A Reform Planer's Reference

lated on his firmness with the Radial Railway Co., who wanted something like a perpetual franchise in their charter. He took the unusual course of going to the committee to assure them the government would not endorse the bill even if recommended. The committee threw it out by 9 to 8, Beattie Nesbitt voting against the Government view. Mr. Whitney was also on commendable ground when he objected strongly to important measures being brought in in the closing hours of the session. He put another feather in his cap by the clever way he handled the Junction Pool room, a notorious gampling establishment which has been broken up and its leaders heavily fined.

A Journal to be Proud Of.

The publishers of the Montreal Witless are making a special effort to inrease their circulation, and ought to have the cordial support of friends of moral reform throughout the Dominion. For many years The Witness has been a standard-bearer in every battle for the promotion of the public welfare, and the public owe to it a debt of gratitude that will not be easily repaid.

Much of the splendid fight for public righteousness carried on by The Witness has been at a good deal of financial sacrifice. In their determination to keep their journal free from anything that could be mischievous, they have excluded a vast amount of such undesirable, advertising and sensational matter as is found in nearly all other secular periodicals. It has done good service in keeping up the tone of Canadian journalism as well as in championing the cause of justice and progress. It ought to have a very arge circulation.

With regard to the fine imposed on the hotelkeeper at this place for selling to a minor, we have this to say, that it appeared to be Mr. Hare's intention to observe the law, he having been known to ask several young men their age before giving them liquor. In the case in question he asked the party his age and he replied that he was 22 on his next birthday, which from his appearance anyone could believe, but as he was only a few months out from England it would be difficult to prove.

I have been asked to give the facts concerning our trip West with the Grey interested will have a correct idea of how we fared, and will appreciate space in The STANDARD for the following short account.

On Monday, April 17th, I had a tourist car placed in the yard at Meaford for our special use. The various members selected their birth and fitted it up according to his idea of comfort. There was a cooking range and kitchen in one end which enabled all to have hot meals at pleasure. We had the exclusive use of this coach for the entire trip, which made it much more pleasant than the usual way of changing several times.

The party left Meaford on Tuesday, April 18th and had a splendid trip, arriving at Bladworth, Assa., at three a.m. April 25th, having made the trip in two days less time than is usual with setflers trains. At Bladworth the train was sidetracked, and many of the party did not know we had arrived until they were told in the morning,

April 25th was a beautiful day and all were hustling to get unloaded and ready for an early start the next morning. Tents were erected and everything made as comfortable as possible under the circumstances, but to some, iving in a tent was a new experience and "it was something they had to get used to," which they did very quickly. The stock all came through in firstclass shape, not a single beast seeming any worse for the trip. Wednesday, the 26th, was a fine day also, and all took their first loads out to the central camp in the townships in which they were to locate, where they camped for the night. Thursday brought us a change in the weather in the shape of a snow-storm which prevented any moving around being done, and also made it a little disagreeable for those who were not prepared for it. It has been reported that there was eight feet of snow some places and that many of the settlers suffered terribly from exposure. The facts are there was about six inches of snow and none of our party suffered any hardships, as the storm only lasted about twenty-four hours, the temperature never dropped below three degrees of frost, and by Saturday the snow was all gone and weather bright and fine again. The following week was a very busy one, all being auxious to get moved to their new locations, and by Saturday, May oth, every family was on their own farm. When I left Bladworth May 16th all were busy at their houses, some having got far enough ahead to move in and many had comfortable stables up for their stock ingle exception expressed themselves as being well suited; that they found everything even better than they had expected, and that a farm of one hundred and sixty acres was cretty good pay for any inconvenience they would, experience in making a new start. Some had sown oats and planted potatoes while others were preparing the ground as fast as possible.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space in your valuable paper, 1 am, Yours very truly,

Mrs. Roosevelt is a woman of devout nature and conventionally religous habt. In Washington she is a regular attendant at St. John's Episcopal Church -a fact which has caused its share of tongue-wagging. For the President, as staunchly loyal to his traditions as Mrs. Roosevelt to hers, attends Grace Church. This division of family worsermons have actually been delivered apon it. That the frank, open steadfastness of each to an early creed is really a convincing tribute to the other's gentleness and generosity, and an evidence of a true unity of feeling escapes these critics.

HOPE FOR EVERYBODY.

There seems to be no case so bad that Anti-Pill cannot cure it. A strong claim, but well supported.

Just recently a physician in Lincoln. Nebraska, has made a discovery which is exciting the interest and wonder of the medical professions all over the world. Dr. Leonhardt began on the theory that the poison sent through the system by the rotting and fermentation of un-digested foods were the prime cause of nearly every disease.

He set to work to discover, if possible mal, healthy action, perfect digestion would be restored.

He succeed and his prescription he called Anti-Pill. The proof that his work was well done is found in the long list of remarkable cures made by
