WHAT IS EDUCATION?

There has always been a mistaken notion about the educated man. The feeling is that only the product of our schools and colleges, the man who can speak faultless English and read and write with ease, is educated. It is because no educated man believes this that the following is penned:

What is meant by an educated man? Is it a man who can read and write and spell? Is the un-educated man the man who can neither read nor write? We hear of a certain man who has made a success in life, but, and they emphasize the but, he has no education. This is the sheerest nonsense.

The educated man is the man who thinks, who has the developed brain power.

It is immaterial whether he ever saw the inside of a school or not. Some of the greatest men of to-day have been very poor scholars, if we judge them by reading and writing, but they are educated men. There are many who pass through school and university who are not educated, they are only learned parrots, or scholar boobies, and as soon as they leave school sink back into ignorance.

Robert Burns was surrounded by a flock of such ilk, who thought because they could speak correct English, they were educated, and because Burns had never received any college training he was uneducated.

They therefore thought he was a prodigy, he was an educated man. The world of nature was his college, and he was his own teacher.

His eyes were open to the secrets and mysteries of the world, and "He saw tongues in trees, Sermons in stones, Books in running brooks,

And good in everything."

Robert Burns was one of the best educated men of the 18th century.

Again, we hear the late Mr. Moody was uneducated. He was one of the greatest students and thinkers of modern times. He thought mission halls, institutional churches, schools and colleges into being all the world over.

Education consists in a trained mind and weight of brains—undoubtedly school and college will put a better finish on; but it is a sad thing to judge a machine altogether by the paint. There is all the difference in the world between an educated man and an uneducated man. Public school education, or even a college degree, is no guarantee that the person is educated, properly speaking; on the other hand, the fact that a man has had little or no schooling is no criterion that he is uneducated. We constantly find some of the cleverest men in the country who never had any book learning at all. Most emphatically do we point to our schools as the best means and methods of education; but since education is a mental training, and the educated man is the man who has stores of information, a rich experience and a trained mind, we judge him by what he is and not by the process.

Field Marshall Earl Roberts has presented a trophy for competition in rifle shooting between teams of eight schoolboys of 16 years of age and under, of British parentage, throughout the Empire, the competition to take place during the current year, 1908. The team to represent Canada will be selected by the Department of Militia and Defence from teams entering and competing in the Cadet series of the Canadian Rifle League, 1908.

Major Winter, secretary of the C. R. I., has suggested that the three leading teams in the series be brought to Ottawa during the D. R. A. and the eight best marksman selected in a test match to precede the regular contest.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Lawrence, of Heathcote, former pastor of this place, in the presence of a few intimate friends of the bride. To the Public.

Having taken over the business formerly managed by Scott & Davis, I am prepared to do all kinds of painting, paperhanging and decorating. Call and see my sample books of wallpaper. I have papers to suit both in quality and price. Also some paper in stock.

W. C. DAVIS,
Markdale.

Making a Change.

This is to notify my patrons that in the course of a few weeks I will be moving my laundry plant and household furniture into more spacious quarters on Toronto street next to R. W. Ennis' harness shop. The sign will be placed on top of the building, so that you will all know just where to bring your parcel. I have been here over five years and have tried to please you all, so that with more room, better equipment, and living right on the spot I don't think you will have much fault to find with the Markdale Steam Laundry. Date of removal will be advertised later on.

Yours Respectfully,

W. J. SMITH.

HIGH PRICES FOR SHIRTS.

The "Scottish Farmer" says: "There is a good demand for Shire Horses in England just now, if we may judge from the prices obtained at sales. Thirty-five animals from the Tring Park Stud of Lord Rothschild were disposed of on February 13th at an average of $1,330. The highest price was $4,500, by Lord Winterstoke. The stallion Reliance VI, brought $4,000, and King Edward gave $2,000 for a yearling colt called Future King. At the Tatton sale at Peterborough, an average of $475 was secured, while one stallion brought $4,300."

AUSTRALIA'S OWN.

The National Anthem when sung in Australia will in future bear the following additional verse:

Far from the Empire's heart,

Make us a worthy part;

God save the King!

Keep us for ever thine,

Our land, thy southern shrine,

And in thy grace divine,

God save the King!"
