

ANIMALS ARE SACRIFICED

AIN TO FURNISH EVIDENCE FOR THEIR MASTERS.

Giant Ate Government Stamps Parrot Stole a Valuable Diamond.

THE ABUSE OF THE BODY

The Physical Body of Man Is a Temple in Both Senses of the Word

(Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, on the 1st day of November, Nineteen Hundred and Ten, by Wm. Bally, of Toronto, and T. G. Williams, of Ottawa, Agents.)

Oh, the awful doom awaiting the spiritual desecration of the temple of the Holy Ghost!

A despatch from Chicago says:

"Enter Frank De Witt Talmage preached from the following text: I Corin-tians, 19, 'Know ye not that you are the temple of God, which is the spiritual body of Christ? This is the temple of God, which is the temple of the Holy Ghost.'

A CONSUMING FIRE.

Have you ever seen a sanctuary of brick and stone which has been dedicated to God destroyed by earthquake or by fire? Well I have. On a dark, stormy night I was awakened in my Brooklyn home by the rumbling of the fire engines. I heard a quick rap at my door, as my sister called: "Wake up! The Tabernacle is in flames!" I hurriedly dressed and ascended to the cupola of our house, which overlooked the city. There the whole family were gathered. The air seemed charged with electricity. Oh in the distance the public buildings of the city looked like the great mansions of a celestial city, blazing by contrast the scene more dramatic. The church did not burn but other buildings seemed to burn but its roof in its entirety was a mass of living coal. It looked like an altar, a huge altar upon which was being sacrificed the whole life's ministry of the noble father who stood by my side. Suddenly it swayed and shivered, like unto a dazed and dying man. "There it goes!" said mother.

Remember also, my brother, you should not compel your loved ones

to do with your body what they do not want to do. "I shall be created," I heard him say, and some time ago, I turned to him and said

"Friend, you have not any right to demand that your loved ones shall cremate your body, if they wish to do it all right. But if they do not wish to do it then let them have the sweet yet sad comfort of going out of your grave to plant forgetments where sleeps the mortal part of one whom they have dearly loved." The body is more than flesh, though it crumble into dust

at the end of an earthly life it shall be raised, a new and heavenly body for the life eternal. Truly not!

Despisè it not! Despite it not!

It is the temple of the Holy

Ghost!

sense as a man's house belongs to him when the title deed is not only put in the family safe, but also recorded among the country records.

If this be true what is the next step? Why, each temple should have a day when it is publicly de-dictated to the deity for whom it is built. When the Solomonic temple was to be last dedicated the king made the service of national import. He assembled in one place all the officers and men of state, and on that occasion he selected 120,- 000 sheep and 22,000 oxen. The rivers of blood which flowed from that altar signify to us how great an occasion that dedication must have been.

THE DEDICATION.

Now, my brother, it is right and proper that every temple should be publicly dedicated. When are you going to publicly dedicate your temple to the service of Jesus Christ?

This body is a priceless treasure which we should offer him. How precious it is, but we can fully appreciate unless they lose part of the physical anatomy.

I never wish to hear a man make a slighting remark about his physical body. Never say, as the many,

"Oh, I do not care what becomes of my body after I am dead!" You should care, my brother, you should care in the first place, because that body has been a good friend to you, and, secondly, because that body is in corruption and raised in incorrup-tion, a glorified, immortal spirit-body, fit for the companionship of the angels and the redeemed.

Speak no ill about your body.

Remember also, my brother, you

should not compel your loved ones

to do with your body what they do not want to do. "I shall be created," I heard him say, and some

time ago, I turned to him and said

"Friend, you have not any right to

demand that your loved ones shall

cremate your body, if they wish to

do it all right. But if they do not wish to do it then let them have

the sweet yet sad comfort of going

out of your grave to plant

forgetments where sleeps the mortal

part of one whom they have dearly

loved." The body is more than

flesh, though it crumble into dust

at the end of an earthly life it shall

be raised, a new and heavenly body

for the life eternal. Truly not!

Despisè it not! Despite it not!

It is the temple of the Holy

Ghost!

AUSTRALIA'S CAPITAL.

Tumut's Situation in the Mountains of New South Wales.

The Federal House of Representatives at Melbourne has selected Tumut for the capital of the Commonwealth of Australia. The Senate, on the other hand, has selected Bourbella. The question is not settled, and probably very few persons in our country or Europe have heard of either place.

Tumut is only a little village, and its name appears on very few maps.

Some years ago the best foreign map of Australia showed where the town is situated, but curiously enough the latest edition of this map, issued early this year, omits the town. The able geographer who supervised the revision of the map had no idea of the distinction that was to be considered upon the little hamlet, and appeared, unflinchingly, in the map.

Another favorite dish of baked eggs is easily prepared. Butter the bottom of a shallow enameled dish or a pie dish; sprinkle in a few breadcrumbs; break into this as many eggs as the dish will reasonably hold without their running in to one another, cover these thickly with grated cheese, a sprinkling of salt and pepper, pour in the greater part of a small jugful of cream and add one or two bats of salt butter.

Set this dish in a moderate oven to brown the surface slightly and cook the eggs; then serve at once.

FOR THE HOME

Recipes for the Kitchen, Hygiene and Other Notes for the Housekeeper.

WAYS OF COOKING EGGS.

It may sound somewhat old, to speak of the "season" of eggs, since they are in evidence all the year round, but, assuredly, they have their season, in common with all other animal and vegetable products.

When eggs are cheapest and most plentiful, they are also most wholesome.

A housewife is wise to seek as many ways of using them as she possibly can.

Most people take an egg for breakfast, but, a new way of poaching one for an invalid's tray is to butter the inside of a cup of tea.

Separate the white from the yolk of a new laid egg, whisk the former with a little milk and a dash of cinnamon and nutmeg, and add a spoonful of sugar.

Boil the yolk in a cup of water, add a spoonful of sugar, a dash of cinnamon and nutmeg, and a spoonful of cream.

Turn the tea over the yolk, add a spoonful of cream, and a dash of cinnamon.

Turn the tea over the yolk, add a spoonful of cream, and a dash of cinnamon.

Turn the tea over the yolk, add a spoonful of cream, and a dash of cinnamon.

Turn the tea over the yolk, add a spoonful of cream, and a dash of cinnamon.

Turn the tea over the yolk, add a spoonful of cream, and a dash of cinnamon.

Turn the tea over the yolk, add a spoonful of cream, and a dash of cinnamon.

Turn the tea over the yolk, add a spoonful of cream, and a dash of cinnamon.

Turn the tea over the yolk, add a spoonful of cream, and a dash of cinnamon.</p