

HOPE FOR CONSUMPTIVES.

HOW THE RAVAGES OF THIS SCOURGE MAY BE STAYED.

Statistics Prove That More Deaths Occur From Consumption Than From All Other Contagious Diseases Combined—How Best to Combat the Disease.

The ravages of consumption throughout Canada is something appalling. In the province of Ontario, where statistics of deaths from all diseases are carefully kept, it is shown that 2,286 of the deaths occurring during the year 1901 were due to consumption, or about 20 per cent. more than the number of deaths occurring from all other contagious diseases combined. These figures are startling and show the urgent necessity for taking every available means for combating a disease that yearly claims so many victims. The time to cure consumption is not after the lungs are hopelessly involved and the doctors have given up hope. Taken in its early stages, consumption is curable. Consumption is a wasting disease of the lungs and at the earliest symptom of lung trouble steps should be taken to arrest the waste and thus stop the disease. Consumption preys upon weakness. Strength is the best measure of safety. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best tonic and strength builder known to medical science. The record of this medicine speaks for itself and proves conclusively that taken when the symptoms of consumption develop they build up, strengthen and invigorate the patient to a point where disease disappears. In proof of this take the case of Ildege St. George, of St. Jerome, Que., who says:—

"About a year ago I became greatly run down. I lost color, suffered constantly from headaches and pains in the sides; my appetite left me, and I became very weak. Then I was attacked by a cough, and was told that I was in consumption. The doctor ordered me to the Laurentian Mountains in the hope that the change of air would benefit me. I remained there for some time, but did not improve, and returned home feeling that I had not much longer to live. I then decided to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After using several bottles my appetite began to return, and this seemed to mark the change which brought about my recovery. For with the improved appetite came gradual but surely increasing strength. I continued the use of the pills, and daily felt the weakness that had threatened to end my life disappear, until finally I was again enjoying good health, and now, as those who know me can see, I show no trace of the illness I passed through. I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life, and I hope my statement will induce similar sufferers to try them.

These pills are also a certain cure for the after effects of influenza and pneumonia, which frequently develop into consumption. Through their blood-renewing, strengthening qualities they also cure anaemia, heart troubles, rheumatism, stomach troubles, liver ailments, and the functional weaknesses that make the lives of so many women a source of constant misery. There are many imitations of this medicine and the health seeker should protect himself by seeing that the full name, 'Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People,' is on every box. Sold by all dealers in medicine, or sent post paid at 50 cents a box or $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PIONEER EXPLORER DEAD.

Mr. Eyre Made a Famous Journey in the Australian Desert.

The name of John Edward Eyre will always be connected with the history of Australian exploration. It was sixty years ago that he pushed into the unknown southern part of Australia; the work he did gained the highest recognition from geographers. One of the largest lakes in Australia bears his name. He has passed away in England at an advanced age after serving his country in various important positions in the colonies for many years.

Eyre went to Australia in 1832, when only 17 years old, to seek his fortune in sheep farming. Four years after his arrival the colony of South Australia was founded, and a little settlement that has developed into the large city of Adelaide, began to flourish. The discovery of lands along the lower courses of the great Australian rivers and of the new region around the Gulf of St. Vincent and Spencer had revealed much land well adapted for grazing; so sheep herders began to flock in and Eyre was among them.

It was not long before the colonists began to talk of the possibility that there might be wide tracts of pastoral lands beyond the inhospitable district on the north and west. Young Eyre decided to ascertain if this were so, for if such grazing lands existed the prospects of the colonists would be much improved.

He went first to the north. In 1839, believing that the best route would probably be found there. On this expedition he discovered the FLINDERS MOUNTAIN RANGE, and the long, narrow Tarrens Lake which extended further to the North than he could see. His search for the wished-for pasture lands in this direction was unsuccessful and so he returned to the south coast. A great deal of the desert he saw has since been made available for grazing by irrigation.

In the following year he started from Adelaide on his great expedition to the west in order to discover the extent of the pastoral lands that it was thought might exist along the shores of the Great Australian Bight south of the interior desert.

On this journey he made the discovery that the desert extends to the sea. He traveled along the coast to the west for nearly 1,200 miles without seeing an acre of grass land, though he found plenty of scrub and some animals that were new to him. No part of this region had previously been seen by a white man.

When Eyre had advanced 600 miles through this desert, two of the black men killed his only white companion and fled, leaving Eyre and three other natives to struggle on almost without supplies for 600 miles to King George Sound, where, after incredible hardships, the little party arrived in the spring of 1841, having crossed the entire southern part of the Australian desert. Here Eyre was picked up by a French whaler that was cruising along the coast and taken back to Adelaide.

The published account of Eyre's great journey, which revealed to the world the nature of the larger part of the south coast of the continent, excited world-wide interest, and the explorer received the 'Founders' Medal of the Royal Geographical Society in 1843.

A good advertisement is a good salesman. It takes the subject in hand and presents it to a large audience, explaining the merits of a given article to many people over a given territory. If the advertisement is well prepared, it will be logical, concise, complete, and will not only attract the attention of the prospective customer, but hold that attention through the entire reading of the advertisement and in the end convince the reader of the merit of the article offered. If the sale is lost for to-day, no doubt the results will be good for some future purchases. The best way to make these advertisements talk business is to put business ideas into what is said and the manner of saying it.

Little Ones Are Subject to Colds and the Result is Dangerous Unless Prompt Remedial Steps Are Taken.

