Flesherton Happenings

Doings in our Sister Village During the Past Week Carefully Reported by our Correspondent.

Dr. Jos. Stafferd, of McGill Universty, Montreal, met with sudden and very sore bereavement last week in the death of his beloved wife, who in the early hours of Monday morning while she slept, expired with heart failure. Mrs. Stafford had recently returned from a three months' visit with her brothers at Denver, Col., and in the best of health and spirits was visiting Montreal friends at their country residence, waiting the return soon of her husband, who during her absence had been at the biological station at Malpecque, Prince Edward Island. The sad news was telegraphed to Dr. Stafford, who reached Montreal on Wednesday and found already there his sister, Mrs. J. P. Ottewell, of this place, and his to the wishes of the deceased's brothers of Denver, who did not reach Toronto: body was taken back to Toronto on Sabbath morning last. Mr. Anderson | former charge. had many traits of character which made him a desirable citizen. He had good business ability, was genial in disposition, temperate in habits and religious in spirit. Known as the Scottish vocalist he was much sought after for public entertainments and with his fine voice and Scotch songs stirred many an audience. For several years he led the service of praise in the Presbyterian congregation here, and also served with much acceptance the office of elder. On Sabbath Rev. Mr. Thom referred to his death and the tribute paid to his memory was no doubt the sentiment of the entire congregation. Mr. Thom spoke of meeting Mr. Anderson on-his recent trip to the West and at a social gathering hearing him sing with his usual effectiveness "My Ain Countrie" to which it | Eugenia. was then little thought he would so soon be translated. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Cullen, back line, was the scene of a happy but quiet matrimonial event on Wednesday afternoon of last week when their second daughter, Eliza, was joined in marriage to Mr. J. J. Little, of Wareham. The bride's pastor, Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, B. D., of this place, performed the ceremony in the presence of only a few immediate relatives of the contracting parties-The groom's brother, Mr. W. G. Little, and the bride's sister, Miss Sarah Cullen, discharged the duties of groomsman and bridesmaid. The bride and bridesmaid wore pretty and becoming gowns for the occasion. After the wedding repast the happy and very highly esteemed young couple drove to their new home near Wareham, where may they long enjoy happiness and prosperity. At the close of the prayer meeting in the Methodist church last week Messrs. brother, Prof. John Stafford, of Latona R. J. Sproule, W. J.
