A Loveless Marriage

OR A MATTER OF EXCHANGE

CHAPTER XIV

Mrs. Vereker rose to go. "It is getting late," she said...

She looked so wonderfully bright and light-hearted...

"Are you going to church?" said Dorothy. "Well, so am I..."

"Why, indeed? I'm glad you thought of it before it was too late..."

"Do you always go to church in the evening?" asked she...

"Always in the summer, and autumn, and as long as the light and dry weather lasts..."

"Why do you not trust me?" he said. "Why will you encourage this..."

"I would not do," she said. "It would be impossible for me to do that..."

"You are very kind," she said. "I am sure you will do what is best..."

"I am sure you will do what is best," she said. "I am sure you will do what is best..."

"I am sure you will do what is best," she said. "I am sure you will do what is best..."

CHAPTER XV

"This is my way," she said. "I am sure you will do what is best..."

"I am sure you will do what is best," she said. "I am sure you will do what is best..."
