SPOTS ON THE SUN'S FACE. Covers a Tenth of the Total Solar Diameter.

A despatch says: A sun spot, believed to be one of the largest and best defined ever observed, has been discovered by Prof. A. H. Cole, a local astronomer, through a small opera glass on a sheet of white paper, a disc measuring six inches in diameter was disclosed. Mathematical calculations proved that the spot on the surface of the sun covers one-tenth of its total diameter, or over 80,000 miles in its widest part. The spot is egg-shaped and can be easily discerned through a smoked glass. It is situated east of the central portion of the sun. The spot will be visible for seven days.

CANADIAN BUTTER ON TOP. Imports by the United Kingdom Third in Size.

A London despatch says: At the annual dinner of the Bristol District Grocers and Provision Dealers' Association Mr. C. H. Slade, the President of the Provision Merchants' Association, said he was pleased to say that in Canadian imports of butter they stood third in the United Kingdom. They were third because they cultivated the trade. Up to last year they had to buy their supplies of Australian and New Zealand butter from agents in London. He had written scores of letters pointing out to shippers the disadvantage of sending goods that way, and showing how the Canadians had succeeded in selling their goods on the coast, freight and insurance included. This year more butter had been sold on the c.i.f. basis than ever before. They must urge that some of these huge shipments of butter and cheese must be shipped to Bristol.

BRIDGE GAVE WAY. Thirty Men and Horses Fell to the Ice Below.

A despatch from St. Petersburg says: The suspension bridge spanning the Fontka River collapsed on Thursday morning when a detachment of dragoons was crossing. Thirty men and horses were precipitated into the frozen river, together with a number of carbines, etc. The ice at that point being weak, but specially helped by the weight of the men and horses, and the victims of the accident were rescued with the exception of one dragoon. The chains on both banks broke, and the bridge fell bodily with the traffic thereon at the time. The terrified cavalry horses jumped over the railings of the bridge onto the ice which gave way. The river ran parrot at that point, and the men managed to scramble ashore, the assistance of witnesses of the accident.

WINTER WHEAT DAMAGED. Lack of Snow, Damaged to United States Crop.

A Washington, D. C., despatch says: The United States Weather Bureau summary for January, 1905, states as follows: East of the Rocky Mountains the month was colder than the average, with light precipitation. In the Rocky Mountain region the month was milder than the average, with precipitation in the southern plateau region and much less than the average precipitation in the north. Throughout the Southern States the month was unfavorable for the agricultural season. The reports indicate that winter wheat was generally well protected westward of the Mississippi River and also in portions of the Ohio Valley and Middle Atlantic States, but over much of the last-named district there was insufficient snow protection during severest winter weather. In portions of Illinois and Indiana, it is feared that the crop has suffered injury. Large areas being covered with ice. On the North Pacific coast the outlook is favorable for late sowing in Washington, California, the prospect is excellent, except along the Sacramento River, where some damage has been caused by heavy rains.

UNDER THE DETROIT RIVER. Vanderbilt Railroad Interests Are to Construct a Tunnel.

A Detroit despatch says: The News says it is able to state positively the confirmation of the New York Central, Lake Shore, Michigan Central and Big Four systems, a tunnel will be immediately constructed under the Detroit River to facilitate the transportation of cars and goods. The tunnel is to be built by the Vanderbilt interests.
