WOMEN WHO CHARM

HEALTH IS THE FIRST ESSENTIAL

It Helps Women to Win and Hold
Men's Admiration, Respect and Love

Woman's greatest gift is the power to inspire admiration, respect, and love.
There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of feature.

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband,
should be a woman's constant study.
At the first indication of ill-health,
painful or irregular menstruation,
headache or backache, secure Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begin its use.

Mrs. T. E. Gillis, Windsor, N.S., describes her illness and cures, in the following letter:

Dear Mr. Pinkham—
I have commenced to take Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was suffering with aches and pains, trouble, headache, backache, and that sort of tried feeling. I have only taken the Vegetable Compound, a few short weeks, and it has been well, strong and robust.
I believe this Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is without equal for female

Women who are troubled with irregular menstruation, backache, headache, fainting, inflammation or pleuritis,
the internal ovarian troubles, that
"hanging-down" feeling, dizziness, fainting, prostration, may be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Surely you cannot wish to remain
sick, weak and discouraged, while you might so easily be cured. The medicine which has made so many other women well will cure you also.

Address and Presentation.

On Thursday evening, February 16, some eighty friends, neighbors and well-wishers assembled, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Knott and family to pay their respects to them prior to their leaving for their new home near Thorburn, and presented Mr. and Mrs. Knott with a beautiful clock and to Miss Mary Knott a travelling case and a silver fruit dish for valuable services rendered by her in the Sunday School. Mr. and Mrs. Knott and family have resided here for some 21 years, and during that time have rendered much valuable service. The following address was read:

To Mr. and Mrs. C. Knott and Miss Mary Knott:

Dear Friends.—We have gathered tonight to express our respect and esteem for you and our sorrow at your intended departure from among us, so soon; have you been here, and so attached we become to you that you cannot be filled. We wish you to accept this clock as a memento
of your many friends in and around Kimberley. To Miss Mary we present these articles for her field playing for us in the Sabbath School. Wishing you all happiness and prosperity in your new home, we are on behalf of all, yours sincerely,

Mrs. George Proctor,
Miss Lizzie Weber.

Evils of the Liquor Traffic.

(Crowded out for two weeks.)

Editor STANDARD—I have been specially requested to have published the following paper, which was prepared and read by me at the box social given in behalf of the Sons of Temperance at Vandeleur on January 27th:

Mr. chairman, ladies and gentlemen, we, as a temperance body, have met here this evening, not only for pleasure and enjoyment, but in hopes we may take advantage of this opportunity to say for some little thing to advance the cause we represent. The Sons of Temperance are on the right road to accomplish the object desired. But unfortunately we have a very slow horse to travel with. We must use moral persuasion. You can persuade man and beast to do a great deal, but the moment you undertake to compel either man or beast something in the nature of both that causes them to rebel.

This is a subject on which political leaders are unwilling to deal with. When we ask them for an amendment to the present laws they say, "Why don't you enforce the laws you have? We cannot give you anything better." There are then who would rather see a thousand horses sink into perdition rather than lose so many votes. The various laws on temperance have been in force in this and other countries, but all have failed, more or less, to wipe out the business that raises one man to opulence and sinks another in misery.

I only wish I had time to give you my experience and observations on this subject both in America and abroad. If we want temperance legislation we must have a law that will hold the manufacturer and seller responsible for all the damages wrought directly or indirectly from the product which they handle. When we get this we will have made a wonderful advancement along our line.

In Atchinson, Kansas, a Mr. Evans obtained from a brewery sufficient to become intoxicated, and while in a drunken frenzy, shot and killed two other men, and for this crime is serving a life sentence in the penitentiary. His wife sued the brewing firm, alleging that as the beer came from the brewery, and the tragedy was the result of intoxication, therefore she was deprived of her support, and therefore entitled to damages. The court and jury took this side of the case and granted her damages to the extent of $5,000. The Wine and Spirit Journal of New York pronounced this a "quiet verdict."

