HAD TO LEAVE SCHOOL.

THE PITIABLE STORY OF A YOUNG GIRL.

Every Mother of a Growing Girl Will Be Interested in the Story as Told By the Young Lady.

Miss Laura Dumontier is the daughter of a well-to-do farmer in St. Cuthbert, Quebec. The circumstances under which she was forced to discontinue her studies and leave school will be of interest to all mothers of growing girls, and Miss Dumontier consents to make them public for the benefit her experience may be to others. She says: "At the age of twelve I was sent to a convent school in this parish. At that time I was as healthy as any girl of my age. At the end of a couple of years, however, I felt my strength leaving me. My appetite grew poor, and I suffered from severe headaches. I nevertheless continued my studies until October, 1901, when I became very ill and was forced to leave school. The headaches that had bothered me became almost constant. I suffered from pains in the back and stomach and the least exertion would leave me almost breathless. A doctor was called in and he said I was suffering from anaemia, and was in a very dangerous condition. He treated me until February without the least beneficial result. Then another doctor was called in; but no better results followed his treatment. My parents were now thoroughly alarmed and two other doctors from St. Barthelemi were called in, and after consultation their verdict was that my trouble had reached an incurable stage. I was greatly disheartened and did not expect to live long when one day one of my friends asked me why I did not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had lost confidence in all medicines, but was willing to try anything that might help me, and my father got me a supply of the pills. When I had used a couple of boxes it was very plain that the pills were doing me good, and after I had taken them a couple of months I was once more enjoying the blessing of good health. I feel that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have saved my life and I gladly give my experience in the hope that it may be of benefit to some other young girls."

No discovery of modern times has proved such a blessing to young girls and women as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They act directly on the blood and nerves, invigorate the body, regulate the functions and restore health and strength to the exhausted patient when every effort of the physician proves unavailing. These pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or may be had by mail post paid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by writing to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Remember that no other medicine can take the place of these pills, and see that the full name, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, is on the wrapper around every box.

HEALTH IN LIFE IN A TENT

CHICAGO MAN CURES RHEUMATISM IN CAMP.

Famous Resorts and Spas Are Visited—First Relief Comes In Open Air.

For rheumatism outdoor existence is the only cure. This is the theory of B. C. Henderson of Riverside, Chicago. Putting his ideas into practice, he has abandoned his residence of 20 rooms in the suburb and has moved his family into a tent in the woods near by.

Mr. Henderson is a wealthy man. He has vast mining interests in California and business interests in the East. He is a graduate of Princeton. Rheumatism, from which he had suffered for years, became acute a year ago. Treatment for six months in sanitariums failed to relieve him. He decided to test the efficacy of his outdoor theories last June.

He rented a twenty-acre grove in Harlem avenue, half a mile east of Riverside, and pitched a forty-foot wall tent under the trees. Then he moved his brass beds and other indispensable furniture into it and set up housekeeping for the summer. The beds, a gasoline stove, a few easy chairs, and a portable Russian bath were the only luxuries he took with him upon his return to aboriginal existence. With his wife and five children he has inhabited his tent since, and now pronounces his experiment a practical success.

REGAINS HIS HEALTH.

"When rheumatism, from which I had suffered most of my life, became acute, I sold out many of my business interests and resolved to devote my time to my health rather than to my purse. I studied the question of beneficial conditions and came to the conclusion that I must get out of doors. Since living in a tent I have regained my health rapidly.

"Health is the greatest problem of civilization. Riches are a curse to a person in ill-health, because he spends his time and money in doctoring and staying at 'cures' and sanitariums. If he would rough it in a tent he would get well. The horrors of inferno are nothing to what I have suffered. I have spent thousands of dollars doctoring and have visited all the famous spas and health resorts. But my first relief was experienced under these oak trees.

"A spring bubbling from the earth near our camp supplies us with pure water, and I insist that pure spring water is a prime remedy for many ills. I lounge about under the trees, read, take my siesta. If I feel a bit strenuous I take up an axe and, sallying into the woods, cut down a dead tree.

HAPPIEST MONTHS OF LIFE.

"In the morning my wife and I turn our children loose barefooted, and the rest of the day they run wild through the woods. They are so healthy that I believe contact with poison oak would not show upon their skins. I have existed in luxury all my life, but the two months which I have passed in this tent have been the two happiest of my career. I might add that by this mode of life we have solved the servant girl question. We are wild here, have no work, and do not need servants."

