of curweeks in the year would do better to ly ill once in his life, but is regardspend their holiday in bed than rush

King frequently sought his advice and assistance in alterations which have recently been made at the Royal know that besides them there are no fewer- than thirty other appoint-hold, an honorary Sergeant-Surgeon three honorary Surgeons in Ordinary, a Surgeon to the Household, Surgeon Apothecary, an honorary Surgeon Oculist and an honorary Surgeon Dentist, a Dentist to the Household, an honorary Anaesthe fist, and a Chemist and Druggist whilst special honorary appointment are made o apply only to Windson Sandringham, Scotland and Ireland Thus is the maintenance of the

A British Undertak. ing Which May Mean Ruin and Disaster to the Great American Scheme.

are most pertinacious in their efforts save over to build up the Nicaragua Canal, with or without the consent of Engs land. They will probably get their little in the bed, but before I could William Jenner, and since he was canal, and with it a fine property be printer take my hands away a stream of quite a young man has been ex- from the strategic point of view, but wassel on their blissful idea of combining strategy with money profits is likely to be exploded. For British enterprise S5 a jon there is to be made in that part of will cost

The world has heard a great deal rivenue of had about me to pay for the demeanour in the sick room is cheer- canal schemes, but little about a To third undertaking which with the little stick in my pocket and he never wastes words, while he quietly pushed forward by an Eng- mide returned to my home. Once there never speaks outside of the illnesses lish firm interested in the develop-I sat myself down in my study, took of one member of the Royal Family finent of Mexico.

my legacy out of my pocket and not even to another unless a very inthe race to connect the Atlantic and carefully examined it. As to its timate relative indeed. This alone the race to connect the Atlantic and There are now three competitors in peculiar power and value as? described to me by the dead man, I King, who has when at all indisand Ni- lless of h hardly knew what to think. My posed, quite a morbid horror about caragua is more or less in the air. own private opinion was that China the circumstance being publicly dis- But what may be described as the from the English scheme is well on the way towards fulfilment, and swill, it is anticipated be ready for work years that before either of the canals. The scheme consists of the build- building, who holds the distinction of beling, or rather the rebuilding, of a ing the first medical man to accomprailway across the narrowest part of with the pany the King on his travels since Mexico, from Santa Crux to Coazhis accession. He was chosen to go acoalcos. At both termini great villes time with the King on his recent trip to harbors will be constructed. . The Germany, when His Majesty, whose town of Salina Crux will be remove born chi nerves had been put to a severe ed to make room for a harbor capstrain by preceding events, really able of affording anchorage for the a targeneeded a doctor's counsel. Sir largest vessels. The whole underlargest vessels, The whole under-Francis has always been an exceptaking is Heing carried out by Mesris Pe tional favorito with the King by rea- Messrs. S. Pearson, of Victoria St., phrinistion son of his extremely bright and live London. Some 2,000, men are at steamer ly manner, which an eminent author, present employed on the work under ity declared was in itself as good as the personal direction of Sir Weet-is to interest everybody who calls gua and Panama Canal schemes upon him in some way that will take practically useless. Indeed, if it were not for the fact that the Unitspeedy sea communication with her ios, which he talks about in turn. new colonies, the Nicaragua project would now probably be abandoned. Mr. J. Meldrum, the foreign représentative of Messrs. Pearson, odw the best system of life from a health has just returned to London from point of view is to do what you like Mexico, explained to a representa-

His Majesty has only been serious ed as an excellent patient from the medical point of view, in that he always looks upon the brightest side to make of things and refuses to lay himself ploye, |vl up for any trifling feeling of indispofurniture, and such-like, so that the sition. His Majesty goes about his business as usual when, "some other You are people would confine themselves their rooms. His constitution ltided to. good and he looks after it well, and whenever he feels a little out You rec sorts he prefers to have people about him who will laugh and loke, and not those who make long faces and advise him that he 'must really be company. more careful." player ho Saturday

CENSUS OF CONSUMPTIVES.

New York State Department of farmer Health is about to take the census going my of all persons in the State suffering from consumption. This is a part of a scheme for systematically fightme ride. ing the disease. There are about 18,000 deaths a year due to contwelve me sumption in New York State.

bind

The lens

afte

The combined exports and imports of the United Kingdom were valued at £815,000,000 last year, those of Renca Di-Germany 4/2 millions, of Italy 105 linger to Bird's-eve British This last pletely ruin the Nicaragua Canal a paying property well as a strategic dertaking.

STATES

PROPOSEC

HICARAGUA

ANAL

ite." he said. thousand miles assengers or cargo from exico to the west coast. is, our route by four days. We shall to put cargo from a east coast alongside a the west coast within at a cost not exceeding the two canal schemes. far from $200,000,000. r return of 4 per cent. ant would mean a fnet 3,000,000 and gross reat return a charge of ton would have to be old, our scheme will not nn $25,000,000; therebe able to carry cargo beaper rate than either a railway, is more porary nature, and Sir rson has leased the line sican Government for The new line will h to bear the heaviest ough the "road" is only long, it crosses | 920 of which have been or This work together ling of the harbours.

teristic of Japan's newse that immediately her ard of the scheme they; put on a line of steam-Japan to Salna Crux. son's concession includes start a special line of connection with the rails whole of the land on the railway has been lishman is of ig up of Mexido Messes. ey have executed work of $20,000,000, exclus-(sent great scheme t story is told of a cerhome is in the counthe employ of the comd the gentleman al-

supposing farmer, instead of the out his horses every and carry you home? s horses out and was . I should call & him a low if he wouldn't let came out three minith a pass np, machinist. damages in the King's for the loss of three lendants being Messrs, eted in less than three he itself." said Mr. Meis sentially a British one. rv. the bridges, and the excepare, with a few from this country.

ignorant : though the the repossibilities of Mexico, is developing rapilly, lent a very practical

ERVED A PASS.

fit railway director who nowned for his ability take & joke. to him for a pass to your pay regularly?

d you expect your ema poser, but it wasn't. he man promptly, I xpect that; but if the builders of Balham