Methodist S. S. Anniversary

The severe snow storm and disturbed state of the elements on Monday and Tuesday cast a cloud over the minds of those specially interested in the Methodist Sunday School Anniversary which was looked for Tuesday evening. Miss Doty, of London, had the school in training for ten days and must leave the following day to fill other engagements so an adjournment was out of the question. There was, however, a good sized audience, and a fair complement of children, the snow blockade hindered many both old and young from putting in an appearance especially from the country. The various numbers were rendered in a manner most creditable to both the trainer and the school, embracing old and young. The thorough training and marked precision manifested throughout was a characteristic feature, and this of itself is a valuable education to all concerned. Miss Doty is clever and has superior aptness along this line to which she devotes her entire time. Her repeated engagements in same places from year to year is the best proof of her popularity. Mrs. J. E. Walker presided at the organ and did her important part most satisfactorily.

Business Change

The farming community and the travelling public generally, will learn with regret that Mr. James Kelly has leased the Revere Hotel premises; yet, with that economic good sense which has characterized all his business transactions since his advent to this town, seventeen years ago, he has installed a worthy successor in the person of Mr. E. Althar, who seems well qualified to maintain the prosperous business which Mr. Kelly, by a strict economy and urbanity of manner, has won the confidence and esteem of the great majority of the populace for many miles around Markdale. Eleven years ago Mr. Kelly took charge of the Revere, then on unpretentious building, but by the unerring hand of a skillful workman, has been transformed into a hostelry second to none in any country town north of Toronto; while the stabling and sheds stand unrivalled for comfort and convenience.
As a citizen, Mr. Kelly possesses the esteem of all our townsmen, being foremost in every good work, which had for its object the improvement of our town. Our regrets would be more poignant, but that Mr. Kelly is not going to leave town, but will embark in commercial business in the premises recently occupied by Messrs. Benson, where, we hope, merited success will attend his venture.
Mr. Kelly's change of business possesses that commendable forensic spirit, seeking to place his interesting family of boys in a sphere of usefulness. One, M. E. Kelly, is now at St. Michael's College, Toronto, from whence we hope to hear of him graduating with high honors, and a credit to his native town of Markdale.

Mr. John E. Kelly, of Yellow Grass, Assa., reports a very fine fall, and winter thus far. He says he gets THE STANDARD out there regularly and wants it continued.

The New Presbyterian Pastor

The Presbyterian church in this place begins the new year with bright prospects for success. The new pastor, Rev. Alexander Shepherd, a man in the prime of life, affable in manner, keen of perception, good executive, and able preacher, has already made a most favorable impression with all classes, while Mrs. Shepherd is an admirable helpmate. The manse had been re-painted internally, and papered, and the new occupants are comfortably domiciled and extending their hospitality to their numerous callers. Monday being special day for that purpose. The congregation possessed a spirit of harmony and spiritual fervor on the arrival of the new pastor, and his characteristic evangelical spirit cannot but prove progressive in his great work here.

TO THE ELECTORS OF SOUTH GREY:

GENTLEMEN,—I respectfully request your vote and influence at the approaching Provincial Election on 25th of January, 1905.
Should you honor me by electing me as your representative, I will faithfully do all that I can to promote the best interests of our riding, and the welfare of our Province, by supporting only such legislation as will tend to honest, efficient and economical administration of Provincial affairs.
Believing that the will of the people should be faithfully respected, I will oppose and strenuously condemn all electoral corruption; convinced that majorities must rule, I will make it a first rule in my conduct to see that they are honest majorities.
Trusting that I may be honored by your support, and wishing you a happy and prosperous New Year, I am,
Yours very sincerely,
John McKechnie.

Polly Williamson.

A very fashionable home wedding took place at the home of Mr. James Williamson, Euphrasia, on December 28th, when his youngest daughter, Cassie, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Robert Polly, of Stratford. Prompt at 11 o'clock a.m. the young couple entered the parlor and stood under an evergreen arch, while the Rev. Dr. McLaren tied the nuptial knot. The groom was ably supported by his cousin, Mr. Victor Morrow, of Owen Sound, while the bride was attended by her cousin, May Patton, of Rocklyn. The bride was charmingly attired in a voile dress trimmed with white silk and applique and her travelling suit of light brown, while the bridesmaid was attired in a blue silk waist with fancy collar and black skirt. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the dining room and partook of a very fashionable dinner, which was spread with all the delicacies of the season, which spoke volumes for the hosts, Mrs. Williamson. The young couple left after dinner for Markdale, where they took the afternoon train for their home in Stratford. We join with the many friends in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Polly a long and prosperous journey through life.

House of Refuge Notes.