"The novelty of camp life was not fascinating to me at first, I must confess," said Mrs. Henderson, "but it grew upon me, and now I thoroughly enjoy it. The children romp among the trees like little red Indians. I go about in comfortable wrappers. We made the experiment for the sake of Mr. Henderson's health, and the results have amply repaid us for all the inconveniences we have been put to."

For the two eldest girls Mr. Henderson has made leather sandals. The other children run barefoot. The grocery man visits the camp every day, and Mr. and Mrs. Henderson collaborate in cooking the meals.

Shortly after the Hendersons went into camp the Berwyn village board received word that gypsies had pitched their tents within the village. The marshal went over to investigate, and remained to dinner. The village board passed a resolution welcoming the new kind of gypsies and giving them permission to camp where they pleased.

Young Wife (dreamily)—"How lovely it would be if all things in this world would work in harmony." Husband (thoughtfully)—"Oh, yes! For instance, if the price of coal would only go up and down with the thermometer."

GRANTON MAN SPEAKS OUT

TO LET THE PUBLIC KNOW DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED HIM.

John Fletcher Had Lumbago and Kidney Disease and Could Get No Relief Till He Tried the Great Kidney Remedy.

Granton, Ont., Aug. 31 (Special).—"I am glad to let the public know that Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me of Lumbago, and I am now perfectly sound."

These are the words of John Fletcher, a well-known resident of this village, and similar tributes to the great Canadian Kidney remedy can be heard on every side.

"I had been troubled for a year with Lumbago and Kidney troubles," Mr. Fletcher continued, when asked for particulars. "My urine was of a very bad color and I could get nothing to help me. I consulted the best doctors in Granton and St. Mary's, but got no relief. Finally I bought a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and commenced taking them. They helped me almost from the first, and I was soon completely cured.

It is cures of this kind that have given Dodd's Kidney Pills their popularity. You can't find a neighborhood in Canada where Dodd's Kidney Pills are not known by their cures. If the disease is of the Kidneys or from the Kidneys, Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to cure it.

RUBBER MAY BE CHEAPER

IF A SUBSTITUTE IS FOUND FOR THE ORIGINAL.

Experiments Are Being Made With Greasewood or Chico Brush.

If experiments being secretly carried on in Akron, Ohio, are successful, the rubber industry will be revolutionized, the price will be reduced by at least 50 per cent., and in all probability the result will be to give the company the exclusive control of the market.

This new preparation, which is said to equal the best rubber, is made from the sap of the greasewood or chico brush, which is so plentiful in the south-west, and which has heretofore been considered a great nuisance. Most of the brush has been shipped to Akron from Southern California, and upon its arrival at the rubber company's experimental station is crushed so as to bring out the sap, which is chemically treated and produces a glutinous substance with all the qualities of rubber.

SECRET PROCESS.

As usual with experiments of the company, their operations are being kept as far as possible a strict secret. Beyond the fact that it is first thoroughly boiled and all the impurities removed, little has been learned by the public. In its melted condition the substance can be run into moulds and will retain any shape in which it is allowed to harden. A curious fact is that while this substance has most of the peculiarities of rubber it cannot be used as an eraser.

The expense of rubber is such that there is a growing tendency on the part of manufacturers to introduce impurities in order to lessen the cost of production. With the new substance, on account of its cheapness, this will not be done. Rubber in its crude form costs at present 95 cents to $1.20 per pound, while at most, Mr. Tullis says, the greasewood product will cost only 35 cents, with the probability of this being reduced as improvements are introduced.

There is a large quantity of greasewood on the western slope of Colorado, but it reaches its most luxurious growth in the south-west. It grows best in rocky, arid and sandy ground, and is very hardy. The highest bushes are about ten feet tall, and in some places only grow to a height of one or two feet.

NEW DEPARTURE.

As soon as the new product is proved to be an absolute success, Mr. Tullis says, it is the intention of the company to start a plant somewhere in the heart of the greasewood country so that the expense of shipping the stocks to the factory can be saved and the finished product sent to any place desired. He says that experiments in growing the brush in the east have been tried, but the shrub does not do well. The largest trunks seldom reach a diameter of over four inches, though with cultivation it is hoped to make them grow much larger.

Greasewood has been used to some extent in making the knotty canes which were fashionable a few years ago, but beyond this no use for it has ever been found. The stalk is very hard and brittle. In the summer the branches are covered with short, pulpy leaves, which are quite salty and are eaten ravenously by cattle in the spring. During the fall these leaves drop off and dry up, and the cattle eat them in the winter, though they make very poor feed.

AND THE DOG SPOKE.

Its Character Was at Stake, and it Prayed to the Judge.

