Checking the Spread of Contagious or Infectious Diseases.

Walters Falls, Ont., Oct. 28, 1901.
Dear Sir:—Would you kindly give publication in your valuable paper to the following which are extracts taken from "Rules for Checking the Spread of Contagious or Infectious Diseases," issued by the Provincial Board of Health.

Sec. 77, Chap. 203, R.S.O. Whenever any householder knows that any person within his family or household has the small-pox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, cholera or typhoid fever he shall within twenty-four hours give notice thereof to the Local Board of Health or to the Medical Health Officer of the district in which he resides, and such notice shall be given either at the office of the medical health officer or by a communication addressed to him and duly mailed within the time above specified, and in case there is no medical health officer then to the secretary of the local board of health either at his office or by communication as aforesaid.

Sec. 80, Chap. 205, R.S.O. Whenever any physician knows that any person whom he is called upon to visit is infected with small-pox, scarlet fever, diphtheria, typhoid fever or cholera, such physician shall within twenty-four hours give notice thereof to the local board of health or medical health officer of the municipality in which such diseased person is and in such manner as is directed by rules 2 and 3 of section 17 of Schedule A.

Rule 8: Persons should avoid all exposure direct or indirect to special contagion, and no person or thing should be allowed to come directly from a case of infectious disease unless previously disinfected under competent supervision. After visiting such a case, having worn a gossamer of rubber overall, a person should bathe themselves, especially his hands, face and hair, in a disinfectant and should change and disinfect his clothing. The sputa and nasal discharges in diphtheria and tuberculosis and the passages and vomit from a person sick with typhoid fever or cholera should not be allowed to be placed without previous disinfectants in water closets or privies but should be attended to as in hereafter described.

Rule 12: In case of contagious disease, especially typhoid fever, cholera, diphtheria and scarlet fever, the discharges from the kidneys, stomach and bowels should be placed into vessels containing enough disinfectant solution to cover them. After remaining for at least one hour in the solution the discharge should be buried in such a location as not to contaminate any well or other source of water supply.

Rule 13: All soiled clothing and bedding should be immediately changed and disposed of by being placed at once in a tub containing a suitable disinfectant solution. They should be left in the solution for twenty-four hours, then rinsed in clear water and boiled.

Rule 14: It should be borne in mind that the contagion of typhoid fever and cholera are contained principally in the discharges from the stomach and bowels and may be conveyed by contamination (from these discharges) of water, food, air or clothing. They may find their way into wells or cisterns, may be carried into the air from discharges not disinfected, or from washings of clothing thrown upon the ground, into closets, or into badly tapped and ill-ventilated drains.

The reason I ask for the publication of the above is, we have had four cases of typhoid fever in our village. Two of the patients have died, and we hope the others may recover and that end typhoid fever in this community for some time. No one can I think read the statutes and the rules given by the Provincial Board of Health for the checking of contagious and infectious diseases but must conclude that the danger of such diseases spreading is very great and that the greatest care should be taken. Thanking you for space in your valuable paper, I remain, Yours Truly,
Citizen.

Funeral Reform.

That reform is needed in the customs which prevail in the conduct of funerals will be universally conceded. To bring about needed reform there must be agreement and concert of action on the part of ministers of the Gospel in the city or given territory. The following "Funeral Code" adopted by the Ministers' Union of Burlington, Kansas, impresses us as being a move in the right direction.

The "Code" is printed on a neat card, and is for general distribution among the members and friends of the several churches.

A FUNERAL CODE.
"Let all things be done decently and in order."—Paul.

To bring about a better understanding of what is proper on occasions of funerals, the following suggestions are kindly offered:

1. That the minister who is to officiate be consulted in regard to the time for service, and that he be furnished with a brief biography of the deceased. Do not choose the hour of church service.
2. That the body lie in state, and the hours be announced, so that all who wish may see it, and that the family also take final leave before the service.
3. That no more than three hymns be used and that the Scripture lesson, the prayer and the sermon be brief.
4. No person should be expected to uncover the head in the open air, as it greatly endangers the health.
5. Only a brief form of committal and the benediction should be pronounced at the grave, after which the people should immediately depart for their homes. Long waiting at the grave in the hot sun or the bleak wind can do the departed no good, but may do the living much harm.
6. Inasmuch as the custom of wearing mourning costumes during a period of time after the obsequies originated with the heathen and does not comport with the Christian doctrine of the future life, we recommend that it be discontinued. "We sorrow not as those who have no hope."

Seeking to harmonize with the best thought and sentiment of the times, and wishing to minister comfort and consolation in the hour of sadness, we are your friends.

Rev. Father Hauck has had a new stable erected and is having the grounds surrounding his new parsonage fitted up in a neat and attractive shape. He has now a most complete and appropriate church and residential property.

It is in horses that the chief Canadian triumph has been won at Buffalo in Clyde, every prize was won by Canadians. In thoroughbreds, every prize was won by Canadians. Also in Shire horses and in French Canadian, every prize was won by Canadians. In Hackneys and in standard breeds, an excellent showing was made. Canada is evidently a country well suited to agriculture and stock-raising.

A horrible fatality occurred at Wodehouse, near Durham, on Friday, October 18, when Thos. B. Stinson, a lad of 10 years, was shot. He and two other boys were out hunting and when returning home they passed through an orchard. Stinson took his rifle by the muzzle and attempted to knock an apple off the tree with the butt, but the gun which was loaded and at that time cock was discharged, the bullet passing through his abdomen and bowels, and lodging in the hip. Medical aid was summoned but no hopes were entertained for his recovery from the first and he died the following Saturday evening. This is one more added to the long list of fatalities caused by the careless handling of this dangerous weapon.

Get the Best.

Certainly the most lifelike portraits of the King and Queen are those offered this year by the Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, to their subscribers, and what is the use having anything but the best. The Family Herald portraits are each 18x24 inches, and are perfect likenesses. The Family Herald's portraits have also the distinguished merit of being the very first taken after the King's accession to the throne, and have, therefore, an historical value that no other portraits will possess. When one gets the best at the same price as an inferior article, there should be no time lost in choosing, and certainly the Family Herald's pictures of the King and Queen are beyond comparison with any others before the public. In addition to these two portraits, each subscriber receives, we understand, a perfect copy of the renowned Gainsborough picture, the Duchess of Devonshire, 28x18 inches, in ten beautiful colors. It is pronounced a perfect gem. All three pictures and a year's subscription to the Family Herald and Weekly Star for one year is the dollar's worth of the season. The STANDARD and Family Herald for $1.50.