(By An Inmate.)
Thomas Boyle, the inmate who made the unfortunate leap from the train between Berkeley and Markdale, when returning to the Home after Christmas from leave of absence, succumbed to his injuries about 7 p.m. on Friday last. He was unconscious nearly the whole time from the time of the accident to the moment of his death. His brother, Mr. Clarke Boyle, was notified of his critical condition and was present with him from Wednesday until Thursday afternoon, when he was obliged to return home, owing to sickness in his family. The hearse and casket arrived on Sunday morning to convey the remains to Walters Falls for interment.
Messrs. Charles Minthlaw and Arthur Wardrobe, of Flesherton, visited the Home on Thursday last. Mr. Burgess, P. S. I. for North Grey, was a caller on Friday evening, and M. White, son of Mr. White, Governor of the Walker House of Refuge, on Saturday. The divine service, conducted by Mr.

was of a very solemn and impressive nature; the hymns, too, were eminently appropriate to the discourse, which he drew from Heb. 9: 27—"And as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment." In a very feeling manner he referred to the number of deaths that had taken place in this institution within the last nine or ten weeks, which had been six, the last two having occurred last week, but dwelt more fully and more touchingly on the one which appeared in this column. He seriously pointed out the uncertainty of life, and earnestly urged on his hearers the necessity of constant and prayerful watchfulness, both by young and old, to be in readiness at any time to receive the summons which all of us must sooner or later obey. His remarks throughout his discourse were most impressive, his hearers being deeply affected. Mr. Ennis also addressed the congregation. There were nine ladies and two gentlemen friends present.

A number from the Mill Creek Division paid this lodge a fraternal visit at last meeting. After the business had been duly attended to, an impromptu programme was given in which the visitors as well as the members took part, and consisted of speeches and vocal and instrumental music. An instrumental by Sister Thompson, one of the visitors, was especially good. Lunch was served, after which this pleasant evening was brought to a close.

John Gloneros returns to Chatham Business College on Wednesday, after spending a most jolly fortnight with relatives and old schoolmates.
Mr. and Mrs. Martin of the American "Spa" have been visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Ryan, of the 8th, for the past few weeks. Mr. Martin has a good situation up there. Sam Edwards and bride return to Caledon on Wednesday to visit among friends and pack goods before starting for their home near Bank.
Over a score of gaiters gathered in Mr. Wm. Greenwood's bush on Saturday afternoon. Some outed the drags, W. Cook and T. Jack skidded them, and in about two hours they had cut, split and piled about 12 cords. Five saws on a log broke the blocks drop; but Albert McCall's and his cousin Will could nip them off in twinkling. Public life has compensation sometimes for its worries and vexations, especially when the official has done his or her duty more than well. It has been in the hearts and thoughts of the patrons of the Traverston post office for some time to show their gratitude to Mrs. John Delaney for her unflinching willingness to oblige people at all hours, for her generous-hearted hospitality and kindness and courtesy, but it required someone to carry out and put in shape these good intentions. Mrs. J. J. Peart and the Morrison Bros. on Thursday carried it out to a most happy conclusion on Wednesday evening of last week. Mrs. Delaney had invited her friends in to tea, but when she heard after she had poured into the same she was almost bewildered, but welcomed the crowds with greetings warm and hearty. Nearly one hundred gathered in the spacious room and soon mirth and jollity reigned. During the bright impromptu programme, Mrs. Delaney was selected as a partner in an old-fashioned Scotch reel, when Mr. Tom Morrison read an address which warmly expressed the thankfulness of those present for her faithfulness to duty and for her never-failing kindness, while Mrs. J. J. Peart presented her at the appropriate moment with a handsome purse and a snug little sum.

Pluckily she served herself heartily thanked them for their will and wholly unexpected presents. E. W. Hunt, James W. J. Edwards, John McGeorge Blair and others testified to Delaney's goodness of heart and disposition. Pat Fogarty's couple of songs and was rapturous. Den Ryan's solo was one. Misses Stella Jack, Mary Morrison and Masters Paul, Beecher Jack, Elmo and others recited, but James excelled them all. His a good entertainment in himself step-dancing by Messrs. Will Morrison exhibited grace and motion, but that of old Vincent and little Lizzie was most admired of all. Such a good thing followed, it was at least. Then music, song and dancing kept going till the stars, when all went home with their hearts.

Notes on the evening.
We had a good word for the J. Peart was in high glee at the success of the affair. If ever, have so many middle class been out at a gathering neighborhood.
Mrs. Peart, sang a couple fine old style. His graphic song some good selections. Happy mingling of all classes was what there.
For Hunt received many congratulations. The neighborhood was his home and the host strong.
He's a jolly good fellow" was truly sung.
