Convention on Butter and Cheese Making.

Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. The first annual conference of dairy experts under Dominion Government auspices, which took place in Ottawa a few days ago, and was formally opened by the honorable the Minister of Agriculture, and conducted under the direction of the officers of his department, was the practical outcome of a movement inaugurated by Mr. J. A. Ruddick, chief of the dairying division, with the approval of Professor J. V. Robertson, the Dominion Commissioner of Agriculture and Dairying, to bring dairymen into line with a view to such consolidation of their work as shall tend to the production of uniform grades of excellence in cheese and butter making, so as to insure the highest prices obtainable in the best paying markets in the world.

Throughout the Convention emphasis was laid on the fact that in dairying as in every other industry "honesty is the best policy." Work rather than words characterized the proceedings, and the result of the deliberations has been summed up in fourteen resolutions, the foremost of which favors the grouping of cheese factories and creameries, each group consisting of from 14 to 30 factories, according to the exigencies of locality, to be under the supervision of a competent instructor, the management of these groups to be centralized under one authority in each province.

To secure a rapid improvement in the condition of the milk delivered to cheese factories and creameries, the conference advocated for farmers' sons in our dairy schools, short courses of talks, followed by practical work, on the best methods of producing and caring of milk from the feeding of the cow to the delivery in the factory.

This was followed by a resolution, in favor of the compulsory licensing of factories to secure and preserve the best health and sanitary conditions.

To insure the carrying out of these most important duties the dairy instructors would be clothed with the requisite authority as dairy inspectors, the cost of the additional work being covered by a fee chargeable on each license issued.

Another resolution seeks to place the responsibility for "culls" upon the cheese or butter maker only when they can be proved to be the result of his negligence or inability, an agreement to this effect being made between the makers and employes on forms supplied by the provincial departments of agriculture.

The conference emphasized the importance of perfect, cold storage for dairy produce being provided by rail and steamship companies, both when waiting for and in actual transit.

The use of the fermentation test and acidimeter by cheese and butter makers was strongly advocated, and it was decided to request provincial departments of agriculture to furnish alkali solutions of the proper strength at nominal cost. To secure uniformity in the strength of the alkaline solution used in the acidimeter it was decided that the strength of the solution so used should be equivalent to ten grammes of lactic acid in a litre of distilled water, and that a ten per cent pipette should be used to measure the samples.

The conference unanimously held that the condemnation of cultures or "starters" is due to their improper use, and so it was recommended that cheese and butter makers should make themselves thoroughly acquainted with the scientific basis of the use of a culture or "fermentation starter," because in butter making, while a good culture is advantageous at all times, it is especially necessary in winter, and in connection with pasteurized cream. Only good cultures should be used at any time, and these require frequent re-sterilizing. The last clause in this resolution recognizes that these fresh cultures should be provided at nominal cost by the provincial departments of agriculture until their more general use warrants their supply by Canadian merchants.

The indefiniteness of the term "finest quality" is applied to butter and cheese called for a pronounced definition of the phrase, and the convention resolved that this standard should be fixed by the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association.

The improvement of the exterior of cheese factories and creameries was strongly advocated as conducive to health, sanitation and patronage, and it was considered desirable that prizes be offered for these structures presenting the prettiest external appearances, the instructor being selected to award the rewards.

The subject of freight charges came in for short but sharp treatment, and resulted in this resolution: "Whereas excessive freight charges on dairy products place our Canadian dairymen in an unfavorable position compared with those in this industry in other countries; therefore be it resolved that efforts be used to secure lower freight rates so that a larger proportion of the price received for our butter and cheese should be returned to our farmers."

Some Fashion Points for Summer

The bolero has lost none of its popularity. Cloth skirts are made up unlined, even in the medium and lightweight goods.

Flight lace in appliques and all overs claims chief attention, for use on dainty gowns of satin foulard, Indian silk, pongee, etc.

The collarless fancy bodice will be much seen this summer. The new box-plaited Eton's especially becoming to slight figures.

Smart gowns for summer evening wear are made from Brussels net, black or white, with a foundation of silk and a slip of chiffon to be worn between the net and silk.

Moire has the post of honor for light coats, especially for children. Mercerized goods will enjoy a great vogue for midsummer outing suits.

The lavish use of lace is the most striking feature of warm weather toilettes. The little protection collars of lace, babette and even linen have now cuffs to match; they are usually adorned with embroidery.

Chrysanthemum straw is the favorite for summer hats, the majority of which are flat and low.—From the June I. Illicator.

A Friendly Good-bye.

On Thursday evening a number of his co-workers in the church dropped in upon Mr. Thos. Boland while busy packing his household effects preparatory to moving to Sault Ste. Marie, and presented him with the following address accompanied by a beautiful oak Morris chair:

Dear Brother:—We have learned with regret of your prospective removal from our midst in the very near future. It would be great reminiscence of duty on our part if your departure took place without your co-workers in the church expressing in some tangible way our appreciation of your valuable services so cheerfully rendered since you became a resident of Markdale. Your work in the Master's cause has been characterized by zeal, faithfulness and liberality—three great essentials, and much required in this age. Please accept this easy chair as a small token of our regard for you, and we hope when occupying it your mind may revert to your friends in Markdale. We will miss you and your estimable wife from our social and religious life, but our loss will be the enriching of some other circle.

We wish you God speed in your new home, and earnestly pray that you and yours may enjoy much of the companionship of Christ, here and a heavenly inheritance in the great eternity. Signed by committee. Mark Armstrong, C. W. Rutledge, C. J. Halbert.

Mr. Boland replied graciously after which a number gave expression to their appreciation of Mr. B's sterling worth and their regrets at losing such a worthy citizen, and wound up by singing heartily, "Blest be the tie that binds."

Even that greatest of all jewels, health, is often ruined in the strenuous efforts to make or save the money to purchase them.
