audience gathered in the ice rink to enjoy the long-expected event. A large stage had been erected, decorated with evergreens, bunting and banners. Mr Dundas presided at the piano, and rendered a suitable selection as each character was aunounced. Mr. Dassie Mercer, in military uniform, acted as herald. Miss Lillian Sproule, as the Goddess of Fame, was enthroned on the centre of the stage, and presented a living picture of loveliness. Her robe of white fringed with gold, from which depended a long train, was an artistic creation and very beautiful.
