MUST BE A PLOUGHING. That which theologians call conviction is only the ploughshare turning up the sins that have been rooted and matted in the soul. A farmer said to his indolent son: "There are a hundred dollars buried deep in that field." The son went to work and ploughed the field from fence to fence, and he ploughed it very deep, and then complained that he had then complained that he had nything ghastly about that? The difficulty with a great many people is that they are only scratched with conviction when the subsoil plough of God's truth qught to be put in up to the beam. My word is to all Sabbath-school teachers, to all parents, to all Christian workers: Plough deep! Plough deep! And if in your own personal experience you are apt to take a lenient view of the sinful side of your nature, put down beside your soul the ten commandments which boomed from the artilleried mount, and study the holiness of God, and before you get through, the team with flaming nostrils will be harnessed to the sharpened and glittering coulter that will turn up your soul to the deepest depths. Plough up to the cross. Aim not at either end of the horizontal piece of the cross, but at the upright piece, at the centre of it-the heart of the Son of God who bore your sins and made satisfaction. Crying and weeping will not bring you through. "Him hath God exalted to be prince and a Saviour to give re-Oh, plough up to the pentance."

HARVEST SONG.

Summer all is a pleasure past. Summer charm is a tale that's told; Days of ripeness and days of gold; pown the meadow-way, glad and strong, Love comes singing his harvest song

Love is brown with his harvest to Brown; and brawny of limb is he. Master strong in the garden-moil, Lord of pasture and plant and tree; Treasure-burdened, he plods along Singing brightly his harvest song

And in answer the autumn breeze Sings a pleasant and fair refrain, Through the bows of the orchard O'er the fields of the waving grain

Mark, the echoes about him throng Nature's singing her harvest song.

FERTILIZERS.

Taking every item on the faring there is probably none in which the makim "Knowledge is power" manifests itself so much as in the use of ferdilizers. There is really nothing complicated about the phinciples of feeding plants, end it is due almost entirely to ignorance that so many mistakes and failures occur. A soil may be almost destitute of plant food and still fail to respond to applications simply because of lack of judgment or ignorance in using them M must be understood at the outset that plants can only take tup their nourishment in a liquid form, therefore, before fertilizers can be of one particle of benefits to the growing crop, they must be changed from the solid to the liquid form. Every opportunity should be given to facilitate this change. If the soil contains plenty of moisture at the time of planting, the fertilizer, will of course, dissolve rapidly and be ready, for the tiny plants just a they need some nourishment to give then a strong, healthy start. . (): the other hand, if the soil is dry at seeding time, the fertilizers will had pass into liquid condition, and the crop is deprived of the feed it need and this is a drawback not usually overcome during the entire season, and results usually in much reduced yields. Again, there is even a posibility of injury ensuing in a k. dif season when fertilizers and applied de seeding time. The plants just as they are sprouting are tender and may be injured by coming in contact with crude fertilfzers. The religious for all this, ther, is to apply the fertilizers before planting time, in order to give opportunity for them to become dissolved and spread out through the soil. There are fertilizers, though, that are so soluble that they connot be applied to fore planting time, otherwise they ti would leach out of the soil and the in lost to the crop.
