A five hundred pound bell for the new town hall at Dundalk was moulded at the Dundalk Iron Works last week. This is certainly commendable and creditable to our sister town.
The sermon by the pastor in the Methodist church to young women last Sunday evening was an able one and much appreciated by the large audience. The female choir also acquitted themselves creditably.

A Markdale citizen was recently visiting in a prairie like section of country, where an occasional wire fence was the only wind-break in sight. While taking a walk one day he thought he would have a smoke. He lighted a match after match in vain. No shelter within reach and he himself had a shadow was obliged to forgo the anticipated pleasure. He was unfavorably impressed with life on the prairie. Ask W. J. Stephens for further particulars.
A fairly good house greeted the members of the "East Lynne" company at their show in the Marsh Hall here on Tuesday night. The program was provocative of diverse opinions, some deeming the whole performance a farce while others expressed their opinion that the play was a fairly good presentation of this fine, old, time-honored drama. The play was above the average presented by travelling troupes that have visited this town, and was up to the expectations of those present. A good solo band and orchestra accompany the troupe.
The Epworth League of the Markdale Methodist Church is preparing for another high class concert to be held in the church on Thanksgiving evening, Oct. 26th. The programme will include such high-class artists as Ruthven MacDonald, of Toronto, the celebrated baritone singer and entertainer, who has delighted so many audiences throughout Canada and the United States; Charles L. MacIrvine, the talented reader and impersonator of St. Catherine; Mr. Newton Large, tenor, leader of the Sorpe St. Methodist Church choir, Owen Sound; and Mr. Win Large, leader of the Methodist Church choir, Markdale. The program will consist of readings, impersonations, solos, duets and trios by these artists, and they will provide an evening of rare enjoyment and delight. A STANDARD representative visited Mr. John W. Ford's new chopping mill in the old agricultural building last week and found his 35 horse power gasoline engine driving the chopper to beat the band. The place had the appearance of orderliness and hustle and grain was being chopped at a marvelous rapid rate.
Shelburne had the most successful exhibition this year in its history, notwithstanding the fact that horse-races and all side show attractions were expunged. R. J. Watson, formerly Secretary of the Central at Walters Falls, is the Secretary and deserves special mention for his well directed efforts.
The Owen Sound Sun says: "The Markdale Standard, one of the leading newspapers in this section of the province, recently celebrated its 25th birthday. The Standard is a seven column, eight page newspaper. It is always bright and provides its patrons with an excellent news service. From a typographical standpoint it is everything that can be desired."

Mr. McIrvine will be present at the grand concert on Thanksgiving evening in the Markdale Methodist Church. Secure your reserved seats at Stephenson's jewelry store.
A French misogynist has calculated with irrefragable logic of mathematics that a woman of three score and ten years has spent nearly a year before the mirror. Women as a rule are proverbially not strong on mathematics but we fancy there are lots of them who are able to show that the average man of that age has spent much more time in much less profitable places.
Rev. W. W. Ryan of Rocklyn will preach in the Methodist church on Sunday morning next, and the service throughout will be in harmony with the Thanksgiving season. In the evening the service will be patriotic—commemorative of the Centenary of Trans-Atlantic service. The pastor will draw lessons from the life and victories of Lord Nelson. Special and appropriate music by the choir at both services.

She leaves two sons, James H., in the post office, Toronto, and George, in the Civil service, Ottawa. Monday, the place at Hanover on Monday. The intelligence of her death stirred a sympathetic chord throughout the south riding of Grey.

Christ Church W. A.

A special meeting of the W. A. of Christ Church was held at the rectory Monday evening. There was a large attendance and a very enjoyable time was spent. The devotional services were conducted by the Rev. J. R. Newell. He then reviewed in brief order the work which the Auxiliary had accomplished during the past year and said that the two bales of goods, now ready for shipment, valued at $158.15, were an evidence of the amount of good work which had been done. A pleasing part of the program of the evening was the presentation of a membership cross to Mrs. A. Elliott. Mrs. Elliott was wholly taken by surprise, and in a few broken words expressed her grateful acknowledgement. The Rev. G. M. Frankly, who was present, made a few happy remarks. Light refreshments were served later on. Besides the two bales already referred to, another bale of hamper of goods is being collected, which will be sent to the Dyncor hospital, Selkirk, Manitoba. In all about $175 will be the value of goods sent to missions by the W. A. of Christ Church this year. This is certainly an excellent showing.

A Visit at the Soo.

While visiting for a couple of weeks recently at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Mr. W. Stephens met with the following ex-residents of this part: Mr. George Lamb, who is conducting a prosperous grocery store; W. H. Moore, an extensive wood dealer; Arthur P. and Charlie Moore, paying grocery business; Henry Williams, who has just retired from a paying milk business, his son and son-in-law succeeding him; John Williams is doing an extensive business in the milk business; Edward Fagen and wife, aged and hearty and well fixed. They are ten miles out, at Dutton p.o. Their son, Meredith, superintends the farm; then Duncan and James Arnot, John McCallum, Joe Hewitt, Hugh Smart, Thos. Smart, Sam Fagen, George Wright and others, all in comfortable circumstances. W. J. enjoyed his visit among old neighbors very much.

House of Refuge Notes.