Do you see anything queer about it? If men are licensed to sell that which intoxicates, deprives men of their reason and makes them temporarily insane, then why should not they be held responsible for the damages done by the intoxicated person?

We have law holding employers responsible to their employees for injuries sustained while in their service, often under circumstances they have little or no control over. Then why should not the liquor manufacturer and the seller be held responsible for the evil results of their business of which they are the cause?

Last Saturday night between Flesherton and Markdale a man under the influence of liquor, along with his team, were killed by the evening express. Death is an unwelcome visitor at any time, but an intruder we cannot bar our doors against. It is hard enough to let him into the family circle, even when he notifies us weeks or months ahead of his coming. But only those whose homes have been visited in a similar manner, can realize what it means to have one of their members severed from their midst in such an awful manner.

In the midst of our mirth and pleasure here to-night just stop for a moment and think of the bereavement and sadness in the home of the deceased, whose widow must console herself with Job's words, "Man is born into trouble, the sparks fly upward." Just think how that woman's heart is wrung in agony. That we may enjoy the so-called liberties which the anti-prohibitionists tell us about whenever the temperance subject is dealt with. Why shouldn't the men, who indirectly killed her husband, men who made her a widow and crushed her heart, men who are now depriving her of food and clothing and the little pleasures and necessities of life, be compelled to renumerate her for the loss which she has sustained? Why should she be forced to stand on the brink of poverty and drag out a miserable existence that the men who make and sell liquor shall accumulate wealth, live in luxury and ease, and grow fat at her expense. We hear a great deal about remunerating the hotel keeper. It is a cry, "Relieve unto us, Barabas." Which will we remunerate—the widow or the murderer?

Politicians, if an angel were to visit you to-night in a dream and say, "If you do not do all in your power to stop this cursed liquor traffic, which has ruined the homes and blighted the lives of countless numbers, you will live to see that child which now sits on

An Old Line Know Nothing

The Monetary Times, which seems to make a specialty of misrepresenting the fraternal beneficiary societies, is again with a tissue of misrepresentation referring to the A. O. U. W. It sets out with the statement that "the Canadian branch seceded some twenty years ago from the parent body at Headville, Pa. when in fact the A. O. U. W., of Ont., became an independent Order July 1st, 1897. The statement that Ontario seceded twenty years ago is just about as inaccurate as all the rest of the statements the Times makes in its reference to the Order, and shows that it is stupidly ignorant or deliberately false in its full attack on our Society.

It goes on to tell about relief calls and death losses, something never before heard of in the A. O. U. W. of Ontario. In Grand Lodge two years ago the main object of the small increase was not to accumulate a reserve fund as the Times says, the Reserve is provided otherwise, and the fund itself was in no danger of being eaten up by claims or otherwise, and in fact not a dollar has ever been drawn from it.

The Times next tells us that the old rates of $100 per $1,000 without reference to the rate of interest, the Reserve was changed to a stop rate a year ago, but there was no change a year ago, and the Times' whole distorted statement is evidently made to help its old line supporters, as may be easily seen from its attempt to induce members to look elsewhere for insurance.

The Times seems to hold the Hunter rate is about the right thing for the Hunter society to adopt, but the A. O. U. W. did not apply to the old line journal for advice, nor wait for its interference on the rate, but went to a rearrangement, the trouble with it seems to be that it dreads the Order as a competitor with its old line patrons when our rates are readjusted as they will be next month. The Times tells us the readjusted rates at coming Grand Lodge session will probably not be put in force until 1906, but that is only another voluntary misstatement. No body at all familiar with the A. O. U. W. and its high standing and sound system would agree with anything the Times has to say about it, because its statements are not fact but empty assertions of an interested advocate of old line business.

It is somewhat amusing to witness the crocodile tears of the Times in the very moderate rates involved in adopting the Hunter Scale, especially when one realizes that they are under half the old line rates taken all through.

The Times, too, ignores the fact that readjusting rates is an uncommon event with the old liners. Four or five years ago this entry case will pass if it continued long enough.

Piles are caused by congestion or stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and it takes an internal remedy to remove the cause.