In one of the Prague district courts recently, a foreman named Dastych sued a manufacturer named Weinert, alleging the latter's dog had bitten him, thereby rendering him unfit for work. The dog was produced in court, and the services of a veterinary surgeon were requisitioned as expert evidence.

Herr Desensy, in the presence of the judge, did his utmost to irritate the dog, and even struck it, but all to no purpose. The dog remained calm, and finally, finding the proceedings monotonous, crept under a stool.

"Quiet as a lamb!" was the finding of the veterinary surgeon; but "Oh, no," said the foreman, "the dog behaves itself because its master is present."

So the dog was taken out into the corridor, among the public, this time muzzled, and the veterinary again tried his best to irritate the animal. Doggy wagged his tail, offered first one paw and then the other, and, its advances being rudely repelled by the unfeeling veterinary, ran back into the court sat up on his hind legs before the judge, and begged. Not even the hard heart of a judge could resist this appeal, and the animal left the court without a stain upon his character.

A certain grocer enjoys the unenviable notoriety of selling the worst goods in the district; but he has not recovered from the shock he got the other day, when a little girl came into the shop and said:—"My ma sent me for two ounces of yer best tea for to kill rats with, an' a pound of yer finest ham, an' be sure to cut it in thick slices, because it's to sole an' heel my dad's boots."

MAKING ROOM FOR MORE.

What London is Doing For Its Growing Population.

The work of pulling down old and insanitary dwellings of the laboring classes and the provision of brighter and sanitary homes is making good progress in London.

A return just issued by the L. C. C. shows that in the district north of the Thames, with a population in 1901 of 3,884,054, no fewer than 4,656 tehement houses were provided at an average weekly rent of 2s. 2½d. per room, 38,418 persons being thus provided for.

South of the Thames, with a population of 2,093,303, tenement houses to the number of 4,746 have been built, at an average rent of 2s 2d. per room, providing for 33,722 persons.

The number of houses demolished was 1,042, and the population thereby displaced 6,469, whereas the new dwellings erected provided for the housing of 65,671 persons.

THE BANNER ROUTE.

There is nothing more assuring to the traveler than his knowledge of the fact that he is traveling on a firm roadbed, upon which is laid the heaviest of steel rails, made true in all their curves, and that the train which carries him is of the highest standard of excellence known to railroads and is being guided to its destination by experienced minds. These are the conditions which become apparent to the frequent traveler on The Wabash Line, and which have made that line justly famous. The Wabash has its own rails direct to the World's Fair Grounds in Saint Louis. All Wabash through trains stop at World's Fair Station (Forsyth) in order to give passengers an opportunity to view from the trains the World's Fair Buildings. J. Richardson, Dist. Pass. NO HOT NIGHTS IN COLORADO.

The nights are cool without dampness from dews. The air is pure without undue moisture. There is no excessive heat in summer, the average temperature being 80 degrees. There are no continuous, saturating rainfalls, but rather brief showers, which pass away quickly, leaving clear skies behind them. The summer nights are invariably cool, inviting rest and refreshing sleep.

VERY NEAR WINNING.

"I proposed to Miss Gladys Beautigirl last night."

"Ah! And she accepted you?"

"Well, no-o-o, not exactly; but she came so near doing so that a great deal of the sting was taken out of her refusal. She said she would have accepted me if I had had plenty of money and a perfect disposition and my eyes were brown instead of blue, and my hair curly, and I was two inches taller, and was winning fame in my profession, and possessed personal magnetism, and came of an old and blue-blooded family, and would always let her have her own way, and never smoked or wanted to stay out late at night, and did not belong to any lodge, and would keep a stylish turn-out and plenty of servants, and really wanted her mamma to live with us, and a few other things I have forgotten. But if a fellow must fall in an undertaking, it is encouraging to him to think that he came very near winning."

OF INTEREST TO MOTHERS.

A Safeguard for Children Cutting Teeth In Hot Weather.

The time when children are cutting teeth is always an anxious one for mothers and when this occurs during the hot weather solicitude often deepens into alarm. So many ills that often result fasally are liable to ensue that every mother will be interested in a medical discovery that robs this period of many dangers. Mrs. R. Ferguson, of 105 Mansfield street, Montreal, Que., gives her experience for the benefit of other mothers. She says: "My baby has always been small and delicate, and suffered so much last summer with his teeth that I did not think he would live. The medicine the doctor ordered for him did not do him much good. Then he was attacked with dysentery and a very hot skin and cough. I sent for Baby's Own Tablets, and they did him a wonderful amount of good, and he is now getting on splendidly."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all dealers in medicine or will be sent post paid, at twenty-five cents a box, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.