(By an Inmate.)
The grain crop on this place was threshed on Thursday last and turned out very good. Mr. Sol Hill did the work. Some of the old fellows' minds will now be set at rest, as there will be no ponding out the grain with a fall this coming winter.
Although there have been some bad cases under medical treatment in this house, yet we do not think there has been a worse one than that of John McIntyre, the paralyzed inmate from Glenelg, admitted about three weeks ago. He is in a most precarious and pitiable condition and a burden to the institution. Nevertheless, he is getting as much careful attention day and night as the inadequate resources of the house will permit. His attendants are a couple of badly crippled but otherwise comparatively healthy inmates, who are most assiduous in their attentions to their suffering comrade.
Robert W. Cooper, of Proton, was admitted to the Home on Tuesday last. He is the youngest inmate in the Home, being only in his 46th year, but is nearly blind as well as incapacitated from labor in other respects. He expresses himself as highly pleased with the Home, which he found to be far in excess of his previous anticipations.
Archibald Lookhart, at his own request, left the Home on the 3rd inst., to try and better his condition in the outside world. Archibald was the father of the Marshalsea, being the first admitted on opening day, 23rd June, 1904. He was one of the few outside workers and generally kept himself busy. He thinks he can manage for a while longer, since he has got rid of his lameness, which was the cause of his coming here.

Mrs. Javens, cousin to Mr. Harness, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Kibbo, and infant, spent a day last week with Mr. Harness and family. Mrs. J. is a young looking grandma, and the infant is a very young looking child.
Miss Lou Harrison, of Owen Sound, spent Friday with the managers, returning to Owen Sound, by the night train.
Your scribe owes his thanks to ye editor for the Toronto Daily News, which comes to him regularly from the publishers.
Thanks are due to Mrs. Allen, Kimberley, for a quantity of ripe pears for the old lady inmates.
One would imagine that in this enlightened twentieth century the superstitious past generations were nearly stamped out and yet there are individuals at the present day whose belief in witchcraft is as deep rooted as that of their forefathers of two centuries ago, and in none more than the assistant dairyman of this institution. Not only does he firmly believe in the dancing sun and the braying of asses in Ireland each Easter morn, but his faith in the evil eye is equally as firmly deep seated. A few days ago when engaged in churning in the basement, the butter was tedious in making its appearance, and he vehemently attributed the cause to the fact that one of the old ladies had passed by a couple of times during the operation and cast evil glances at the churn and churner ivy time she passed. His irascibility was intense but only reached its zenith when one of the old fellows (a Lowland Scotchman, by the way) passed by, carrying a scuttle of coal to the kitchen range. This was the climax of his indignation, and he vowed by all the roses in a yard of Scotch tweed that he would never churn again if there were any auld weemien or coal havers around.

On Sunday, the 8th inst., there were 165 outside attendants at our divine service. Not only was the service room literally packed, but the corridor was largely occupied and some went away for want of convenient standing room. Miss Ford being unavoidably absent. As previously announced, Mrs. Simmonds, the blind inmate, read the scripture lesson, Isaiah 63, clearly and distinctly from her faded type edition; she also sang the hymn, "Abide With Me," in a manner that would be a credit to any many years her junior, accompanying herself on the organ. The discourse on "Good Works," by one of the male inmates, as previously announced, was not, however, consummated. The speaker chose his text from Psalm 37: 3, "Trust in the Lord and do good." After closely drawing the attention of his hearers for about fifteen minutes he suddenly collapsed. Any attempt to proceed would have been futile, as a relapse of the malady which a couple of weeks ago had suddenly seized him while writing, causing a temporary loss of memory and a dazed condition for two or three days afterwards, was the occasion of the failure. He had felt quite well again before Sunday and felt capable of fulfilling the announcement, regrets his failure, hopes on some future occasion again take up the subject. Mr. Egan, of Markdale, kindly took charge of remainder of the service.

We understand that altogether there were about 500 bushels of grain threshed, which was a good turnout for the acreage.
Since commencing to write these items McIntyre has taken a turn for the worse and appears to be rapidly sinking.

Another large gathering assembled at our divine service on Sunday last. The Rev. J. S. I. Wilson preached a most forceful and eloquent sermon from Matthew 11: 28, which drew the profound attention of his audience. The Rev. gentleman expressed his appreciation of the great interest also being manifested in these services; also his regret that his duties prevented him from giving a more frequent bath service at the Home. Mr. J. J. brought a number of new hymn books, suitable for non-sectarian services, as announced on the previous Sunday; a collection was taken up to assist in paying for the books. The collection amounted to $1.60, to which was added $2.35, which was handed in by the Manager on the previous Sunday. A balance of $3.00 and some cents yet remains to be paid. The usual after service was conducted by Mr. Egan. Mrs. Simmonds again sang "The Old fashioned family bible," by accompanying herself on the organ. The old lady says the organ is too much for her voice and she will in future have her accompaniment if called on again.

Miss Lillian Walker, of Toronto, and Miss Maude Frost, of Owen Sound, returned home Monday after visiting their friend, Miss Harness, for a week.
Priceville
Intended for last week.
Artemesia Fall Fair at Priceville was a great success. The receipts at the fair were record breakers for the year. The concert at night was also a success as it should be when such good talent was secured.
The weather still keeps us and potato digging is the order of the day.
