Harvest Time.

Hark! What mean the sounds now coming
From the pleasant fields about?
'Tis the busy day's awaking,
All the world's astir without;
Come and with me look upon it,
In the glad ning morning light,
Fair it is,—a world of beauty,
Softly lit with sunbeams bright,
And the dawning's dewey freshness,
Clinging still with misty dampness,
Like a curtain fine.

Dark the forest circle round us,
Where the sky and woodland meet,
Pleasing background for the beauteous
Landscape, with its visions sweet,
Ripened grain, a sea of glory,
Golden in the morning sun;
Shadow waves chasing o'er it
Sunbeams chasing in the run;
Here and there a sedgy islet,
Overgrown with vine and flowerer,
Or some shading trees

See the pasture in the distance,
Where a brooklet glides along,
Shaded by its drooping willows,
Sparkling then with happy song,
Gaunting coquettes with the sunshine
Flashing back his glances warm;
Peaceful 'neath a hoary maple
Or an old grove's fairy form,
Stand the herds in dreamy wonder;
Vale and lea grow bright and brighter,
With the clearer day

Whistling over hill and hollow,
With his dog, the barefoot boy
Comes and calls out "Fetch 'em, Rover,
Co-Boss, Co-Spot, here Gray—sy";
Ting-a-ling, ting-ling-ling, jingles
Down the lane the cow-bell, slow;
And behind the boy comes munching
Apples, round and rosy, though
Be, already of wild cherries,
Plums and currant and raspberries,
Has good breakfast had.

Hark! that is the reaper's humming;
'Tis the harvest of the year,
Harvest season of fulfilment,
Harvest, with its mellow cheer.
'Tis the time of richest beauty,
Summer's green has turned to gold;
And the husband-man glad-hearted,
Garners in from plain and wold
To his treasure rooms, abundance
Of the weal h that heaven' guidance
Has made bountiful.

By the cot on yonder hill are
Many fruit trees, laden low,
And the good wife bustling, busy,
Bids her merry folk to go
Gather in the autumn fruitage,
John and Mary, Sarah, Dan,
And e'en little Bob goes, thinking
He's the most important man;
But soon, on his head a pippin,
From Dan's hand can't help go 'slippin,
Howling he departs.

Garnered in through clouds and brightness,
Granary, storehouse soon are filled,
E'en the squirrell will have his gleaning,
Midst the songs by crickets trilled;
Then, when woods in autumn glory
Dress in gorgeous gold and brown;
And Diana, softly radiant,
From her lucent throne looks down,
Fitting time for feast to Ceres,
Meet to, then, 'mong all her beauties
Praise the Harvest Queen.

And methinks we have a harvest
In this transient life of ours:
Midst the sunshine and the shadows,
Seeds we sow will bring forth flowers
Fair and fragrant be the sowing
Deeds of kindness, mercy, love,
And the buds will bloom in beauty
By the way; the fragrance of
Blossoms such as these will linger,
Fill our hearts and feelings higher,
This our harvest home.

Advice To Mothers.

If your little boy or girl comes home with a sore throat, the first thing to do is to rub the throat and chest with Polson's Nerviline. Don't be afraid to use Nerviline freely—a whole bottle full wouldn't burn or blister the tenderest skin. Rub in until all taken up by the pores, and just before the child goes to rest give him a glass of hot water into which 30 drops of Nerviline has previously been stirred. This is a sure, pleasant and speedy cure. Large bottles 25 cents.
