

LIFE OF THE CZAR'S WIFE
The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Courier has been busy with a striking pen picture of the daily life at home and at court of the woman generally known as the Empress. Her life is not a life of luxury and pomp and circumstance, but a life of simple domesticity. She is a woman of simple tastes, and her life is a life of quietude and domesticity. She is a woman of simple tastes, and her life is a life of quietude and domesticity. She is a woman of simple tastes, and her life is a life of quietude and domesticity.

THE TIDY ANIMAL

A naturalist has been making observations on the habits of certain ants, and has discovered each insect gets through most elaborate obstructions. They are not only performed by themselves, but by another, who acts for the time as the ant's maid. The ant goes on its journey, and then goes over the whole body. The attitude of the ant that is being washed is one of intense satisfaction. She lies down with all her limbs stretched loosely out, she rolls over on her back, and she presents a perfect picture of ease. The pleasure the little insect evinces in being thus washed and sponged is really enjoyable to the observer.