The little ones are apt to take cold, no matter how carefully a mother may try to prevent it. While colds may affect children in different ways, the main symptoms usually are that the child grows cross, the skin hot, the appetite crosses, and the child quite feverish. Unless something is done at once to relieve a simple cold, the result is often very serious—so serious that many a child's life has been lost. There is no remedy that can equal Baby's Own Tablets in cases of this kind. These tablets promptly break up colds and carry off the poisonous matter that has been retained in the system. By doing this they reduce the fever; the pulse becomes normal; the appetite is restored, and the child is again well and happy.

Mrs. O. E. Earle, Brockville, Ont., says:—'I always use Baby's Own Tablets for both my children, aged three and five years, when they are at all unwell. When my little girl was a few months old, she had a bad attack of whooping cough, and I found the tablets very beneficial. Since that time I always keep them in the house ready for use. When the children are troubled with biliousness, any derangement of the stomach, are peevish or fretful, or when they have a cold, I always use the tablets, and am always pleased with the results.'

These tablets are a certain cure for such troubles as colic, sour stomach, indigestion, diarrhoea, constipation, impure fever and colds. They prevent grip and allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth. They are sold under an absolute guarantee to contain no opium or other harmful drug. May be had from druggists or will be sent post paid at 25 cents a box, by addressing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EUROPEAN OSTRICH FARMS. A new industry has made its appearance on the Riviera. It consists in establishing ostrich farms at suitable spots along the littoral, where birds imported from California and Africa are to be reared. There are at present in Nice two experienced ostrich farmers, both of whom are convinced that the Riviera, with its usually dry, equable climate, is the place of all others to bring the ostrich to early maturity and perfect plumage. In Paris at the present moment, the first consignment of feathers from Nice is in the hands of a leading firm of dyers and dressers.

SWITZERLAND HAS THE LEAD, AND NO OTHER COUNTRY IS A GOOD SECOND.

"As to the tip system abroad," says a gentleman who has travelled all over Europe, "it is in Switzerland. There every outsider is expected to come down with a tip to everybody connected with the hotel, and sometimes to the town officials as well. I was passed along the lines as a soft mark, and at Chateau, when I got ready to leave the territory, a last grab was made at me. I had food the chambermaid, the waiter, the cook, the omnibus driver, the mail carrier and all the bell-boys, when the landlady approached and intimated that he had been left out in the cold.

"But I was your guest," I protested.

"That is true," he replied, "but if you will remember, I received you with three distinct bows, whereas only one is required by custom. It is two bows extra, monsieur."

"I paid 10 cents apiece for the extra bows, and was stopped by a little old man who introduced himself as the coroner of the canton."

"But where do you come from?" I asked.

"Had monsieur met with a fatal fall on the mountain, I should have held the inquest," he replied.

"I gave him a franc for not holding an inquest on me, and his clerk then stepped forward and said:—'And had there been an inquest I should have had the pleasure of writing to monsieur's relatives that he was dead.'

"I handed him the same amount for his loss of pleasure," continued the tourist, "and then asked if there was anybody else in Chateau who had a claim on me."

"The police have not arrested you," suggested the landlady.

"All right—here's a tip for them. Anyone else?"

"My nightwatchman did not let the hotel take fire."

"All right, again."

"And my wife, monsieur."

"Well, what of your wife?"

"She has presented me with a son during your stay in my house."

"And what have I got to do with that?"

"Why, monsieur, is it not worth a little fee that she did not present me with two sons at the same time?"

"I thought it was and left a franc for her, and then, as they could think of nothing else, I went down and tipped all the railway officials and finally got out of the country."

From the Mail and Empire. Joseph Brown, whose case was fully reported in The Mail and Empire some days ago, seems to be the most talked-of and written-about man in Canada. He is in receipt daily of many letters from all over the Dominion. Physicians and scientists, as well as sick people, write him, and many are often asking questions are asked by them. Brown answers:—'I have given my story, and that, after I had been partially paralyzed and unable to move for over four months, and given up by many doctors.

Many people have been puzzled as to how a kidney medicine can cure paralysis. This is easily understood when it is remembered that the kidney poison, which is the direct result of kidney weakness, is most destructive to all healthy tissues and nerve.

BABES IN THE WOOD.

From Sweden comes a story of two little girls, who, returning home during a violent snowstorm, became lost in a wood. For three weeks indefatigable search by the entire population of their village failed to trace them; but at the end of that time the children were found, frozen fast to the ground, but still alive. After wandering in the storm they had fallen exhausted under a big fir tree, and awoke to find their feet so fast-frozen they could not stand. Life was sustained by the extra clothing they wore and a basket of provisions they carried, but when taken to the hospital it was found necessary to amputate their feet.

For those who have not yet arranged to buy homes in the Northwest this is a rare opportunity to go out to Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon and look over the country. The good lands are being rapidly sold and the country and towns are prosperous and growing. Range lands, farm lands, fruit lands and timber lands are all to be found. If you want to go where irrigation reclaims land independent of rainfall, and drought come along and we can fix you out.

Some of the important valleys reached by the Northern Pacific are the Yellowstone, Gallatin, Madison, Deer, Lodge, Bitter Root, and Clark Fork, in Montana; the Palouse, Big Bend, Colville, Clearwater, Walla Walla, and Yakima valleys in Idaho; and Washington, the Puget Sound and British Columbia regions and the Oregon country. It is a vast empire where climate soil and other advantages make of it a favored land.

MANY ADVANTAGES OVER OTHER LINES. That the New York Central possesses great advantages over other lines cannot be gainsaid, and they are too numerous to enumerate, but a few of the principal features are: the great train service (twelve express trains each way between Buffalo and New York), four tracks and the Grand Central Station the only station in the city of New York.

This is the route of the famous Empire State Express.
